10 MILLION ARABS VOTE FOR FEDERATION

APPROXIMATELY 10 million persons in three Arab states voted Wednesday for a federation that will gather together nearly half the population of the Arab world. The voting took place in Egypt, Libya and Syria. Political sources in Beirut said it was the first referendum in modern history to be held simultaneously in three Arab countries. They predicted a massive "yes" vote for the federal constitution. The federation would have a total population of 42 million. The Arab world population is 100 million. It would combine vast cash resources from Libya, which has an oil revenue of $1 billion annually, with Egyptian political and technical expertise and Syria's agriculture and growing oil industry. Leaders of the three nations have described the link-up as the Arab answer to Israel. It is the first positive move toward Arab unity since Syria, Egypt and Iraq signed a federal pact in 1963. That association, however, never functioned.

NIXON POSTPONES FEDERAL PAY INCREASES FOR 6 MONTHS

PRESIDENT NIXON formally postponed for six months a $1.3 billion, Jan. 1 pay raise for servicemen and federal employees, and hinted Wednesday he might also delay another raise scheduled for the following October. The President's action implemented one phase of the economic program he announced to the nation Aug. 15. Virtually all government workers and members of the military — 4,850,000 of them — would be affected. In a message to Congress, Nixon said he was taking the action "to clearly signify the good faith of the federal government as a major employer and to continue to set an example for the American people in our striving to achieve prosperity in peacetime." Under the President's action, "comparability" increases that normally would go into effect next January will be postponed until July, 1972. These are pay increases designed to keep federal and military salaries at the levels commensurate with jobs in private industry and are based on semiannual surveys.

JOHNSON ECONOMIST ASSAILS NIXON'S TAX CUT PLAN

ARTHUR M. OKUM, chief Johnson administration economist, attacked President Nixon's tax cut proposals Wednesday as "economically and socially unjustifiable" and urged deferring Social Security payroll tax boosts due Jan. 1 to ease the burden on consumers. He applauded the wage-price freeze, and suggested voluntary "mutual de-escalation" by labor and business once it ends under a formula that would limit wage and salary increases to 5 per cent a year and industrial prices to a rise of 1 or 2 per cent annually. Okun's testimony before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee that "I cheer the President's decision to take the handcuffs off the dollar in world markets" coincided with the first extensive revaluation of the Soviet ruble in a decade in acknowledgement of the dollar.

OFFICIALS EYE CALIF. BAN ON TAXES FOR SCHOOLS

LEGISLATORS, education and legal officials throughout New England have adopted a "wait and see" attitude on the California Supreme Court's ban on the use of property taxes to finance public education. A UPI survey showed only Rhode Island seems in a position to possibly sidestep repercussions of the decision. Elsewhere in the six-state region, the decision could have quite an effect, the survey showed. The California Supreme Court said Monday it was unconstitutional for local property taxes to underwrite education costs because pupils in school districts with a low tax base don't have the same chance for equal education as pupils in a more affluent district. In Massachusetts, Education Commissioner Neil V. Sullivan, a former superintendent of schools in Berkeley, Calif., ordered his staff to obtain a copy of the 73-page decision to study its potential impact. He noted the ruling applied only to California since it was handed down by a state court. But the case clearly could have national implications because many states, like California, use property tax money to help finance public education.

FBI OBTAINS WARRANT FOR BINGHAM'S ARREST

THE FBI obtained a federal fugitive warrant Wednesday for radical attorney Stephen Mitchell Bingham, charged with five counts of murder in the San Quentin Prison escape attempt. U.S. Magistrate Owen E. Woodruff Jr., in San Francisco, signed the warrant charging unlawful flight across state lines to avoid prosecution, after FBI agents said they believed Bingham has "fled the state of California." Bingham, 28, the Yale-educated grandson of a former Connecticut governor and U.S. Senator, is accused of smuggling a gun to black revolutionary convict George Jackson Aug. 21, touching off a rampage at the California prison in which Jackson and five others died. Bingham has not been seen since a few hours after the incident, and the FBI noted that he held "a valid passport." The gun was believed delivered to Jackson in a tape recorder and hidden under a black "Afro" wig the convict was wearing.

VOLPE URGES UNION MEMBERS TO SUPPORT FREEZE

TRANSPORTATION Secretary John A. Volpe, an ex-hod carrier who became a millionaire and three-term governor of Massachusetts, urged union members throughout the nation Wednesday to support President Nixon's freeze on prices and wages. "As a former card holding union member, and a former hod carrier, I can appreciate the effect of the President's new economic policy on wages," Volpe said in Boston. But I know union members are good, patriotic Americans who will stand up for what is right. Although they certainly want their raises, I'm sure union workers don't want their raises eroded by inflation," he said. "I'm sure the rank and file workers want to halt inflation just as much as everyone else does." Volpe said he had discussed his remarks with the President before he delivered them at a meeting with newsmen before ceremonies dedicating a $75.4 million rapid transit extension between Boston and Quincy. The 6.25 mile South Shore extension of the MBTA line opens to the public today and is expected to carry 10,000 commuters daily.

MILT SCHMIDT SIGNS 2-YEAR PACT AS BRUINS MANAGER

HOCKEY Hall of Famer Milt Schmidt has been signed to a new two-year contract as general manager of both the Boston Bruins and their Braves farm club, the National Hockey League club announced Wednesday. Schmidt, 53, who built the Boston squad that won the Stanley Cup in 1969-70 and the Prince of Wales trophy last season, will serve as chief executive of both the parent Bruins and their new American Hockey League Club, the Boston Braves, according to an announcement by Bruins President Weston W. Adams, Jr.

Rice New Appointee

Mayor Monte G. Basbas recently administered the oath of office to Francis J. Rice of Auburndale as a new member of the Newton Recreation Commission. Mr. Rice's appointment is to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Annis Ascoli, and he will be representing Ward Four on the Commission.

Fireworks Fail To Appear at Meeting

The Aldermanic Land Use Committee attempted Monday night to weigh the right of a property owner to make a profit from his land against the right of neighbors to be insulated from the noise and nuisances of a business. About forty anxious residents sat in on the hearing, but the promised fireworks failed to explode.

The problem for the aldermen is that, according to attorney Martin Greenblatt, counsel for property owner Rose Pentabone, the rights of the business — Mary Jane's Baker, at the corner of Elm and River St. in West Newton — date back further than the rights of the residents. Greenblatt told the aldermen that when Mrs. Pentabone bought the property in 1936, the entire lot was zoned for business.

Subsequently, when the city went through a general rezoning in 1953, a line was drawn across the property and the rear section, already in use as a parking lot, was zoned as Residence D (for two-family houses and garden apartments).

Safety Patrols For 76 School Stations

Chief William F. Quinn of the Newton Police Department announced that on Wednesday, September 8, a full complement of men and women will again supervise school crossings at seventy-six (76) locations.

The Chief pointed out that changes in school policy at both Newton and Newton South High School regarding "open campus" could change both vehicular and pedestrian traffic in the approaches to both schools, and that such traffic in and out might well be continual.

He went on to state that some elementary schools would be dismissing kindergarten, due to lengthened sin-

Aldermen Lukewarm To Proposed Area Council

Members of the Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee of the Board of Aldermen expressed fear that Neighborhood Area Councils proposed by the Newton Charter Commission could turn out to be a "monster" as far as the aldermen are concerned.

"I've always valued listening to both sides of an issue and then, rightly or wrongly, making an independent decision," declared Rules Committee Chairman Eliot Cohen. "If neighborhood councils were set up the aldermen could become the pawn of whatever pressure group was strongest in the ward," he predicted.

Charter Commission Chairman Florence Rubin, who was presenting the final sections of the charter before the Monday night meeting of the Legislation and Rules Committee, argued, "Neighborhood councils don't create pressure groups. There already are pressure groups throughout the city. What the councils would do is to encourage more active participation by residents," she asserted.

"Only 50 per cent of the voters in this enlightened city vote in municipal elections," Mrs. Rubin declared, stressing that there is a genuine need for the area councils.

Charter Commission proposals on Nominations and Elections (Article 8) were also reviewed by the Legislation and Rules Committee.

Position of candidates' names on the ballot, under the proposed Charter, would be chosen by lot. "Incumbents have enough advantages in an election without the additional advantage of having their names come first on the ballot as they presently do," explained Mrs. Rubin.

Section 83A increases the number of signatures required for candidates to get on the ballot. "If someone wants to

Critical Crossfire Confronts NRA At Land Use Meeting

Upwards of thirty sputtering Newton Lower Falls and West Newton residents milled in the corridor outside a closed-door session of the Aldermanic Land Use Committee at City Hall Monday night, waiting for a chance to express their feelings about Redevelopment and the reapportionment of Monsignor John M. Quirk to the Redevelopment Authority.

There were two kinds of complaints. One group of Lower Falls people was upset because they felt their houses were being taken by the Redevelopment Authority without adequate compensation.

Each person pushed forward to tell his story. The clamor of accents — Irish, Italian, Swedish — revealed the old-world flavor of the little Lower Falls community.

William Renke, of 23 Atherton Place, boomed, "This Redevelopment only hurts old people and poor people. I've lived in this house for 26 years. I worked in a hospital for 29 years with no vacations to pay off this house. And now I've paid off the mortgage. I'm living on social security. How do they expect me to pay the upkeep on a new house? Do they think I can eat the clippings from the grass on the front lawn?"

John McGintiss, of 25 Atherton Place, wanted to tell his story, too. "I have 27,000 feet of land, with an eight-room house. They offered me $25,000 for it. And the homes they want to offer me are shacks."

Mr. McGintiss complained that the Redevelopment Authority is trying to relocate him in homes that are worth at least $10,000 less than his own home. In addition, McGintiss stated that the reason the Redevelopment Authority decided to clear an area in Lower Falls, was because of several dilapidated properties, all of which belong to one property owner, Abraham Ginsberg. McGintiss claims that the Authority wants to relocate him into another Ginsberg property, as dilapidated as the ones being torn down.

"And where can you buy a decent house in Newton for $30,000 or $35,000?" interjected Mrs. Sheila McGintiss.

"There's a difference between market value and replacement value," agreed Alderman William Carmen. The Federal Government's Department of Housing and

Boston Campaign For Mayor Is Entering Crucial Stages

Boston's mayoralty campaign, which is being watched by people all over Massachusetts and beyond the borders of the State, will see its candidates narrowed down to two contenders when the people in the capital city go to their polling places to vote in the Sept. 14 preliminary municipal election.

In some respects this is one of the more unusual battles which has been waged in modern times for the right to serve as Boston's Mayor although to date there has been no indication whatever of any great public interest in it.

Mayor Kevin H. White is making a strong comeback drive after losing his home city last year both in his bid for the Democratic nomination for Governor and in his final election clash with Governor Francis W. Sargent.

Speed Trap Planned At Newton South HS

If you go speeding down Newton streets this year, your neighbor may turn you in.

Speaking at a hearing of the aldermanic Street Traffic Committee Thursday night, Newton Police Chief William F. Quinn told parents about a modified form of citizens' arrest for speeding.

"All we need is a letter from a witness, with a description of the car, the license plate number, the date, the time, and (if possible) the ages and number of people in the car."

Rate parents turned up in force to demand that a policeman be posted near the Newton South High School on Brandeis road. Pointing out that the safety of students from Oak Hill Elementary School and Meadowbrook Junior High School, as well as from the high school, is at stake, Judith (Mrs. David) Rosenthal, stressed, "I want my first grader to be able to walk to school in the morning."

They were backed up by testimony from principals William D. Geer and Irwin Freedman from Newton South High School and Meadowbrook Junior High. "There are accidents every year at the curve on Brandeis Road. We've been extremely fortunate that there have been no serious accidents so far," declared Mr. Geer.

The parents and principals were met with various responses by officials from the Newton Police Department, the Department of Public Works, the Registry of Motor Vehicles, and the board of aldermen.

Police Chief William F. Quinn told parents that citizens' complaints could be the most powerful tool for curbing speeders, if they were properly registered. "We'll call the speeders down to the station and show them the complaints we've got on them," said the chief. "We're putting them all into a little file."

If letter-writers are willing to do so, they may also testify against a speeding motorist in Newton District Court.

There will also be saturation patrolling of the area around Newton South High and Oak Hill School by radar traffic cars, the chief pledged.

Officials Gilbert Sullivan, from the Traffic Engineering Section of the State Department of Public Works, and Charles Gotgart of the Registry of Motor Vehicles promised that a survey would be taken Monday to set a speed limit on Brandeis Road. A regulation will probably be in the hands of the aldermen by tomorrow, and may be voted on at the September 13 meeting of the board.

"In a speed zone, arrest by a radar car can be instantaneous," Gotgart informed the parents. "Once you start booking, they get convicted, and we start taking their licenses away you're going to see a change in the attitudes of drivers," he predicted.

Parents were dubious about the effectiveness of signs in curbing speeders. "The only thing that will make them slow down is a blue uniform," said Mrs. Frank Keselman who told the aldermen that she lived at the corner of Oldfield and Hagen Roads, "with my very own stop sign and my very own weekly traffic accident."

To parents who insisted that a police lady would still be needed during school crossing hours on Brandeis Road, Alderman Malthew Jackson, Chairman of the Street Traffic Committee, explained that since the budget had already been approved, only a special order from the mayor could provide money for a policeman this year.

Alderman David Jackson suggested that as a demonstration of their concern, the women organize crews of mothers to help the children cross to school each morning.

Salesmen who make appointments for home visits, such as Avon Cosmetics Company representatives are exempt from the ordinance, and "Girls Scouts don't count," because they are a charitable organization, according to Alderman Cohen.

Redistricting Transfers 7,000 Voters to New Wards

Sometime during the first two weeks of October, about 7,000 of the approximately 48,000 registered voters of Newton will receive notice that they now belong to different wards.

Except for a handful of voters on the North Side, in Ward 7, precinct 1, who have been pushed out of the Underwood School by renovations, and will now vote at the Bigelow Junior High School as members of Ward 1, most people will still vote at the same polling places. But for purposes of city elections, they will be members of new wards.

But only for the purposes of city elections. Elections in '72 for state representative, state senator and governor's council (the people who approve appointments to judgeships) will be conducted under the old ward lines, and the 7,000 voters who are being switched to new wards will be back in their old wards for the 1972 state election.

How did we arrive at such a confusing state of affairs? It all began back in 1968 when the now-famous Plymouth County D.A. Edmund Dinis (of the Chappaquiddick case) took the city of Newton to court, on behalf of some private citizens, alleging that Ward lines were not properly drawn and that the city's eight wards were not equal in population.

The city agreed that the wards were not balanced — the smallest, Ward 7, had only 4,300 registered voters, while the average Newton ward had about 6,000 voters. The city explained that state law forbade cities and towns to redistrict until 1974.

Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr., ruled that the state law applied only to state elections. He ordered the city to draw up new ward lines, for the city elections of 1971. He added that a city-wide census must be taken during 1970, as a basis for reapportioning the wards.

So the elections department took the census, and carved what they called "swing precincts" out of the overpopulated wards. People in these ten swing precincts were to vote in the new wards for city elections, and in the old wards for state elections.

The biggest change occurs in Ward 7, which was fattened from 4,317 registered voters in 1970, to 6,168 as of July 1, 1971. The Chestnut Hill area, formerly Ward 6, precinct 3, has become Ward 7, precinct 1. Most of Ward 6, precinct 1 (the area between Commonwealth Ave. and Beacon St., up to Centre St.), has been put into Ward 7, precinct 5.

In Thompsonville, half of Ward 6, precinct 5, (running from Newton Centre Square up Langley Rd. to Route 9, the area on the left-hand side) is now Ward 7, precinct 6. Ward 7, precinct 7 now includes 10 and 10 Hammond Pond Parkway, which used to be in Ward 8, precinct 2. Ward 7, precinct 7 also includes the Imperial Towers, and neighboring property along Route 9.

Because of the swing precincts, the number of precincts in Newton rose from 32 to 42. Since these precincts are chunks carved out of old wards, they vary greatly in size. Although the redistricted wards vary no more than 3 percent in population, precincts range from a low of 78 to a high of 1,800 registered voters.

This variety in the size of precincts has no effect on elections, since all voting is tabulated by wards. But it does mean that some voters have to go further to get a polling place than others.

The elections department would like the state to recognize the city of Newton's new ward lines for the purposes of state as well as city elections, so that the swing precincts can be abolished. The city of Newton filed a bill to this effect in state legislature, and the elections department drew up new precinct lines, which were approved by the Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee, Monday night, pending approval of the Ward lines by the state.

If the bill in the state house passes, Newton will have eight new wards and 32 more - or - less equal precincts. Swing precincts will be merged into other precincts and everyone will vote in the new wards for both city and state elections.

Besides the Newton bill, there is a more general bill which would allow all cities and towns in the Commonwealth to redistrict this year, and to balance their wards. That bill if passed would also have the effect of making the swing precincts unnecessary.

Why does the state have the right to approve or disapprove city Ward lines? Because city wards are the building blocks out of which state representative and state senatorial districts are built.

Redistricting at all levels is bound to have an impact on elections. City of Newton election department officials note that this formerly Republican city now has 21,000 registered Democrats, and only 11,000 Republicans. (The other 15,000 voters did not declare a party, or are Independents.) What effect these statistics will have on the state legislators who must approve the new ward lines, it is difficult to say.

But, because of an amendment introduced by Robert Quinn in 1970, the census for redistricting will be held every ten years in years ending in 1, and it will be applied to the state election in the year ending in 4.

This means that if the Newton census based on the new ward lines is not approved

Tem. Emanuel's Religious School Has Registration

The Rabbi Albert I. Gordon Religious School of Temple Emanuel, Newton, is now in the process of conducting registration for new students in all departments. Interested parents are urged to register their children at the School Office.

The educational program is based on the standard curriculum of the Boston Bureau of Jewish Education within the framework of the philosophy and objectives of the Conservative movement. The Temple Emanuel school system maintains three departments in addition to a Nursery School and houses the Regional High School of Jewish Studies.

The Primary Department, for children ages 5, 6 and 7, meets on Sunday mornings and strives to provide the young students with rich and varied opportunities for pleasurable experiences in Jewish living.

The Three-Day-A-Week Hebrew Department offers a six year course of study in Hebrew language, Bible, prayer, Jewish life and practices, and social studies. The graduate of this department are eligible to continue their studies at the Regional High School of Jewish Studies.

The Intensive Hebrew Department offers a six year intensive Hebrew course of study in language, Bible, religious practices and Jewish social studies. The graduates of this department are eligible to continue their studies at the High School of the Hebrew College.

This year (1971), approval will be postponed 10 years (until 1981), and Newton voters will be using the swing precincts until the state election of 1984.

The Chief said, "The motorist and his or her alertness and good driving in the past has made our streets reasonably safe; we again appeal to our drivers to maintain alertness and caution at all hours." Chief Quinn added a message to parents:

"It is our hope that parents would walk kindergarten and first graders to school until they are completely familiar with the route to school and the time it takes to and from, and in addition, that parents insist that children use school approved routes and cross only at approved crossings marked with crosswalks.

The Police Department Safety Division's Lt. Thomas Dargan, Sgt. Charles Feeley, and Safety Officers Robert Braceland and Gilbert Champagne will supervise crossing guards, establish "safe-walking" routes, and work with the school authorities, P.T.A. Groups, and interested persons to improve safety efforts and attitudes in the Newton Community.

In conclusion, the Chief stated, "We hope the parents will join the school authorities and the Police Department in our effort to provide safe passage to and from school and should do the following:

1. point out the importance of cross walks.
2. point out dangerous areas.
3. insist that children follow recommended routes.
4. teach children to observe dangers at every driveway.
5. teach children to observe dangers at blind corners.

Angry Scotland Yard

Scotland Yard, Britain's efficient but traditionally closemouthed counterpart of our FBI, threw a verbal bombshell into the laps of England's news media the other day.

Reverberations have yet to die down. Two of its senior investigators told the London Times that violent crime in the city was fast becoming as bad as in New York and Washington.

The two Yarders, voicing the anger of their service, treated the growing ranks of mobsters, bombers and armed robbers with highly deserved contempt, but they reserved their heaviest fire for "do-gooders," latter-day permissive-society advocates and, to the surprise of all who read their denunciations, to England's seldom-if-ever-criticized judiciary.

British courts, they opined, were becoming affected by the bland philosophies of the "do-good" and permissive brigades. Judges were becoming far too lenient in the matter of sentences and they were over-using such devices as paroles and suspended sentences to let criminals off easily.

The Yarders not only called for tougher jail terms but tougher prisons as well. Penal institutions, they said, should call for "more work and more discipline . . . no television . . . no choice of food . . . no weekend leaves . . ."

Britain's National Council for Civil Liberties was left aghast. The extent of its shock was reflected in the weak words of one of its top officers who observed that by "strengthening police power, you find a tendency toward increased crime."

England isn't apt to go back to the days when a pickpocket caught in the act might get himself hanged but like the United States it's beginning to find it necessary to take a good look at the road marked "Permissiveness."

Giants of Hackensack

Much of New Jersey's Hackensack Meadowland lies under water. The only life above-water areas can sustain are some weeds despised by man, beast and fowl.

In 300 years many have tried but none has succeeded in figuring out the manner and means of developing those desolate swampy stretches of no-man's land.

Now the forlorn real estate, almost in the shadows of Gotham's skyscrapers is being acclaimed as the future home of the New York Giants football team. Along with the Giants, plans call for other sport complexes, high-rise apartments, commercial developments, industrial centers and a booming population of 200,000.

In an area of 20,000 acres, currently described as the world's largest garbage dump, the Giants plan a huge, modern stadium. They haven't made a habit of leading the National Football League in recent years but they are about to lead an exodus which must be the most unusual since professional sports' organizations began convincing themselves that life is better outside the big cities.

Boston is still trying to get accustomed to Foxboro as the home for the Boston-born Patriots. The Dallas Cowboys don't play their home games in Dallas but a town called Irving, Tex. Baseball's Twins, representing the Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, don't play in either St. Paul or Minneapolis. Their real home is in a town called Bloomington.

The Baltimore Colts are eyeing Columbia, Md., as the site for a new stadium. Buffalo's football team is frankly fed up with Buffalo and openly covets an invitation from one of its suburbs — almost any suburb.

In the span of a few years New York — long the self-proclaimed premier city of the U.S. for sports and entertainment — has lost three major league teams. Its baseball Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers set an example for the football Giants by eloping to California. If its Yankees abscond from the House-that-Ruth-Built, it will be down to baseball hard-pan and the Mets.

Boston and much of New England survived the shock when the Braves pulled up stakes and headed west 18 years back. In light of the present trend, do Red Sox fans have something more to worry about while their favorites are experiencing more downs than ups?

Maybe, they have good reason to hope for Tom Yawkey's continued good health.

Upper Falls Statement On Proposed Housing Mix Plan

Joseph H. Karlin, Esquire
Clerk
1000 Commonwealth Avenue
Newton, Massachusetts 02139
Dear Mr. Karlin:

Although I am writing as an individual in connection with the proposal for mixing low income and elderly on the Circuit Avenue - Thurston Road site, I believe that my sentiments fully reflect those of the residents of Newton Upper Falls as evidenced by a number of meetings of our people and the attendance of a great many of us during the vacation season at various hearings and meetings of the Housing and Finance Committees as well as those of the full Board of Aldermen.

I would like to set forth once again our basic position on this issue. We are in favor of housing exclusively for the elderly for the following reasons.

Although some housing for the elderly has been built in Newton, we recognize the continuing need for such housing in the city as a whole and in the Upper Falls in particular.

In spite of some feelings by others to the contrary, it is still our firm opinion that mixing low income and elderly is both impractical and undesirable. Regardless of attempts to separate such units by means of fencing, etc., the fact remains that the two types of housing are still in too close proximity to each other.

Regardless of what has been done in other sections of the country, and there are no indications as to whether or not the arrangement has been satisfactory, the Newton Housing Authority's own studies which are available to the Board of Aldermen indicate that such a mix has not worked in other Massachusetts communities and is, in fact, not desired by the elderly.

While older people certainly need the stimulus of younger people, such contact should be at opportunities of their own choosing and not forced upon them on a permanent basis.

Housing for the elderly has been constructed in other parts of Newton without including low income units. Why should the Upper Falls be treated differently?

The argument has been presented that low income housing will never be constructed in the more affluent sections of Newton because the rich will never accept the poor. This type of reasoning is virtually an insult to every less fortunate section of the city, and to proceed on this basis is a serious reflection on the motives and integrity of those who espouse such a position.

There have been arguments to the effect that the problems of the Upper Falls are no different from those of other less favored parts of the city. In the first place, is that a valid excuse to add to our problems to any degree whatsoever? In the second place, we feel that our problems are unique in some cases and more pressing in others.

Our people feel overwhelmingly that the Upper Falls is thought of by the rest of the city as a dumping ground for undesirable projects. For example, we shall not soon forget attempts to build the new incinerator in our area. Liquor licenses appear to be multiplied with abandon.

We also have two TV towers, and a glance at a zoning map indicates that perhaps seventy per cent of all the heavy manufacturing in the city is located in the Upper Falls. NCDF is still very much intent upon forcing down our throats a large number of low and intermediate housing units which would produce extremely damaging situations.

As historically the oldest section of the city, we have serious problems in the maintenance of properties, and the City of Newton, far from assisting us, compounds our difficulties by sending more and more of its welfare cases to live in the substandard housing of which far too much continues to exist. On the other hand, adequate recreational facilities in the Upper Falls and, indeed, in the entire south side of the city are conspicuous by their absence.

Figures given to us by the Newton Housing Authority itself indicate that seventy-five per cent of the families in their present rental program are broken families with no fathers. We know all too well, the type of problems such a situation creates, as for example, disciplinary problems in the schools. The result is that when our children go to the Junior and Senior High Schools, they carry with them the undesired reputation of the "tough Falls kids" and their difficulties are multiplied.

No wonder that the Upper Falls feels alienated from the rest of the city. Does the Board of Aldermen really feel that insistence upon four low income units is worth further alienation of an entire community and losing public support of the entire community for housing exclusively for the elderly?

Unlike some who are against low income housing when it is in their own locality and for it when the reverse is true, we are in principle against segregating people in low income housing everywhere.

This approach stigmatizes and labels such families unfairly, and makes it virtually impossible to assimilate them into a community in a satisfactory manner. We feel that this is true regardless of the size of the project. Whether it be a large, ten-year old, low income project in St. Louis, Missouri, which we understand is being demolished as unworkable, or four units in Newton Upper Falls, we feel that the segregating and labeling of low income families is psychologically damaging not only to the families involved but also to the entire community.

It is our opinion that the present approach of the Newton Housing Authority in its leasing program is much to be preferred and should be expanded as quickly as possible, by whatever means available, to cover the present and future needs of low income families.

Such an approach does not unfairly stigmatize and degrade such families, and has the further advantage of a true scatterization of families throughout Newton rather than placing them all in sections of the city which can least afford such an influx.

We in the Upper Falls are unilaterally and unanimously opposed to any additional low income units in our community, and shall continue to oppose such plans with every means at our disposal.

I therefore strongly urge the Board of Aldermen to approve housing exclusively for the elderly on the Circuit Avenue - Thurston Road site and thereby for once in many, many years give us what we can accept and, indeed, desire. I also urge the Board to consider the present leasing program of the Newton Housing Authority as a far more suitable approach to the problem of low income housing in the City of Newton.

Very truly yours,
FREDSON T. BOWERS, JR.

DON'T BE A TUESDAY STATISTIC!

- POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS -

White, of course, emerged the winner from the Democratic primary but without much help from the people he serves as Mayor. There are signs he has regained at least some of the popularity he lost while handling Boston's tough problems and making its hard decisions.

Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks and Mayor White were the opponents in the final 1967 mayoralty election after knocking out John Sears, present MDC Commissioner, former BRA Director Edward J. Logue and several lesser lights in the preliminary.

White was then Secretary of State. Mrs. Hicks was a member of the Boston School Committee. An out-of-state reporter wrote that White was a bland candidate. That hardly would be an apt description today. But White knows from experience the toll those hard problems and tough decisions take on a Mayor's popularity.

This is a do-or-die fight for White. If he loses, he must either retire from public life and devote himself to the practice of law or wait for an opportunity to start a new climb up the political ladder.

White, of course, is not discussing those possibilities. He expresses confidence he will win this fight. He must wonder sometimes what will happen if he is re-elected. More hard problems? More tough decisions? An observer watching from the sidelines wonders occasionally why anyone wants the thankless job of Mayor of Boston.

In 1967, when Kevin H. White and Louise Day Hicks were staging their battle for the right to serve as Boston's Mayor, three young men were among the candidates campaigning for seats in the City Council. They were Joseph F. Timilty, Thomas I. Atkins and John L. Saltonstall, Jr.

Timilty, Atkins and Saltonstall all were elected back in 1967. They have served a four-year apprenticeship in the City Council. They have been capable, conscientious Councilors. They are now asking to be promoted to the office of Mayor.

Of the three, Timilty probably has the best chance of surviving the important Sept. 14 preliminary test. He is offering himself as the alternative to those who don't want either Mayor White or Congresswoman Hicks.

Timilty is a handsome, hard-headed former young business executive and ex-marine, who will close down the Little City Halls his first day in office if he's elected Mayor because he doesn't believe the people get their money's worth from them.

Atkins is the first black candidate to stand for election as Mayor of Boston. He predicts he'll also be the city's first black Mayor. If he is, he adds, he'll be the Mayor of all the people of Boston, and the Mayor's office will not be turned into a branch of the NAACP.

Saltonstall is striving to become Boston's first Yankee Mayor since Malcolm E. Nichols headed the Hub's city government from the start of 1926 through 1929. He is a distant cousin of Leverett Saltonstall but is a Democrat and members of the ADA. He held several important positions in the State government when Endicott Peabody was Governor.

A strange issue has been injected into the mayoralty campaign by Saltonstall and the Boston Globe. The Globe obtained FBI transcripts of "bugged" conversations in the Providence office of alleged Mafia boss Raymond Patriarca back in 1964. The newspaper reported that the transcripts indicated the Mafia wanted to make a $10,000 campaign contribution to Francis X. Bellotti, then the Democratic nominee for Governor, that the crime syndicate tried to channel the money to Bellotti through a State official who is now a City official and the contribution was refused.

Saltonstall requested an investigation of the matter, and the Globe turned the "bugged" transcripts over to District Attorney Garrett Byrne who presumably can do exactly nothing with them. We hope we don't appear naive on the matter, but the transcripts do not seem to contain anything which would justify ruining the reputation of a city official.

A sixth candidate in the mayoralty field is a 20-year-old Socialist named John E. Powers, Jr., who is not to be confused with the John E. Powers who was president of the State Senate and now is clerk of the Supreme Court. The new Mr. Powers is expected to place sixth.

The mayoralty campaign is surrounded with several elements of confusion and uncertainty. One of these is that many people paid little attention to the issues and arguments during the summer vacation season and that the preliminary election battle probably will be won and lost in the final seven days before Sept. 14.

Average Person Worried By Taxes and Welfare Cheating

The average law-maker on Beacon Hill is discovering that his average constituent is deeply concerned about two basic issues.

He is less than enthusiastic over the idea that both his State and his city or town governments can and probably will require him to pay more taxes while his own income is frozen under President Nixon's wage-price edict.

Secondly, the average citizen is convinced that some of the tax dollars he is assessed to finance the operation of the State welfare system are distributed to crooks and chiselers. This leaves citizens in a state of indignation that could explode over the heads of some legislators in next year's election.

Most law-makers recognize that Governor Sargent's budget is not in balance and that some $250 million must be enacted next year to balance the budget. House Speaker David Bartley disclosed this information in his state-wide television talk, when he asked Governor Sargent how he proposes to get the $250 million.

Next year, incidentally, will be an election year for the legislators but not for Governor Sargent whose term runs until 1974 when he presumably will transfer the gubernatorial banner to Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight.

The Governor, incidentally, has better relations with the legislative leaders than he does with the rank and file of law-makers who are concerned about getting reelected next year.

Reports Say Heavy-Handed Gerrymander May Be Planned

Rumors are still being circulated on Beacon Hill that a bold, brazen political coup is being plotted.

To know the background to this, you should understand that before the 1972 congressional election the Legislature is supposed to revise the congressional districts so that all have approximately the same population.

The men who drafted the law providing that this be done undoubtedly assumed that the required revision of the congressional districts would be completed with as little fuss and furor as possible and only the changes actually necessary in the district.

But reports persist on Beacon Hill that this is shaping as the worst Gerrymander in Massachusetts history.

If the rumors are even partly true, Governor Sargent will be obliged to veto the redistricting bill, and his veto will be upheld in the strongly Democratic Legislature. If by any chance the measure were passed over his veto, it would be taken into court if it were even half as bad as the reports picture it.

The stories being turned out by the rumor will say the legislative committee drafting the proposed new congressional districts will try to defeat two Republican and one Democratic Congressman (Father Drinan) and will seek to set up at least one district for a present legislator and another for a friend of an influential law-maker.

Governor Sargent almost certainly would veto such a redistricting plan, and the strong likelihood is that his veto would be upheld. It is extremely difficult to produce a redistricting plan which satisfies the average legislator since he almost automatically evaluates his own chances of winning an election in a suggested new district.

The average Congressman is pretty popular in his or her own district. He is one public official who does not see his popularity erode away under the cares and problems of his office. A legislator who voted for an obviously unfair congressional redistricting plan might feel the public wrath on his own head.

Chides NRA For Inaction On 2 Critical Problems

Noting that the Newton Redevelopment Authority has not yet acted on two critical problems — its Chairmanship, and the selection of an Executive Director — Rep. Theodore D. Mann today urged members of the Authority "to resolve their differences and to act promptly and effectively on these matters."

"My strong conviction," Representative Mann declared, "is that our first concern must be of course the good of the city and its residents. I am sure that others, including members of the Authority, share this attitude and I look to an early solution of the problems which are now hobbling the Renewal program."

"I would hope that those involved in what essentially seems to be a conflict of personalities will step aside and permit the city to press ahead with its programs."

"Such changes in personnel," Rep. Mann pointed out, "are often found necessary even though the parties involved are able, public - spirited individuals. In anything as technical, complex and innovative as Renewal, it is small wonder that human resources become exhausted and it becomes necessary to secure replacements. This is understandable and should be accepted in this light."

"The Renewal Program is much too important to our city to be further delayed," Rep. Mann continued, "and I earnestly urge members of the Authority to act promptly to clear up these obstacles."

"At stake," said Rep. Mann, "is the redevelopment of the state and federal renewal areas in Newton, including about sixty units of new residential housing which are greatly needed. Road blocks to completion of these programs should be eliminated as soon as possible."

Speaking of Urban Renewal in general, Rep. Mann said: "We have gained much nationally and in our own city in experience and know-how, thanks to the pioneer efforts of those who originally undertook the assignments. We now know that it is possible to carry on renewal work effectively and in harmony with the advice, approval, and cooperation of the residents involved. It has been demonstrated that the application of common sense and good human relationships go a long way toward eliminating what in many cases have been justifiable objections. To succeed, programs must win broad community support and must provide for prior relocation of residents involved."

"When we consider the benefits to be gained — the updating and improvement of areas in our city — the importance of getting the Authority moving again looms large," Rep. Mann concluded.

Mofenson Seeks To Implement Law On Migrant Workers Here

Newton Rep. David J. Mofenson, sponsor of a bill to grant visitation rights to migrant workers, testified recently at hearings held by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health to determine means of implementing the legislation which was signed into law last month.

According to Rep. Mofenson, the legislation charged the Department of Public Health with the task of implementing the law mandating the Department to promulgate rules and regulations relating to migrants. The law also granted department power to enforce the laws by going to court to enjoin violations.

The hearings, which were held at Waltham and Holyoke, produced a large turnout of interested citizens and public officials. The bill is the first of its kind in the nation.

Mofenson voiced his support of two amendments to the Department's proposed regulations, both of which have been adopted. One, brought by the executive secretary of The Americans For Democratic Action, Shelley Cohen, would empower state, local and federal officials to visit migrant camps at any hour while on official business. A second amendment would allow physicians access to the premises during working hours.

According to Mofenson, "The Department, in a tentative draft of regulations, granted visitation rights starting at 6 p.m. or at the close of the working day, whichever is earliest, and until 10:30 p.m. or four hours after the close of the working day, whichever is latest."

Final regulations adopted by the Massachusetts Public Health Council earlier this month incorporated the visiting hours set forth in the tentative draft and carved out a large number of exemptions. The limitation on hours does not apply to federal, state, or local governmental agencies, departments or boards, physicians, dentists, clergymen, agencies funded in whole or in part by governmental funds, charitable and social agencies, and members of the press.

Pre-Kindergarten Program to Begin At Schechter Sch.

Mrs. Waldman will guide them to this end through the use of music, art, group activities and free time.

Jewish tradition is an integral part of this program and conversational Hebrew will be presented through songs, games and learning experiences. Mrs. Waldman will be assisted throughout the year by Mrs. Shlomit Mintz, Hebrew teacher, and a student teaching assistant.

Evening Division of Continuing Education Starts at Curry College

The creation of a Division of Continuing Education at Curry College in Milton and the launching of the first evening program in the College's history were announced this week by Curry President John S. Hafer.

The evening program, which will be the major phase of the new Division's overall program, will open Monday, Sept. 27 and will offer a wide variety of subjects, many of them innovative and bearing college credit.

Appointed director of the new Division of Continuing Education is Dr. Allan C. Greenberg of the college's history faculty. A graduate of Cornell University and the University of Illinois, from which he received his Ph.D. in 1967, Dr. Greenberg has taught at Southern Methodist University, Indiana University, and Rutgers University.

In announcing the creation of the new Division and the evening program, President Hafer said that an informal survey of residents in Milton and the surrounding area indicated that such a program would be welcomed.

Dr. Greenberg said, "Our aim in the new Division of Continuing Education is to offer formal and informal courses and programs which will effectively contribute to realizing education as a lifelong process, involving continuous self-development. It is hoped that the total program will prove to be relevant, flexible, and fully participatory."

Many of the courses are intended to cross the boundaries of traditional academic disciplines and go in new directions. In addition to the evening program, the Division eventually hopes to establish special programs, including Saturday Institutes dealing with specific questions and issues now facing mankind.

Speaks At Sept. 11 Rally . . .

Anti-War Vet Kerry Here To Back Carmen Camp'gn

John Kerry, prominent anti-war spokesman, will speak at a rally for Alderman William Carmen, Candidate for Mayor of Newton, on next Tuesday (Sept. 7). The rally will begin at 7 p.m. at the Bigelow Junior High School, 42 Vernon Street in Newton Corner.

Mr. Kerry explains his special interest in the Newton Mayoral Race by stating: "I am supporting Bill Carmen because his views reflect the human priorities and new approaches that we need in this country at every level of government. Bill Carmen has long been an outspoken opponent of the war, and he brings to urban government the same insights and conviction which brought him to that position."

Alderman Carmen has expressed his appreciation of Mr. Kerry's support of his candidacy, and praised Kerry's recognition of the importance of local government.

Mr. Carmen urged the Newton community to attend the rally and demonstrate its desire to become involved in municipal government as a means of managing those Newton's problems and those national problems that can be dealt with at the local level.

Tuesday Night's rally will feature both John Kerry and Alderman Carmen. Musical entertainment will also be provided.

run for Mayor and can't get 400 signatures, he'd better find out about it that early in the game," commented Mrs. Rubin.

Aldermen discussed a section which takes away the candidates' right to add eight explanatory words after his name (e.g. "veteran") on the ballot in general elections.

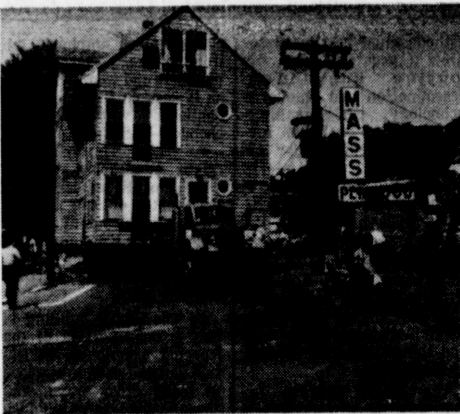

"In preliminary elections, it is useful for the voter to know what offices a candidate has previously held. But by the time of the general election, candidates should be known to the voter by their stands on issues," Mrs. Rubin told the committee.

While agreeing that the voter should recognize mayoral candidates by their stands on issues, the aldermen wondered whether voters could distinguish among the candidates for Board of Aldermen.

"I think so," said Mrs. Rubin, and added that in her opinion, not even the words "candidate for re-election" should not be allowed on the general election ballot. However, the Charter Commission has decided to retain this designation.

"Why do we have to adopt a whole new charter?" some committee members wanted to know. "Why can't we just adopt the sections we need?"

Mrs. Rubin cautioned against trying to amend the present charter piecemeal. "You end up having to make numerous little changes all through the charter, just to fit the sections to fit together," she cautioned the committee, reminding them of the piles of paperwork.

generated by trying to fit chapters on initiative and referendum into the old charter.

Having completed its study of the Charter, the Legislation and Rules Committee will now meet to discuss the document as a whole. Only four of the eight members were in attendance Monday night. "This is a discussion which will require a meeting of the full committee," Alderman Cohen asserted.

In other action, the committee turned down an Election Department request to use paper ballots in two underpopulated precincts. The Election Department explained that the use of paper ballots in the two small precincts would free voting machines for use in more populous precincts where voters must now stand in line during the evening rush on election day.

The Rules Committee felt that if paper ballots were used in two precincts and machines in all the rest, the city would be open to charges of inequality in election procedures. "Besides, you can't fight so hard to get voting machines get the sections to fit and then turn around and go back to paper ballots, commented Alderman Sidney Small.

Local Seaman In Asian Maneuvers

Navy Seaman Recruit Edward W. Elliot, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Elliot, Sr. of 2303 A Washington St., Newton, participated in the first night operation which simultaneously employed dual methods to refuel and resupply an underway aircraft carrier.

With the hazards of two ships steaming together at close refueling quarters intensified by South China Sea darkness, Elliot's ship, the nuclear powered attack aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, took fuel from the combat stores ship USS Sacramento by the familiar "highline" method.

At the same time, in another critical operation, the "Big E" was receiving vital supplies by helicopter transfer from the multi-mission Sacramento.

Humidifiers Can Harbor Bad Bacteria

Humidifiers in homes and offices help prevent parched throats and cracked furniture. But some humidifiers harbor bacteria that can cause lung disorders.

Dr. Donald R. Tourville—chief of immunology and bacteriology at St. Barnabas Hospital in Livingston, New Jersey—reports that bacteria growing in some humidifiers flourish at high temperatures. When inhaled, they can cause an inflammation of the air sacs of the lungs. Some humidifiers attached to forced-air heating systems as well as those that permit an accumulation of residual water can be particularly troublesome.

Chills, fever, and breathlessness are some of the symptoms of infection. But identifying the source of such generalized symptoms can take time. One 65-year-old man was hospitalized four times in three months before the offending bacteria were identified and traced to the humidifier. By then, the man had irreversible lung damage.

The owners of humidifiers, according to Dr. Tourville, must learn to drain the water reservoirs in their humidifiers and clean the system thoroughly every two or three weeks to prevent the growth of contaminants. So-called air-freshening additives, some researchers say, have not been tested long enough to know how effective they are.

Although some humidifiers have automatic flushing devices, many must be cleaned by hand. Unfortun-

Lady Prof Speaks Out

The nation's universities should provide examples for their young women students by hiring more female professors, especially on a part-time basis, says economist Rita R. Campbell of Stanford University's Hoover Institution.

Dr. Campbell believes universities have "failed miserably" to consider this emulative aspect in women's choices of life paths.

"Less than three per cent of tenured faculties are women, married or single," she said.

"Because of the prestige of these universities they attract the brightest of our young women and yet by mere example it is made clear to them that a professional career on the one hand and marriage and children on the other are separate paths, and only in exceptional circumstances is it possible to combine them."

nately, the construction of some humidifiers makes cleaning inconvenient or almost impossible. To get at the water pan, the entire apparatus must be dismantled. When buying humidifiers, ease of cleaning is one important feature to keep in mind.

To find out more about lung disorders and their causes, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Social Security Information

Private life insurance in the United States has grown in close parallel to social security survivor insurance during the past 20 years, according to Anthony C. Chiota, social security manager in Roslindale.

"The comparison suggests that survivor insurance, most of which protects the future of the dependents of relatively young workers who contribute to social security, has not displaced private life insurance, much of which is taken out on middle-aged and older lives," Chiota said.

A Social Security Administration analysis shows that the total face value of social security survivor insurance is now about $1.100 billion and the total face value of private life insurance in force is about $1,300 billion.

"Both have grown at nearly the same rate since the end of 1950, when the face value of social security survivors insurance was about $170 billion and private life insurance about $234 billion," he said.

In 1960 the corresponding amounts were about $503 billion for social security survivor insurance and $542 billion for private life insurance.

"The two have grown together, each meeting a social and economic need," Chiota said.

The face values of social security survivors and private life insurance in force at any given time are astronomical in the study because they represent what dependents and beneficiaries would be paid if all the insured persons died at once, Chiota explained.

Housing Subsidy For The Poor

By Norman Kempster

About 25 million American families—40 per cent of the nation's total population technically are eligible for some form of government subsidy to help purchase or rent a home.

Only about 2 million of those families are receiving help. The others are left out, either because they do not know they are eligible, they do not wish to accept a subsidy, or they just lost out in the bureaucratic process.

In its annual report to Congress on the nation's housing on the nation's administration expresses concern present policies are unfair to the 23 million left out.

"If all eligible families were subsidized cost would be astronomical," the report said. "Let unless major changes are made, as those programs continue to gain production momentum, it will be difficult to continue favoring a select few in the population while the rest of the nation is left to seek decent housing completely on its own."

"Since it is doubtful that the public, and hence the Congress, will be prepared to accept the staggering budgetary cost of a more global coverage toward which present housing subsidy programs may be forced to head, the time to make needed changes is rapidly approaching."

It did not suggest form of the changes.

Wedding Trip to The West Indies For The Freed

A wedding trip to the West Indies followed the marriage ceremony and wedding reception for Miss Arlene Ruth Gordon and Mr. David Lawrence Freed at Temple Tifereth Israel in Winthrop on Sunday (Aug. 29).

Rabbi Hyman Freedman presided at the simple early evening ceremony which was attended by the parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben S. Gordon of 42 Lewis ave., Winthrop, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Freed of 5 Winchester road, Newton. Participating in the ceremony also were grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Leah Lanstein of Winthrop and of the groom, Mrs. Rebecca Freed of Brookline.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a gown of silk organza trimmed with seed pearls and lace. Her full length veil was attached to a matching headpiece of lace and pearls.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Roberta Gordon of Winthrop and best man for his brother was Mr. Alan Freed of Newton.

Ushering the guests to their places were Mr. Gerald Gordon of Centerville, Va., Mr. Robert Tobin of East Palo Alto, Calif., Mr. Robert Lesuer of Waltham, Mr. Steven Burke of West Roxbury, Mr. Frederick Brehm of Allston and Mr. J. Kevin Hayes of Somersworth, N.H.

The bride is a graduate of Northeastern University and the New England Deaconess Hospital of Medical Technology and the groom is a graduate of Northeastern University's School of Engineering.

The couple will make their home in Gainesville, Fla., where the groom plans to attend the graduate school of the University of Florida.

gage payments on a home of their own to conventional public housing projects.

No Definition

The report does not include in its definition of "subsidy" the income tax deduction which home buyers may take for mortgage interest and property taxes although few would deny that the tax laws help many middle class families buy their own homes.

The report concentrates only on direct subsidy programs.

In addition to helping only a small percentage of those technically eligible, the report said, the subsidy programs are unfair because they often provide very little help to the poorest of families.

"At present, the maximum subsidy paid through a combination of programs is about $2,400 per unit per year, and this applies only in high cost areas," the report said.

"There remains, however, on each unit a residual amount of expenses which must be met out of the occupant family's own resources, and in many cases this residual is simply more than a poor family can afford."

"Given the kind of economics now prevailing in the housing market and the structure of present housing subsidy programs, it appears unlikely that the housing needs of the nation's poorest families would be fully met, even if the numerical goal of producing 26 million new starts during the 1969-78 decade is achieved."

New Rules For Eligibility In Joining Scouts

A boy who has completed the fifth grade or is eleven and with the approval of his parents or guardian is eligible now to become a Boy Scout, according to Adolf Andersen Jr., Scout Executive of the Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Formerly, boys had to be at least 11 years of age to join a Boy Scout troop, but the Executive Board of the national organization has changed the membership requirement so that a boy is eligible when he has "completed the fifth grade or is eleven," Andersen said. The Norumbega Council which serves (Newton, Wellesley, Weston) had 40 Scout troops. Andersen reported that the council also expects to organize about 10 new troops in the next 3 months during the annual fall roundup, a 3-month membership campaign.

The Boy Scouts of America is in partnership with over 102 local schools, religious institutions, service clubs, PTA's, civic organizations, labor unions, and other community groups that are chartered to use the Scout program, Andersen said. Information about Scouting in this area is available from the Scout service center 2044 Beacon Street, Waban, Mass. 332-2220.

Greenblatt claimed that this rezoning would have been confiscatory, because it would have taken away the right to run an already existing business, except that Mrs. Pentabone was given a permit for non-conforming use of the property.

Greenblatt claims that Mrs. Pentabone, who is now petitioning to have the parking lot area rezoned from Residence D to Business A (retail establishments), is only reclaiming a right that was taken away by the 1953 zoning change.

Neighbors, on the other hand, argue that the presence of the bakery and the parking lot create problems for the residential neighborhood abutting the bakery. "It's a terrible traffic hazard," said one neighbor. "You have to pull the whole way out into River Street before you can see whether it's safe to make a turn off Elm Street."

Another neighbor complained that noisy truck drivers pull into the lot and eat their lunch right under her window.

Aldermen objected to the fact that an agreement was reached in 1967 to tear up the asphalt at the far end of the parking lot and plant a swath of grass between the abutments and the lot, but the agreement was never carried out. Greenblatt explained that the Pentabones needed the area as a dumping spot for snow cleared from the lot in the winter.

Aldermen also criticized the Pentabones for not filing an official record of the agreement. "I wonder whether the permit for permissive use (for use as a parking lot) is valid if it's not recorded," declared Alderman Michael J. Antonellis.

Nora Irinova Dance Studio In This City

Miss Nora Irinova now has a studio in Newton Highlands, and teaches in New York, Philadelphia, and Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., during the fall and winter. In the summer she is in charge of the dance department at Belvoir Terrace, a fine arts center for girls in Lenox, Mass.

Nora Irinova began her studies with Leticia de la Vega, Esme Bulnes (current director of the corps de ballet at La Scala in Milan), and Michael Borowsky. After outstanding performances in March, 1955 in the Colon and Municipal theatre in Argentina, she left for what turned out to be an extremely active career in Europe. She was presented at La Scala, performing the famous scene of Four Steps of Pugnoli. Invited by Tatiana Gsowsky, she staged the complete "Swan Lake" in Munich. She made her debut in Italy at the Florentine Music Festival, considered the peak of artistic dance expression in Europe. As first solo ballerine she danced the ballets of Aurel Millos, "Prometheus" by Beethoven and Glazunoff's "Four Seasons." $1,000 For Best Design For 1973 Annual Christmas Seal

If you can sketch, draw, or paint, then you may be interested in having a crack at a $1,000 prize being offered to the artist who comes up with the best design for the 1973 Christmas Seal.

The Norfolk County Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association today extended an invitation to all artists in the area to enter the nationwide design competition.

In addition to the cash award, extensive nationwide publicity will be given to the artist whose design is selected to spearhead the annual drive against emphysema, tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, and air pollution.

The design itself will appear on the Christmas Seals mailed to millions of U.S. Homes during the 1973 holiday season. It will also appear on posters, billboards, and television screens.

Production schedules require that the Christmas Seal design be selected two years in advance of issue, the Association explained.

Deadline for design entries is September 27, 1971. Contest rules and information, and copies of Christmas Seal designs from 1907 to 1971 are available from the Norfolk County Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, 745 High Street, Westwood, or 1357 Washington Street, West Newton. 470 Jobs Made Available In City Through Job Bank

Newton Job Bank has been operating for a period of almost nine weeks and has already provided over 470 jobs for youth ranging in age from 13 to 23.

Job placements have ranged from full-time secretarial positions to dog walkers. The majority of positions have come from private individuals residing in the city of Newton and include lawn care, moving help, window washing, and painting.

Job Bank is a service run by youth for youth. Under the direction of supervisor, the staff includes two full-time student job counselors and a part-time student assistant.

Youth seeking employment drop in at the Job Bank office, are interviewed as to job preference and availability, and fill out an application form. Employers wishing to list a job opening call or fill out a form in person. The job counselors then match the proper youth with the proper job.

Job Bank will be continuing into September and is open Monday through Friday 9:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. and Wednesday nights 7:00-9:00 P.M.

Offices are in the Newton Community Center at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton. For further information call at 969-7611.

NAA Lions Open Season On Saturday Against Norwood

The Newton Athletic Association Lions will open their third season by hosting the Norwood Red Devils on Saturday, September 4, at 10 a.m. at Newton Highlights Playground in a pre-season encounter.

The Lions are a team with a lot of promise that has been impressive this week in a scrimmage against Methuen and Everett.

This year's squad is led by five veterans who are Alan Flynn, end, Mike Smith, line, Matt Sabetti, Brian O'Halloran and Jim Vizais all backs. A number of hopefuls up from the Junior Midget ranks will be vying for starting berths depending on their play in the Norwood game.

The Norwood Red Devils are a perennial South Shore power who may be out to avenge two defeats at the hands of the Lions last season. This will be the only pre-season encounter for Newton as it opens its first season in the West Suburban Pop Warner League with the Both N.A.A. Junior Midget teams, Tigers and Mustangs, will also open their season on the weekend of the twelfth. The Mustangs will be at South Boston, and the Tigers will be home with Arlington. The Tigers progress has been good to date. The Mustangs have been hampered by late vacation arrivals, but are expected to hit high gear next week.

There are only a few open spots left on the Midget and Junior Midget levels, and they should be filled promptly.

Pee Wee action will move in to full swing on Tuesday, Sept. 7. Currently, all Pee Wee hopefuls have been reporting to Newton Highlights Playground. All boys will report to their respective playgrounds on Tuesday, at 5:30 p.m.

They are: Newton Centre Jets - Newton Centre Playground Oak Hill Raiders -

200 Youngsters Take Part In Crystal Lake Water Carnival

The Crystal Lake Staff selected Mary Rowland to be the recipient of the third Annual Jeannette C. West Award given each year to the girl who has benefited the most from her summer activity at Crystal Lake.

Mrs. West, Chairman of the Recreation Commission made the award at the Annual Splashdown Carnival on Thursday evening enjoyed by hundreds of parents and children.

Class seems to breed world class furlong runners. The event is very deep and any one of a dozen men have good chances. When the cinders have settled Larry Black, number one NCAA, number two AAU, should be ahead, however slightly, of Willie Deckard and high schooler Marshall Davis. Alternate - Mike Goodrich.

400-meter dash - If the 200 is strong then the 400 is superhuman. The United States swept in 1968. It could happen again. World-recordholder John Smith and his UCLA teammate Wayne Collett second (fastest in history) lead Edsel Garrison by a step. Alternate Darwin Bond gets to run the relay.

800-meter run - Not one of the US's best events, but the boys should place a couple in the final. Mark Winzenreid, young Bob Wheeler and Juris Luzins are tops. Ken Swenson, 1:44.3 once upon a time should be the alternate.

1500-meter run - Breaking into the top three is almost a ridiculously wasted effort. Jim Ryan, Marty Liquori and Tom Von Ruden, all back from 1968 and just as good if not better. Alternate - John Mason.

3000-meter steeplechase - Always considered a weak event by international standards things started happening this year and Sid Sink, Jerome Libenberg and Mike Hanley could make some noise. Alternate - Steve Savage.

5000-meter run - Steve Prefontaine has awaited this race for years. He's number one. Comebacking Steve Stageberg is better than before his abbreviated retirement. Greg Fredericks is a long shot, but was second in the NCAA's. Alternate - 1968 Olympian Jack Bachelor.

10,000-meter run - Frank Shorter, who improved from a fairly good two-miler as a junior in college to a national class three and six-miler as a senior and then a world class long distance man a year later, will be ready for his biggest race. 21-year-old Garry Bjorklund is a sure second and Gerry Lindgren, a boy wonder in 1964 should be back. Alternate - Jerry Jobski.

Marathon - Shorter, if he wishes, could double, if not, comebacking Tom Laris, who once pulled the same double, should move from alternate to regular. Regardless, Ken Moore should be the US's number one and collegian Scott Bringham should make the trip. In case Shorter does not double John Vitale will be the alternate.

1600-meter relay - The four 400-meter men.

Barring injuries and other unforeseen calamities the United States track and field team should once again beat back the world's concentrated challenge and reassure its on the track supremacy for four more years.

Title Change - MGM changed the title of "Speed is of the Essence" to "Believe in Me" which co-stars Michael Sarrazin and Jacqueline Bisset.

Nearly 200 children participated in the games, contests, and races sponsored by the Lake staff under the guidance of the Recreation Department.

Miss Beth Carleo directed the synchronized swim group composed of Dotty Barry, Kathy Barry, Phyllis Rosenberg, Brenda Burke, Melissa Hagen, Sarah Hagen, Nancy Katin, Diedre Anderson, Denise Anderson, Michelle Bertrand, and Mimi Balaffi.

Hear Police Chief William F. Quinn offer some valuable Back-To-School safety precaution -
September 7-10 over Station WCOP-1150 on the dial

LOVE thy neighbor - & thy neighborhood
Back-to-school time is a reminder to drive carefully and watch for the many youngsters who are travelling new routes to changed assignments. It's also a good time to think of safety at home, too. Help your neighbors and their loved ones by reporting any suspicious activities by strangers.

1. ... can your neighbor help stop thefts?
2. ... time does it take a burglar to burglarize the average home?
3. ... to stop an intruder from breaking into your home?
4. ... time does it take to dial 244-1212?
Answers: 1. The best protection you have besides a policeman is your neighbor. If you "see it or hear it" report it. 2. A matter of minutes. 3. Make sure all doors are locked when you retire. Have a timer turn on lights at night. Report any breaks or suspicious activities. Put latches on outside doors. 4. Ten seconds.

Felt Formula

First mechanical process for the manufacture of felt was discovered in about 1820.

The medieval look for fall is achieved via a short leather tunic over ribbed tights, fittingly accessorized with a swash-buckling Maltese cross pendant. Button earrings and a hinged bracelet complete the picture.

Auction to Aid N. E. Wild Flower Society

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien B. Taylor of Dover will open their beautiful gardens, bright with unusual wild and cultivated flowers, for the benefit of the N.E. Wild Flower Society on Saturday, Sept. 18.

Next door, in the big century-old barn of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Miles a preview will take place between 9 and 10:30 after which the auction will begin in a large tent adjoining, with Frank D. Green Jr., well known auctioneer from Newton Junction, N.H., in charge.

Antique china, crystal and glass, Chinese pewter, jade, old Persian rugs, hooked rugs, exquisite embroidered table linens, needle point, flower paintings, landscapes a charming ladder back Shaker rocker and a 16th century England chair are among the large collection of choice items given by the Society's friends to be sold that day.

Those attending are invited to bring a picnic lunch to eat in the garden, where coffee will be served.

The address of the N.E. Wild Flower Society is Hemenway road, Framingham.

King Tut May Be Replaced

King Tut, in the 49th year of his reign among the mummies, may be displaced by an older corpse, and if so it will mark the second time in 3,000 years the boy pharaoh has been upstaged. The unearthing this year of a 5,000-year-old mummy in Egypt has been described as "historically and scientifically" more important than that of the Tutankhamen tomb.

That discovery, in 1922, caused a sensation around the world when the splendor of the tomb furnishings became known.

Mummification in various forms, according to Encyclopedia Britannica, has had a wide geographical distribution, but the Egyptians were unrivaled in creating elaborate graves. Among those who knew this were grave robbers. Time after time archaeologists unearthed tombs only to find that vandals had been there centuries before.

But the robbers had missed Tut's tomb.

Tut was but a teen-ager when he died, in 1332 B.C. At his death, his name was expunged from the canon of kings. Then, 2000 years later, architects began excavating the tomb of Ramses VI. They chose a site just above that of Tut's tomb.

The workmen were ordered to throw their waste limestone chips down the slope, thus completely covering the earlier Pharaoh's tomb. It remained hidden more than 3,000 years.

An expedition on Nov. 4, 1922, uncovered steps leading down to the tomb's entrance gallery. For eight seasons diggers salvaged magnificent treasures from the tomb and placed nearly all of them in the National Museum in Cairo.

The body of the youthful Pharaoh, inside a gold-wrought coffin, still lies in his beautiful stone sarcophagus in the burial chamber. His relics have been of incalculable value to archaeologists and have given the little king a fame far greater than his political significance could have brought him, even had he lived beyond his teens.

Traffic Committee OK's Standing Room Policy On Hired School Buses

NEWTON Aug. 28 Gilbert Some students will still have to stand on school buses this fall. Members of the Traffic Committee, considering Alderman William Carmen's proposal on safety standards for school buses, decided not to ask for a sitting-room-only ordinance for large school buses. They decided that the MBTA buses which carry many Newton children, under contract with the city, were sufficiently safe for standees.

The bus service actually depends on standees, according to Alderman David Jackson. Without taking on extra children buses would run at a loss, he told the rest of the committee.

For buses carrying under 10 children (station wagons, VW buses, etc.) the aldermen do plan to request an ordinance requiring four safety features: (1) a seat for every child; (2) a first aid kit in every bus; (3) a seat belt for the driver; (4) a right-hand rear-view mirror.

In addition, they plan to include provisions on first aid kits and right-hand rear-view mirrors, which are already required by state law, and on seat belts for drivers, in their contract with the MBTA for school buses.

A suggestion that drivers be required to pass a special course for school bus drivers was dismissed when Solicitor Melvin Dangel informed the Traffic Committee and the aldermen that no such course existed.

Alderman Carmen, the sponsor of the resolution, said that he will write to the Registry of Motor Vehicles asking that they institute such a course.

On hearing that his request for an ordinance prohibiting standees had been turned down, Carmen declared, "If we have one serious accident with 20 standees, and 10 children get killed, we'll be ready to act. I don't want to wait for that."

Bus costs are reimbursed by the state, Carmen said, so that if the city had to hire additional buses to carry the children who now must stand, the city would still suffer no loss.

Mr. Carmen, however, did not appear at Thursday night's committee meeting.

According to state officials in the State Department of Education, Office of Federal and State Assistance, the city would be reimbursed for all school bus costs, provided that the youngsters transported live more than a mile and a half from the school they attend.

Meeting-

Alderman Alan Barbin summed up, "What these people are saying is that you can't get another house in Newton for what they are being offered."

A second group of complainants charged that Monsignor Quirk, and also Mario DiCarlo, chairman of the Redevelopment Authority, whose April resignation has not yet been accepted, are unresponsive to the needs and wishes of the community.

Mr. John Young of 2313 Washington St., stated, "The Redevelopment Authority consistently votes against the Project Area Committee's wishes." Young says that members of the Project Area Committee have been denied permission to speak before the Redevelopment Authority, and that the Redevelopment Authority refuses to hold its meetings at night, when working people of the Lower Falls neighborhood could attend.

"They don't respond to people," agreed William Renke. "It's not true that Project Area Committee members were denied the opportunity to speak, according to Monsignor Quirk. 'The fact of the matter is that they did speak, they attended our meetings and we attended their meetings. That's a matter of record.'"

Whether meetings of the Redevelopment Authority are held in the morning or the evening is a trivial matter, says Monsignor Quirk, "like whether to have chocolate ice cream or vanilla." He noted that there was no greater attendance of area residents at evening meetings than at morning meetings.

To the charge that he was unresponsive, Msgr. Quirk replied, "The fact that I'm willing to serve on the commission, and subject myself to what I call harassment is an indication of my responsiveness. I'm not being compensated in any material way," he added.

"The situation lends itself to hostility. We are a representative of government moving into the area, saying 'we want to disturb your normal living arrangements.' If I'd lived there 40 years and was told I had to get out, I'd be angry, too. But you can't please all of the people all of the time. These people are being asked to sacrifice for the greater good," the Monsignor declared.

Members of Monsignor Quirk's parish, St. Bernard's of West Newton, also showed up to complain that they felt the Msgr. was unresponsive. "He represents the old church, the authoritarian church," said one.

Henry Beaudet, chairman of the Christian Service Commission of St. Bernard's Parish Council, complained that Msgr. Quirk is "not a representative of the people." Beaudet claims that Msgr. Quirk effectively dissolved the parish council, the board of directors representing the lay persons of the council, refused to allow the Catholic Interracial Council to use the parish bulletin, or to meet in parish meeting-rooms, and closed the parish school without allowing sufficient discussion on the matter within the parish.

Msgr. Quirk replied that Beaudet represents only a small dissatisfied faction, and that it was improper for members of his church to come to testify on a matter relating to the Redevelopment Authority. Reappointment should be judged solely on his record in the Redevelopment Authority, he said.

Alderman Barbin informed the Lower Falls and West Newton delegations that Msgr. Quirk was beginning to share some of their viewpoints. Barbin said that the Monsignor had agreed that a member of the Project Area Committee should be appointed to any vacancy that arose on the Redevelopment Authority.

Newton Lower Falls residents mentioned Project Area Committee member Richard D. Clarey, of 18 Baker Place, as a possible candidate should an opening occur.

But the root of the conflict seems to be the question of whether there should be urban renewal at all. Mrs. Mildred Colantuono of 61 Moulton St., complained that although there were only four dilapidated houses, the Authority is displacing 27 families, and planning for construction of 60 to 70 units.

On the one hand, Mrs. Colantuono is opposed to having low-income housing which she says should not be mixed with housing for the elderly planned for the area. On the other hand, she suspects that the authority will choose a developer that will build "high rise, high rent" apartments. She says that the 27 displaced families will not be able to afford the luxury apartments, and will not be eligible to move into the four units being set aside for low-income families.

Project Area Committee member John E. Young said that Lower Falls residents want to block the project. "The Redevelopment Authority is not giving us a chance to put obstacles in their path," asserted Young.

Msgr. Quirk, on the other hand, feels that the problem is inaction. "Something must be done," he says.

To Lower Falls residents that "something" means reversing the steps that Redevelopment has already taken toward clearance of the area. With the aid of the Board of Aldermen, Mrs. Colantuono and her husband were able to get back the deed to their house, which the Authority had taken.

Family Counseling Service Issues Call For Volunteers

Ray Saari, Director of the Newton district office of Family Counseling Service (Region West) announced today that volunteers are needed to work with pre-school age children and their mothers.

No previous experience is necessary. The principal requirement is an interest in helping mothers enrich and enjoy their role as their children's first teacher.

This program is similar to one developed in Nassau County, New York, in 1965, the value of which has been borne out by thorough research. The purpose of the program is to give the selected two year children language skills and tools for conceptualization.

Compressed Trash Pickup Appears On Way Out Here

The trashmasher will have to go the way of the Edsel, as far as the Newton Board of Aldermen is concerned. The Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee, after hearing testimony from Whirlpool, Inc., which manufactures the home-owners' trash compressing device and from Newton Public Works Director Willard S. Pratt, voted Monday night in favor of an ordinance that would prohibit the pickup of compressed trash, on the grounds that burning of the high-density bundles could damage the municipal incinerator.

Most important in the Committee's decision was the testimony of Pratt, who told the Board, "I can't even get bundles of compacted leaves to burn in the incinerator. The plastic bag prevents the air from getting to them."

There are only 200 trash compacting devices in the city at present, he told the aldermen. "But in a year, there could be 2,000 of these things in town," the aldermen speculated, "and what if we find out after a year that they're damaging the incinerator? It will be much harder to tell people then that they're not allowed to use them."

The trashmashers really belong in areas where land fill is needed, such as strip mining areas, Alderman David Jackson, chairman of the Planning Committee, told the Rules Committee. They should not be used in areas where trash is incinerated.

For people who don't know much about trash collection in the city, there was a lot of interesting information offered up at the hearing. Pratt explained to the aldermen that trash collection trucks do only a temporary compression job, shoving refuse to the front of the truck to make room for further collection. When refuse is dumped at the incinerator, it fluffs up again as it tumbles out, and becomes easy to burn, whereas trashmasher bundles would be encased in plastic bags.

A representative from the University of Georgia, reporting favorably on tests of the incineration of smashed trash, told the committee that one problem in incineration comes from the smashing of tin cans. In a normal load, he told the aldermen, each tin can contains a little pocket of air, and this helps the incineration process. But all the city would have to do to compensate for the smashing of the cans, he said, would be to purchase air blowers for the furnace.

The trash experts also compared notes on the difficulties of dispatching soggy refuse after a thundershower. The Atlanta representative assured the committee that people are less likely to throw wet trash into the maw of the trashmasher.

Simultaneous Services To Be Held On High Holidays

Announcement has been made by Rabbi Samuel I. Korff, the spiritual leader of Congregation Kehillath Jacob, and Marvin Lampert, president of the congregation, that the High Holidays Committee has completed its plans for holding three simultaneous services during the High Holidays.

Two simultaneous services will be held in Newton at the Congregation's new sanctuary at 858 Walnut Street, Newton Four Corners, and at the Social Hall at the same address. The services that were held at the Lampert Auditorium of the Kehillath Jacob Community Center will be held instead at the Social Hall of the new Kehillath synagogue in Newton.

Emphasis is made that the Kehillath Jacob sanctuary at Fessenden Street, Mattapan, will continue to hold High Holiday services. A staff of assistant rabbis and prominent cantors have been arranged to co-officiate with Rabbi Korff at the three simultaneous services.

Both buildings have been newly renovated and are fully air-conditioned. The building on Walnut Street in Newton was consecrated only two months ago, and its newly rebuilt sanctuary contains a very artistic Holy Ark designed as a memorial for the six million Jews who died in the last World War.

Congregation Kehillath Jacob, a progressive congregation serving the community since 1926, will usher in its forty-seventh High Holiday services on Sunday evening, September 19 at 6:30 p.m. Lewis Cohen, the general chairman of the High Holidays Committee, has announced the following schedule for the committee's sessions to receive High Holiday reservations: In Mattapan, Sundays from 9 a.m. to 12 Noon, and weekdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The schedule for Newton will be Sundays from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and weekdays from 10 a.m. to 12 Noon and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the evenings.

Special arrangements have been made to receive college students as guests of the Congregation at no charge, at the Newton and Mattapan services. Registration for the pre-Hebrew school and first grade Hebrew school can be made at the same time as High Holiday reservations are received.

The September 8 opening will be the premiere performance of a modern Mass written especially for the occasion by Leonard Bernstein. The Mass will be repeated the following evening and it is anticipated that President and Mrs. Nixon will attend.

Twenty-two boy sopranos will sing in the performance. The choir members are selected during the winter months through highly competitive auditions. The full choir, numbering 50, is drawn from 41 different cities and towns and from nine different states.

This summer the Choir has been in residence at Amherst College, under the direction of one of England's most eminent choirmasters, Allan Wicks of the Canterbury Cathedral. They have sung under the batons of Seiji Ozawa, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Julius Rudel, with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Rehearsals in Washington, D.C. from August 25 to the first week in September are under the direction of Maurice Peress, assistant to Leonard Bernstein. It is expected that Bernstein himself will conduct some of the performances of the new Mass.

All Sub-Standard Houses Due To Go

September and October will be critical months in the drive to eliminate all substandard housing from the city of Newton. As many as 1000 to 1300 units may come up for inspection during the next two months, estimates Alderman Eliot Cohen, as a result of an ordinance he submitted last February requiring that any dwelling unit which changes hands must pass inspection by a code enforcement officer in order to receive an occupancy permit.

Inspectors will concentrate their attention on depressed areas of the city, explains Cohen.

"This ordinance came up at the same time as the Newton Community Development Corporation's proposal for low-income housing. We were hopeful of providing low-income housing for people in Newton who need it."

"But we won't have accomplished too much if as soon as the people move out of the substandard housing and into decent quarters, the same dilapidated buildings are rented out to new tenants. This ordinance is intended to close the door on the re-renting of substandard housing until it is brought up to code," he said.

City officials are hopeful that the entire city can be brought up to code within five years or less. The occupancy permit legislation was modeled on an ordinance of the city of Quincy, and Quincy was able to catch up on code violations within five years.

Realtors and banks have been advised of the new regulations, and in addition, the Boston Edison Company informs the Health Department whenever an electric bill is transferred to a new name.

If inspection shows the building is not up to code, the electricity may be turned off, so that the building cannot be rented until repairs are made.

In the case of minor violations, a temporary permit may be issued, and the owner given a period of time ranging from a few days to several weeks to make repairs. The final resort for buildings not brought up to code is the courts.

The inspection program for occupancy permits began July 5. Regular area-by-area inspections will continue, as will inspections in response to complaints.

COURT ORDERS 2 LAWYERS TO SET FORTH BRIBERY CHARGES

THE MASSACHUSETTS Supreme Court ordered two private lawyers Wednesday to draw up an "information" setting forth charges against two Superior Court judges implicated in an alleged bribery scheme. The court's action came on the recommendation of Chief Justice Walter H. McLaughlin of the Superior Court who also recommended "a thorough judicial inquiry" be instituted by the Supreme Court "forthwith" into possible misconduct by Judges Edward J. DeSaulnier Jr. and Vincent R. Brogna. The high court, in an order released through Clerk Frederick J. Quinlan, designated Edward B. Hanify as special counsel and John M. Harrington Jr. to prepare the "information", or statement of facts, surrounding the charges. Hanify was the lawyer who represented Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., on motor vehicle charges following the death of Mary Jo Kopechne on Chappaquiddick Island two years ago. Michael J. Raymond, a stock swindler, told a Senate subcommittee in Washington this summer he paid $66,000 to two bail bondsmen in Boston to arrange for leniency in a stock fraud case in 1962. He said DeSaulnier helped swing the deal with the judge sitting on the case in Middlesex Superior Court. Raymond said he could not remember the name of the judge. However, Brogna later acknowledged he gave Raymond a suspended sentence but said it came on the recommendation of the district attorney's office. Both judges, who have denied the allegations, have been suspended by McLaughlin pending an investigation into the charges. The order said the "nature of the court's proceedings" would be determined and announced after the information was filed.

2 HEROIN PUSHERS GIVEN LONG FEDERAL PRISON TERMS

TWO CONVICTED heroin pushers received long federal prison sentences Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Boston. The men, William Miller, 22, of Boston's Mattapan section and Henry Knight, 34, of Cambridge, were convicted earlier of sale of heroin and conspiracy. Judge Andrew A. Caffrey sentenced Miller to 20 years in prison, and gave Knight a 15-year term. Knight and Miller were convicted earlier this summer after a lengthy trial. There were originally 28 persons indicted in connection with the case and 18 pleaded guilty during the trial. They were to be sentenced later this week. The indictments charged the defendants were part of a large narcotics ring which sold drugs in a number of cities, including Boston, Lowell, Lawrence, Peabody, Beverly, Gloucester and Chelmsford.

ANTIBUSING FORCES SWARM TO STALL SCHOOL PROGRAMS

ANTIBUSING forces, singing "God Bless America," chanting the Pledge of Allegiance and waving American flags, swarmed in front of buses and drove cars into their paths at Pontiac, Mich., Wednesday in a battle to stall a court-ordered school busing program. In Boston, scores of parents—both black and white—refused to let their youngsters be bused to schools under Massachusetts' first-in-the-nation racial imbalance law. Former Florida Gov. Claude R. Kirk called on all Florida parents to present their children for registration at the school nearest their home to emphasize to school boards that "we should and will have neighborhood schools." At least nine persons were arrested in the second day of protests at Pontiac. Nine youths, eight of them white, were injured in scuffling outside a Pontiac junior high school.

REP. MILLS TO PRESS FOR $1 BILLION TAX AID

REP. WILBUR D. MILLS, D-Ark., whose House Ways and Means Committee will largely determine the fate of President Nixon's economy-boosting tax plan, announced Wednesday he would press for $1 billion in added tax relief for the poor. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally offered no resistance to Democratic demands that tax cuts be broadened for the greater benefit of consumers, but he asked that any additional cuts be strictly temporary to avoid huge long-range revenue losses. Arguing the President's case before the committee's first day of hearings, Connally vigorously denied claims by AFL-CIO President George Meany and others that the new economic plan was a "business bonanza" and urged that Congress approve it intact. The President will plead for prompt enactment of his emergency program at a joint session of Congress today, to be broadcast live on radio and television starting at 12:30 p.m. EDT.

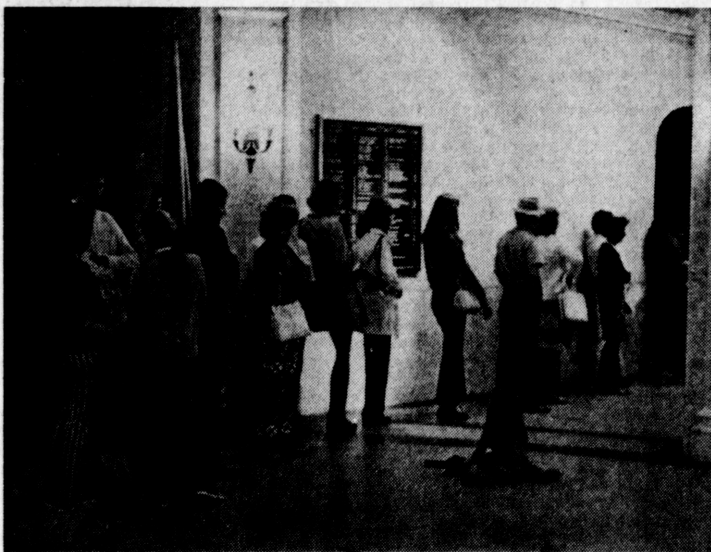

KENNEDYS HEAD GUESTS FOR OPENING OF MEMORIAL

MRS. ROSE KENNEDY and her only living son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, headed the hand-picked guests Wednesday for the official opening of a $70 million white marble memorial to the slain President, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Many former members of the Kennedy administration were in the audience of 2,200, including former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and C. Douglas Dillon, who served as Kennedy's Treasury secretary. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis did not attend for reasons her secretary said were "personal and private." She was in Greece with her new husband, Leonard Bernstein, who wrote the opening night's work, "Mass," at the personal request of Mrs. Onassis, shared the President's box in the opera house with Mrs. Kennedy and the senator.

BRITISH FORCES BRACED FOR NEW TROUBLE IN ULSTER

BRITISH ARMY units and constabulary security forces were put on alert Wednesday in anticipation of new trouble with the midnight expiration of a two-day "cease-fire" that was marked by violence in Northern Ireland. The official branch of the Irish Republican Army, which earlier had denounced use of violence in Northern Ireland, blamed the bomb blasts that ripped parts of Belfast Wednesday on its militant provisional wing. It said the wing had violated its own bombing truce. Rioting later broke out in Londonderry's predominantly Roman Catholic Bogside area after a rally attended by about 1,000 persons. The crowd threw rocks at army vehicles and troops. Soldiers retaliated with rubber bullets and nausea gas. The provisionals had declared the truce, ending at midnight, to give the British government a chance to reply to a five-point "peace plan" offered Sunday. A provisional wing spokesman said: "Certain plans have been made to insure that our words are turned into actions." A British Army spokesman said: "Such a threat is always taken seriously. We are not standing idly by and waiting."

Youthful Registrants Line Up

A youthful crowd waited in line at City Hall to register to vote at special evening registration on August 23rd. 175 persons registered, about 70 per cent of whom were under 21 years of age.

Discuss Plans For Recycling Of Newspapers

The Environmental Subcommittee of the Board of Aldermen met last night to discuss a proposal by Alderman William Carmen for the recycling of newspaper.

The proposal is based on a study of recycling done by Mrs. Betsy Lewenberg and other interested citizens. Metal bins could be installed under trash trucks, and bundled paper could be picked.

Young People Turn Out

Early Registration Of Voters Is Urged

The lines get longer after Labor Day. Alan Licarie, executive secretary of the Elections Department, has warned prospective voters.

And in the two weeks before registration closes October 13, the lines will stretch out even further. So try to make it down to city hall to register during the regular daytime hours in the next two weeks.

The next evening registration will be Thursday, September 30. The elections department will also be open from noon to 10 p.m. on October 9, the Saturday before the deadline, and from morning until 10 p.m. on deadline day, Wednesday, October 13.

So far, only one college dormitory resident has registered to vote. He is a student at Boston College.

Girl Swept To Death In Swift N. H. River

Betsy Joy Roberts, 16, of 132 Bellevue St., Newton, was killed in a drowning accident last Saturday while camping with her family in New Hampshire's White Mountains. Betsy was swept away by the swift current of the Dry River, while attempting to ford the river to escape flooding caused by Hurricane Doria.

The Roberts family, according to Betsy's mother, Mrs. Simon Roberts, was camping overnight in an isolated location, unaware of the impending hurricane. Hurricane rains moved in.

We saw that the river was rising, and the campsite was being inundated. We knew we'd have to break camp and move to higher ground," Mrs. Roberts said.

The family was forced to ford the Dry River to get to the Appalachian Hut. One of Betsy's brothers went across, slipped, but recovered his balance, and secured a rope to the other side.

Betsy followed him, was torn away by the current, and immediately disappeared. Her brother Carl, 23, who tried to go after her, was also swept away, but fought his way to shore, suffering extensive bruises.

Fun Time's Over 17,800 Scholars March Back To Newton Schools

An estimated 17,800 boys and girls went back to the Newton Public Schools yesterday and today.

In the parochial schools, approximately 1,400 students returned to classes. The parochial school enrollment included 257 high school students at Our Lady Help of Christians School, on Washington St., which opens today, and 1137 grammar school children.

Our Lady Help of Christians Grammar School on Lenglen Rd. opens today with 470 students. Sacred Heart Grammar School, on Crescent Ave., and St. Jean's Grammar School, on Washington St., opened yesterday with approximately 215 children and 201 children, respectively.

The official public school enrollment is expected to increase somewhat as a result of the closing of two other parochial schools, The Sacred Heart High School, which will send about 70 youngsters, mostly to Newton South High, and St. Bernard's Grammar School, which is transferring about 213 children.

Official public school enrollment figures will be tabulated on the basis of enrollment as of October 1.

The professional staff of 1240 reported for work Tuesday.

The curriculum is supervised by Henry Atkin, newly appointed school Superintendent in charge of curriculum.

Newton children, who become sophisticated about school pretty rapidly, seem to be taking the first few days in stride.

Going to first grade doesn't faze six-year-old George Seested, of 264 Parker St. "It's just a whole lot of kids - all the kids that were in my kindergarten," he says.

New students at the elementary, junior high and high school levels are getting their feet wet gradually.

Kindergartners throughout Newton are being introduced to school in small groups, staggered at intervals through the school day.

First graders showed up for school yesterday, but most will attend only in the mornings for the first two-and-a-half weeks of school. Afternoons will be an education for the parents, via parent-teacher conferences.

Seventh graders, too, got a special introduction, with a morning session for seventh-grade-only yesterday at the Warren, Day, and Weeks Junior High Schools, and today at Meadbrook. The Bigelow Junior High had an all-day session yesterday for seventh graders.

The schedule for grades eight and nine is as follows:

Meadowbrook: 8 a.m. to 12 noon Wednesday and Friday. Full days beginning Sept. 13, for all grades.

Warren: 1 p.m. to 2:20 Wednesday. Full days beginning today for all grades.

Day: Grade 8 from 9 to 11 a.m. today; grade 9 from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30. Full days for all three grades begin tomorrow.

Bigelow: Full days for all grades starting today.

Weeks: Grade 8 only, 8:20-12:30 today. All grades, 8:30-12:20 tomorrow. Full sessions begin next Monday (Sept. 13).

Even the jaded sophomores get some special treatment. Newton South High was open for sophomores only yesterday (full sessions for all begin today). Newton High sophomores enjoyed a morning-only session yesterday.

Speed Traps Shield School-Bound Kids

Concern for the safety of children walking to the Hamilton School in Newton Lower Falls prompted the Traffic Commission to explore the possibility of a speed trap during school opening and closing hours along Grove St. in the area between Cornell St. and Asheville Rd. The suggestion of a speed trap was made by Ward 4 Alderman Louis Egelson, and has been forwarded to the police department.

This is the second trap sprung this month. Recent parent protests previously prompted the police department to set up a speed trap between Newton South High School and Oak Hill School along Brandeis Road.

Newton Corner residents can look for a host of small changes adopted by the commission, among them a two-hour parking limit on Mt. Ida St. and a pedestrian's walk light at the intersection of Church and Eldridge Streets, where the Grace Episcopal Church is converting its rectory into a new location for the Children's Mental Health Center.

Boston Primary Mayor Fight May See Surprise Bombshell

Boston's preliminary mayoralty fight appears to be narrowing down to a three-candidate contest as the contenders come down the final stretch of the race to determine which two will qualify next Tuesday night to go on to battle it out in the final November election.

Polls and surveys indicate that the three top vote-getters, from whom the two finalists will be picked by the voters in the privacy of their polling places next Tuesday, are Mayor Kevin H. White, Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks and City Councillor Joseph F. Timilty.

Tests of voting sentiment create the impression that the contest is sufficiently close so that a strong finishing drive by any of the three top contenders could carry that candidate into first place.

Resignation Of Chairman On NRA Agenda

The Newton Redevelopment Authority will meet next Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. The most important item on the agenda will once again be consideration of the resignation of Mario DiCarlo as Chairman of the Authority.

This item has been on the books since DiCarlo's submission of a letter of resignation last March.

Authority member Monsignor John M. Quirk, pastor of St. Bernard's parish, has said that one reason for the delay in action is that the resignation was submitted under pressure.

Acting on the principle that it could not approve signs applicable to only one house, the commission denied a request for a driveway warning sign at 266 Commonwealth Avenue in Chestnut Hill and a request for a crash barrier at Chapel and California Sts. in Nonantum.

Residents of the property at 337 California St., Mr. and Mrs. John Fantasia, complained that at five different times automobiles have swung off the road and onto their property.

Citing State Department of Public Works standards which require a certain volume of traffic, and several minor or one major accident, before a stop sign can be placed at an intersection, the commission denied a request for a stop sign at the West Newton juncture of Caroline Park, Lawmarissa, and Moffat Rds.

Marks Quarter Century With Phone Company

A Newton Centre man will complete 25 years of service with the Bell System this month. Justin H. Frankel of 131 Brandeis Rd., joined New England Telephone in 1946 as a central office repairman in Newton.

He has also been a senior engineer in Boston and from 1959 to 1961 he served as maintenance engineer for American Telephone in New York City. Frankel returned to New England Telephone in 1961 and has held several supervisor positions including that of Northern state engineering manager of equipment in Manchester, N.H., and central office construction programs engineer in Boston.

In 1970, he was made general switching systems manager for Massachusetts.

Born in Providence, R.I., Frankel graduated from Brookline High School in 1940 and from Northeastern University in 1952. An Army veteran, he rose to the rank of captain in the Signal Corps during World War II. He retired from the Reserve in 1963 with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Frankel is married to the former Gladys Becker of Boston. They have two children, Susan, 19, and Mark, 15. He is a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America. Pioneers is composed of employees of the telephone industry with more than 21 years of service.

Monsignor Quirk intends to be at the Sept. 14 meeting, but declined to comment on what action the Authority will take at that time.

Chairman Mario DiCarlo called a special summer meeting of the Authority at the suggestion of Authority member Donald M. Daniels, but the meeting never took place.

The major project under the Authority's jurisdiction is the Newton Lower Falls redevelopment area.

Work on this project has been stalled since the resignation last spring of Executive Director Kenneth Salk. No replacement for Mr. Salk has been found.

Taxpayer Relief Top Issue Now Says Mann

Rep. Theodore D. Mann today underscored relief for the taxpayer as the top issue in Newton's current Mayoralty contest. Representative Mann stated:

"While we most certainly must meet the human needs of the community and provide the necessary public services in accordance with our standards, the focus of our effort must of necessity be directed to ways and means to halt the upward spiraling of the local taxrate, to stabilize it, and wherever possible move to alleviate the burden on the taxpayer homeowner."

"This I recognize is a formidable task," Rep. Mann declared, "particularly since we must maintain the quality of our public services and facilities, and counter the inflationary thrust upward."

"However, we must make this objective a primary order of business and apply our best talent to achieve it."

"To spearhead our attack on the problem," Mann explained, "I plan to establish what I now informally term as a 'Watch-dog Finance Commission' to constantly oversee the cost elements that make up the city's tax rate."

"This new commission will examine every aspect of municipal operation over which the Mayor and the Board Aldermen exercise control as well as other sources of cost over which such control is lacking, these being the School Department (which accounts for approximately sixty percent of the city's budget), County, M.D.C. and M.B.T.A. assessments."

"Comprised of top fiscal experts drawn from our own community, this unpaid commission will function in direct contact with the Mayor in executive liaison for the purpose of seeing to it that no more is spent than necessary and that the taxpayers receive their money's worth for every tax dollar that is spent. As I plan this, we will, in cooperation with all department heads and with the assistance of the citizens of the city:

"a. Constantly review and re-evaluate all municipal functions, services, and facilities to assure maintenance of the highest acceptable standards and the optimum use of the tax dollar;

"b. Assist Department Heads in their efforts to stretch the tax dollar so as to give the taxpayer the best possible service;

"c. Maintain continuing executive liaison with appropriate agencies to secure maximum state and federal funds to which the city is properly entitled under existing programs and those being developed."

"I consider the situation so urgent," Rep. Mann went on, "that I have joined in the filing of an order with the House of Another brother, Michael, 21, went downstream, but was unable to catch sight of his sister.

"The Dry River is a peculiar name for that river," says C. F. Belcher, executive director of the Appalachian Mountain Club. "It's a dangerous river. It rises fast when there's a lot of rain."

A nine-man search party found the body 200 yards downstream, later that night, after the river had subsided.

ed up by trash collectors at the same time as weekly collections, and stashed separately from trash, in the bins.

The bundled papers could then be sold to waste paper dealers. There are dealers in Watertown and Chelsea. "The city of Madison, Wis., which has twice the population of Newton, has a successful recycling program that runs on this model. The city of Madison is actually making money on the project," Mrs. Levenberg reports.

Recycling programs are also under way in Louisville, Kentucky, in Irvington, New Jersey, in San Francisco, and in two New York City public housing projects in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

The study on recycling was based on a resolution by Alderman Carmen submitted last spring. The resolution also called for a study of the recycling of bottles and cans. Mrs. Levenberg has concluded that recycling of bottles and cans is unfeasible at present.

Bottles must be shipped to a recycling plant in Connecticut, which makes the expense prohibitive. Cans may be recycled at the American Can Co. plant in Needham Heights or the Continental Can Co. plant in Malden. But both cans and bottles must be cleaned, and bottles must be stripped of all metal.

Mrs. Levenberg stated that while she felt most families would go the effort of bundling newspapers, she did not think they would consistently wash and prepare their bottles and cans for recycling.

The proposal will ask that a paper recycling pilot project be set up in one section of Newton.

Holidays are a lot of fun. Don't spoil them by not concentrating on your driving. Vacationing is only fun if you get there, says Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies.

"I am running for School Committee because I can best contribute to the community as a member of the School Committee. As an educator and lawyer, I am in position to investigate and evaluate matters dealing with educational personnel, curriculum, planning of buildings, and policies of the Newton School system," Dr. Needleman said.

Dr. Needleman holds the degree of B.A. in Physics from Smith College, M.A. in Physics from Radcliffe College, M. Ed. from Northeastern University, and received a Doctorate in Secondary Education in Mathematics from Boston University in 1970.

She is also a graduate, cum laude, of Boston University

Law School, where she served as editor-in-chief of the Boston University Law Review. She is a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Bars.

"There are four main educational areas of concern with which I would like to deal through service on the School Committee: (1) better communication between the community and the schools; (2) increased attention to the needs of average, or, bright-but-unmotivated, students; (3) closer look at symptoms and recognition of learning disabilities; (4) thorough supervision, evaluation, and follow-up of experimental personnel and programs, she stated.

"As a mother and teacher, I firmly believe it is important for the taxpayer-parents to be able to express their wishes to the administration, and to expect courteous consideration.

"Although Newton has always provided excellent programs for its superachievers and for its low achievers, there are parents with great concern about the education of their children who are average or bright-but-unmotivated. No average student in the Newton school system should be removed to private schools because parents feel that their children are not being provided with programs and dedicated faculty to enable them to reach their highest potential.

"As a member of the School Committee, I would like to see some avenues opened whereby parents can be involved in the decision-making process affecting their own children.

"Innovation is the key to quality education. Newton has always been in the forefront of progressive education. However, I believe that the operation of pilot programs carries with it the responsibility of timely evaluation and assurance that students do not suffer educationally throughout the experimental process.

"The great alienation in the world today, as reflected in the school population, points up students' great need to cope with pressures and tensions and boredom, instead of turning to drugs. It is the role of the school system to find ways to stimulate and motivate these young people.

"Since the thirties, educational change is a fact of life; more is to come. We must remember that the elementary pupils of today will spend approximately half their lives in the twenty-first century exposed to new ways of living - of which we and their teachers now have no present knowledge. Because students will be exposed to a great variety of ideas, truths, and alternative positions which they must learn to examine logically and critically, they must be equipped with traditional basic skills while also learning new ways and means of creative self-expression for fulfillment. Education will become a cradle-to-grave occupation and they will need to learn to fill leisure time meaningfully as the work week decreases.

"Each child must have the tools to learn along with curiosity, desire, independent motivation and the willingness to seek knowledge. Starting in early childhood, children should learn to take initiative and responsibility for their own learning, yet structure and discipline are essential in the learning process. Balance must be found between the need for guidelines and standards and the encouragement of independence, responsibility, and self-discipline.

"The schools of the seventies are confronted with the task of turning out creative, humane, knowledgeable, motivated, rational adults who will be able to adapt to useful and happy lives in a different kind of society.

"I have taught for the past thirteen years, first as a substitute teacher in Newton junior and senior high schools, later as a full-time teacher in the Wayland junior high school, as curriculum coordinator in mathematics, grades 1-12, at Northeastern and Boston University Schools of Education, and have supervised interns in secondary schools in Newton and other communities. I have some familiarity in the fields of statistics and computers. This all produces a diversified background from which I can draw in studying, analyzing

Council on Aging Seeks Bus Service for Elderly

Top priority of Newton's newly appointed Council for the Aging, as expressed in discussion at their Tuesday night meeting, is getting transportation for the elderly. Council members and advisors were enthusiastic about the idea of urging shopping center merchants to sponsor a weekly shopping bus for the elderly, as is done by some supermarkets, according to council members.

Newton Center Square was mentioned as the ideal drop-off point for a shopping bus. Shopping is a favorite recreation of the elderly, pointed out Advisory Council member Edward Levitt said enthusiastically, because it means getting out and seeing people.

Council Secretary Isabel (Mrs. John) Coleman stressed, that one bus a day is not enough. "One bus a day is ridiculous. Buses are needed - and not only by the elderly - every minute of every day." Council Treasurer Stephen P. Holmes dampened hopes of funding for a council-owned commuter bus for the elderly, with a report that the City Solicitor's office thought insurance costs on a city-owned vehicle would be prohibitive. Solicitor Melvin Dangel believes that the bus must be city-owned and operated by a city employee, Holmes added.

Holden Cab Co. was commended for giving rate reductions to the elderly.

The Council will also try to publicize the two I.D. cards which enable senior citizens to get reduced rates on transit and entertainment. The MBTA card of the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority, which can be secured for 50 cents at Government Center Station, entitles people over 65 to a half fare. (Unfortunately, Council members noted, this reduction does not at present apply to Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Co. transit, which is used by many elderly people in Newton.)

A second card is the Golden Age Card, available free at Boston City Hall, in the Commission for the Elderly Office, Room 63. This card is good for reduced rates at all Sack Theaters, at Woolworth's Lunch Counter, and at activities sponsored by the Park and Recreation Department of Boston.

Elderly citizens need not live in Boston to get this card. It can also be picked up at the Little City Hall, 200 Chestnut Hill Ave., in Brighton.

In other action, the committee discussed hiring a part-time secretary to work 12 hours a week at $3.00 per hour. Council Chairman Alderman Adelaide Ball suggested that preference be given to senior citizens in hiring for this job.

Council members and Advisory Council members differed about the best way of preparing a questionnaire to determine the needs of the elderly. Mrs. Esther Thor, so-and evaluating matters which arise before the School Committee.

"I am appealing, for election, to those members of the Newton community who are interested in continuing and improving the quality education for their children to help them reach their goals. I should like to contribute my efforts to see this done so that the maximum effect is obtained for the minimum expense," she concluded.

Dr. Needleman is married to Robert Needleman, an attorney. They are the parents of Lucy Rines Needleman, who has just received a Master of Arts Degree in Spanish from Middlebury College, and their son, Barry, student at University of Massachusetts in Boston. Both children formerly attended the Newton School system.

Feldman-

"Although young people are most directly involved by the decisions of the School Committee, there views are often not aired in the deliberations of this Committee," said David Feldman in discussing his candidacy. "Therefore it is essential that a young person be given a seat on this Board to represent the attitudes of youth. It is long past time that students were given the responsibility for helping to form the decisions which affect them so directly."

Feldman sees his candidacy as a potential bridge for better communication between students, parents and the administration.

"Not only will my presence on the School Committee enable me to express my own views, but the general student body would be more apt to express its opinions and suggestions to me, thus making me a source of many innovative ideas which have never before been brought to the deliberations of the School Committee," said David.

He feels that a vote for him would be an expression of the faith adults should show in trusting their children to have a voice in matters that so directly concern their lives.

"All problems are capable of solution so long as the channels of communication are kept open, and if the students are to be responsible for their actions, they should have a member of their own generation on the School Committee to assure them that their views are being heard," stated Feldman.

He is very much concerned with the drug problem throughout the Newton Schools. He feels it is essential that both parents and students gain a better understanding of the many issues and facets included under the general heading of "the drug problem". It is most important that many of the myths surrounding the question of drugs are exposed for what they are in order to promote a more understanding communication.

David has been a resident of Newton for all nineteen years of his life. He attended Countryside Elementary School, Meadowbrook Junior High School (where he had the opportunity to participate in both the regular curriculum and the continuous learning program), and graduated Newton South High.

Throughout his education, David has been an active member of school government, serving in house, class and school offices and has been a member of many social and governmental committees in all the above schools.

Both of David's sisters are also products of the Newton School System. Diane graduated Newton South High

A Time for Extra Care

The long, leisurely summer vacation from school is at an end. The small fry are back in their classrooms settling down to the serious business of getting an education.

Some of those younger children in the lowest grades don't fully understand the dangers which may lurk in the streets along which they walk even in their home neighborhoods on their way to and from school.

Their parents warn them repeatedly on looking both ways when crossing the street and on not darting suddenly into the street in the path of an oncoming automobile or truck.

Those lectures too often are forgotten in the fun of walking to school in a group, playing happily as they walk.

But give a thought to the tragedies which could and sometimes do occur as one happy youngster chases another or playfully pushes a friend from the sidewalk onto the street.

This is a time for extreme care and caution by every automobile operator driving along routes which small boys and girls take on their way to and from school — a time to be alert for the carefree youngster who may suddenly dart out into the street.

That driver must be prepared to stop instantly. Responsibility for the safety of our most priceless possessions rests with him.

Unwelcome Change

Back in the days when youngsters walked as much as two miles to school and many a householder saw no reason to lock up for the night at retiring time — men in the light gray of the letter carrier and the dark blue of the firefighter held a special place in American life.

The letter carrier was on a first name basis with everybody on his route. The letter he knew to be long-awaited was always topmost in his hand and the waiting housewife knew from the smile he wore that — "Here it comes." In winter when the snow was knee-deep and in summer when the wide leather belt of his bag stained his shoulder with sweat — he got words of sympathy.

In his trim blue with shined black shoes and bright silver buttons, the fireman was a man apart on his way to and from work. He radiated efficiency and you knew he'd be "up to it" in helmet, rubber boots and coat, battling his way through smoke and flame.

The other night when members of Engine 12 in Dorchester got back to their quarters from a fire they found the doors to their lockers torn off and their contents gone. Gone, too, was the TV set for which they'd chipped in. The fire they extinguished, it is believed, was set to give thieves a chance to loot their firehouse. It meant another report on something which has been the subject of a long series of reports.

Last week postal authorities and police got together. It seems certain days of the month are chosen for the dispatch and delivery of welfare and government checks. The recipients, of course, know the days. In so-called high crime areas thieves know those days, too. Letter carriers have been assaulted and robbed. Some have been followed to addressees' mail boxes by check thieves.

Now, Boston has made arrangements for police to keep an eye on the postmen on check-delivery days, and the carriers' whistles will be used to call rightful recipients to front doors. That maneuver, it is hoped, will prevent the trapping of the carriers in darkened hallways of apartments.

Times, indeed, are changing. Not all of the changes are for the best.

Close the Doors!

Plymouth County's Sheriff Adnah H. Harlow, who has spent a life-time in law enforcement and penal work, says one reason for a startling increase of escapes from the House of Correction over which he presides can be traced to today's drug culture.

Of course, major contributing factors include a lack of a sufficient number of guards and manifold short-comings many years have imposed on the ancient jail.

Claustrophobia has been a prevailing disease ever since man built his first prison cell and the desire for the wide open spaces probably afflicts every law-breaker who finds himself behind bars. Sheriff Harlow points out the average age of our prison population, within a comparatively short period of time, has dropped from 40 to 25.

Furthermore, a large percentage of those jailed today have been sentenced for drug-related offenses. Add a craving for drugs to claustrophobia and the result can only be higher motivation for escape.

All that certainly doesn't add any sense of security to those living near Plymouth House of Correction or any of the other old jails around the State. Not all of the 20 prisoners who got out of Plymouth within a brief period during July and August were drug addicts, and not all carried the desperado tag — "dangerous."

Whatever the conditions were which made even a single escape possible doesn't call for any immediate highly-publicized investigation to be followed by carefully-drawn recommendations. Investigations, yes. Means for prevention, certainly. As of the moment, they can wait.

Right now it is incumbent on the responsible authorities to take whatever means are determined as necessary to close down those escape routes. There are enough un-caught law-breakers on the loose right now as any police log will attest.

This is no time to be adding to their numbers from among those society has reason to believe have been taken out of circulation for a time at least.

Political Highlights

Councillors Thomas I. Atkins and John L. Saltonstall, Jr., and 20-year-old John E. Powers, Jr., the Socialist Worker candidate, do not appear to have the basic strength to match White, Timilty and Mrs. Hicks.

Powers is headed for a sixth place finish. Poll returns show Atkins and Saltonstall fighting it out for fourth place. Timilty seems to be the one who is gaining support in the closing stages of the campaign. He is being helped tremendously by the aid and backing he is getting from the friends and associates of ex-Mayor John F. Collins, one of the best Mayors Boston ever had.

Boston's 1971 tax rate will be the big issue as the candidates trade arguments in their verbal exchanges between now and next Tuesday.

NEWTON GRAPHIC

The Bell Tolls!

Mayor White did a remarkable job in holding the tax rate increase to $17.90 and this year's tax rate to $174.70. Most political pundits had expected the rate would jump at least $25 and that the rate itself would be slightly over $180.

The reaction of home-owners in West Roxbury, Roslindale, Forest Hills, Jamaica Plain, Hyde Park and Brighton will play a major part in determining how Mayor White finishes and where he places when the returns are counted next Tuesday night.

Mayor White has made an excellent campaign. He is carrying the advantage of being an incumbent Mayor, with the power of his office offset to some extent by the handicap of the erosion to his popularity by the tough problems and hard decisions which have confronted him during the past three and two-thirds years.

White possesses political power he didn't have when he first ran for Mayor in 1967, but he also has a built-in hostility of some degree which he didn't have four years ago. That showed up both in the Democratic primary and the gubernatorial election last year. How much popularity White has regained since last November is a question which will be answered when the returns are counted next Tuesday night.

Chief Assessor Theodore Anzalone does not appear to be an issue in this campaign. The suggestion that Anzalone might have had underworld connections back in 1964 seems preposterous to anyone who knows Anzalone.

Congresswoman Hicks, who ran first in the preliminary municipal election four years ago, but then was defeated by White in the final election, has made a relatively quiet campaign.

Mrs. Hicks obviously is depending on the silent support she built up over the years as a popular School Committee member.

She has rapped White on the quality of municipal services performed during his administration, on the tax rate, police protection, and on such matters as the Little City Halls and Summerthing. But her attacks have not had the harshness or the bitter tones of those by Timilty, Atkins and Saltonstall.

Both Mrs. Hicks and Councillor Timilty have criticized White for appointing so many out-of-towners and out-of-staters to positions as municipal department heads when he had talent at his disposal in Boston who knew the city and its people.

Mrs. Hicks had to interrupt her campaign to return to Washington for the resumption of the congressional session but is expected back on Boston's political firing line this weekend.

Councillor Timilty, handsome young former business executive and ex-marine, has endeavored to offer himself as the alternative for those who don't want to vote for either Mayor White or Congresswoman Hicks. He is a very potent political underdog in this contest.

He reminds veteran political observers of the late Maurice J. Tobin who came out of the School Committee back in 1937 to win election as Mayor.

Timilty has conducted a hard-hitting campaign. He has blasted White's record in office and has gambled by criticizing Mrs. Hicks and accusing her of jumping from one office to another. Usually, it is not considered good political strategy to criticize a woman in a campaign. But he has zeroed in on her as a political candidate.

Thomas I. Atkins and John L. Saltonstall, Jr., have been good City Councillors since they, along with Timilty were first elected in 1967. But reliable, neutral polls indicate that they have not attracted enough support to place them in contention for the first two qualifying positions. The indications are they will run fourth and fifth.

John E. Powers, Jr., the Socialist, who is not to be confused with former Senate President and present Supreme Court Clerk John E. Powers will be a poor sixth.

This is a puzzling mayoralty campaign, one it is difficult to analyze.

This writer figures that the candidate who finishes first in the mayoralty clash next Tuesday night should poll about 40,000 votes and that the one who comes in second should get about 35,000.

Kevin White, with the power, prestige and patronage of the Mayor's office at his back, should be able to roll up 40,000 votes.

Louise Day Hicks also should be able to poll 40,000 votes on the basis of her vote-getting record as a candidate for School Committee, Mayor, City Council and Congress.

So, too, for that matter, should Joseph F. Timilty, with the kind of backing he is getting from members of the old Collins organization plus the work being done for him among young voters.

But there simply will not be enough votes to go around. Somebody will fall by the wayside next Tuesday night. It also is possible Tuesday's voting could produce a big surprise.

This has been a strange sort of campaign. The polls show that a large portion of the voters are still undecided. That, of course, could mean that many of them will not take the time to vote next Tuesday.

However, a feeling also exists that many voters, especially those being polled by telephone, are keeping their intentions to themselves and that a spectacular upset could be in the making when the returns are tabulated next Tuesday night.

The issue in this campaign is whether Kevin H. White has been a good Mayor of Boston for the past 44 months and if his record warrants his reelection to a second term.

Criticism of White because he ran for Governor last year is silly. People took it for granted that James M. Curley and Maurice J. Tobin would seek the Governorship. They were not criticized for doing it. Please don't write in and tell us that Curley was out of office when he was elected Governor in 1934. He was in office when he stood against Alvan T. Fuller.

Attempts were made to persuade John B. Hynes and John F. Collins to seek the Governorship. They just were not interested in being Governor.

Our prediction is that Boston's voters will explode a surprise bombshell next Tuesday.

Bitter Patronage Dispute May Block State Lottery

A bitter dispute is raging on Beacon Hill in connection with the issue of a State Lottery in Massachusetts.

It does not center on the questions customarily raised regarding a lottery and whether it would be a good or bad means of producing revenue.

Governors in the past have objected that lotteries would not yield enough money to make it worthwhile running one and that poor families would gamble money on lotteries that they should be spending for food.

Those details have been virtually overlooked in the present debate.

The argument centers on whether Governor Francis W. Sargent or State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane should control the patronage associated with the operation of a lottery.

That does not mean the privilege of writing your name on a lottery ticket and pulling it out as a million dollar winner.

Somewhere between 100 and 200 new jobs would be created if a state lottery were established. Governor Sargent declares that if he does not fill those jobs, there will be no lottery.

Sarge is not a bit bashful about making it crystal clear that he will veto any bill which designates Crane as the patronage boss on a State Lottery.

Enough Democratic law-makers are against a State Lottery on general principles so that a veto by Mr. Sargent probably would be upheld.

Crane, incidentally, is in the position of an innocent bystander who was minding his own business when he suddenly got pushed into a brawl.

Three states have established lotteries. Those set up in New Hampshire and New York State have not been as successful as was expected. One created in New Jersey has worked well. It is run by the State Treasurer.

That gave Democratic leaders on Beacon Hill the idea of having a Massachusetts State Lottery run by the State Treasurer who not only is a very popular Democrat but also at the request of party chieftains is serving as the unpaid chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

The mere suggestion that Crane control the lottery jobs gave a case of the shivers and shakes and shudders, to say nothing of the horrors, to Governor Sargent.

Different lottery bills have been adopted by the Senate and the House. The one approved by the Senate would turn all the lottery profits over to the cities and towns. The measure okayed by the House would use the lottery proceeds for scholarships, to meet mental health costs and pay the interest on some state bonds.

Andersen Wins Captain's Rank

David G. Andersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Andersen of 126 Lincoln St., Newton, Mass., has been promoted to captain in the U.S. Air Force.

Captain Andersen is a missile launch officer at McConnell AFB, Kan. He serves with a unit of the Strategic Air Command, America's nuclear deterrent force of long range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The captain received his commission in 1968 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

A 1963 graduate of Newton High School, he earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from Springfield (Mass.) College.

His wife is the former Susan Doane.

But both bills give Crane the authority to run the Lottery. As a concession to the Governor, an amendment was written into the bill giving Mr. Sargent the right to okay or veto Crane's selection of the executive director who would run the lottery.

However, the Governor wants a lot more concessions than that, and persons close to him say that if he doesn't get the 100 to 200 lottery jobs, nobody else will.

It seems unlikely that Senate President Kevin Harrington and Speaker David Bartley will yield to the Governor's demands. It's also improbable that they can muster enough votes to pass the measure over Governor Sargent's veto.

California's School Ruling To Have Repercussions Here

If the ruling by the California State Supreme Court that the operation of public schools cannot be financed by real estate taxes, is not overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court, it eventually will have repercussions here in Massachusetts.

The California decree was based on the theory that affluent communities spend more money per pupil for the education of their children than do poor cities.

Well-to-do Beverly Hills, it was pointed out, spends more than twice as much for the education of a child than does Baldwin Park.

This same disparity exists here in Massachusetts. Hudson spends about $500 per pupil in its budget for educational purposes while wealthier Brookline allows $1200 per child.

How that problem eventually will be corrected in Massachusetts is a matter of much conjecture and debate.

When the issue is brought to a head in this state, as it surely will be in time, it may mean the end of our system of School Committees.

In order to achieve an arrangement where the same amount of money per pupil is spent for education in wealthy Weston and needy New Bedford, it would be necessary to create a State Board which would have jurisdiction over all the public schools in Massachusetts.

As long as cities and towns have independent School Committees composed of individual members with different ideas on how much money should be spent for the operation of a public school system which, incidentally, will become increasingly expensive as more and more parochial schools close their doors, the problem will not be solved.

The mere abolition of School Committees, as is being advocated by some groups in Boston's current election campaign, would accomplish nothing except to take a little more power away from the people.

One Mayor might spend more money per pupil for public school education than another. Town Managers and Town Meetings would vary in what they would do for education.

A complete overhaul of the system of running public schools, including the removal of all local control, would be necessary to do what the State Supreme Court in California says must be done.

That would precipitate a bitter row, but it seems to be the only way the court order could be obeyed. Tax rates in the cities and towns would drop sharply since a substantial part of the funds they raise go to finance public school education.

The people would pay for the operation of public schools out of a different pocket. Some would pay more, and some would pay less.

The likelihood is that a state-wide income tax for education would be placed on the books. It is about the only way of raising the money needed to run the public schools if you can't do it with the funds produced by the real estate tax.

Some funds to pay the school costs could come from the sales tax and a state lottery, but they would not be anywhere near enough to cover the school bill. The state income tax would be almost as high as the federal income tax. The tax bill on a home would be lower, with the school costs eliminated.

This is what is in store for the people of Massachusetts when the U.S. Supreme Court finally orders, as it undoubtedly will, that all cities and towns in a state must pay the same amount of money per pupil for the operation of public schools.

MRS. LEWIS COBRAIN COHEN

Miss Mager Becomes Bride Of Mr. Lewis Cobrain Cohen

At a six o'clock ceremony on Sunday evening, September 5, Miss Phyllis Carol Mager, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Mager of Newton Centre, became the bride of Mr. Lewis Cobrain Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice M. Cohen of Brookline.

The garden wedding and reception took place at 32 Countryside road, Newton Centre, with Rabbi Zev K. Nelson officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory imported Alencon lace and net over peau de sole completely embroidered with seed pearls and fashioned with an empire waistline, skimmer skirt, and high ruffled neckline. The long sleeves were accented with a ruffle at each wrist, and the skirt front was accented with a scalloped lace panel separated from the full wattle train by sheer panels. The lace train was of cathedral length.

A matching mantilla formed her headpiece, and she carried a white Dior rose.

The bride's sister, Janet Mager, was the maid of honor, and the bridegroom's sister, Betsy Solomon, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Ellen Mager, another sister of the bride; Enid Brody, Mary Rubin, and Cheryl Sims.

Serving as best man was Martin Solomon, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and ushers included Michael Burg, Barry Cohen, Douglas Cohen and Allen Herman.

After a honeymoon trip to Florida and the islands, the newlyweds will reside in Minneapolis, Minn. The bride is a student; Mr. Cohen is employed as a buyer. (Photo by Hookkalo Studio)

You can speak French by Thanksgiving
The trick is how we teach you. On September 27th, when the course begins, you start right in with simple words. Le déjeuner. (Lunch.) Du vin. (Some wine.)
After the first lesson, you're speaking easy sentences. Useful stuff, like Qui est cette demoiselle? (Who is that young lady?)
And by the time the course ends, on November 29th, you'll know enough French to get around. Garçon, cette addition est invraisemblable! (Waiter, this check is outrageous!)
At this point, we feel it's only fair to warn you that only a few people can take each French course at Berlitz. The same goes for our other language courses, which start the same week. So maybe you should call us tout de suite. Or in other words, right now.

Newton Symphony's First Rehearsal To Be Sunday

The first rehearsal of the Newton Symphony's 1971-72 season will take place this Sunday under the baton of its music director, Michel Sasson.

Mr. Sasson, a Newton resident, is a violinist of the Boston Symphony and has been music director of the Newton Symphony since its beginning in 1967.

Seven concerts for Newton audiences are scheduled. Three will be given in a Sunday evening series and four others will be youth concerts for the school children of Newton.

At each of its series concerts outstanding members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will make solo appearances with the Newton Symphony. The first concert, November 14, will feature cellist Luis Leguia. Subsequent concerts will feature the Boston Symphony's principal violinist, Burton Fine, and its famed concertmaster, Joseph Silverstein, both of whom reside in Newton.

Max Hobart, in addition to his duties as assistant concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will continue in his role of concertmaster and string coach of the Newton Symphony Orchestra again this season. Mr. Hobart's expertise in orchestral bowings and effects has been a most important element in the development of the high musical quality of the Newton Symphony string sections.

Though the orchestra boasts a full complement of almost ninety players, a few openings exist for qualified players of the viola and double bass. Prospective viola or bass players

Orchestra solo appearance. This season it will be the policy of the orchestra to extend special invitations to Friends of the Newton Symphony who may wish to attend the open rehearsals when these readings are scheduled.

Turnabout In Newton Has Meeting On Drug Problem

A meeting was held on Monday at the Newton City Hall Cafeteria for all concerned parents regarding drug abuse and its prevention. The discussion covered what the community can do to alienate this problem and what can be done for Newton's youth before the problem worsens.

Bill McCue, Admin. Dir. of Project Turnabout stated that the drug problem is acute in Newton as well as in the entire Commonwealth.

In the past two years the problem has increased 300 percent therefore the only solution is to have the community work together to educate the youth and adults and try to establish an awareness of this immediate problem.

Mr. McCue also suggests City of Newton make available more drop-in centers and medical assistance readily available for anyone who requires it.

Included in the panel was Dr. Renner of Mass. General Hospital who spoke about the dramatic increase in the treatment of addicts. In 1970 ten people per month were dealt with whereas the numbers have increased this year to four or five per day.

Dr. Renner stated that prevention is the only hope. His suggestion as to how to attain this was by conducting drug education courses in the schools.

Lt. Tom Dargin, Youth Service Director of the Newton Police Dept. said that with the opening of school students will be returning from vacations all over the country and Europe and quite "Holds his breath for the coming school year."

Ben Ross of the Mass. Mental Health Dept. offered to help in Newton in any way he could to attain more Hot Lines, Drop-in Centers and Coffee Houses. Mr. Ross suggests changing the laws by helping these youths instead of putting them in jail.

A proposal was made that Mayor Basbas' drug committee of 1968 be reactivated and the proposals made at that time, be given consideration by the Board of Aldermen.

Meetings are held every Monday night at the Newton City Hall Cafeteria at 7:30 for all parents interested in helping the youth and solve some of these vital problems concerning our community.

If you have any questions please call or visit Paul Bright or Jeff Durham at Project Turnabout.

"Tres Bien On The Terrace" Set For Sept. 25 By College Alumnae

After a wait of almost 50 years, the former Loren D. Towles estate in Newton finally will make its social debut this month, fulfilling its builder's cherished goal for it as an ideal home for sumptuous entertaining. The 30-room Gothic mansion will be the setting for "Tres Bien on the Terrace," a dinner dance sponsored by alumnae of Newton College, Manhattanville College, and Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart. The latter school is now located on the estate. The dance will take place on Saturday, Sept. 25.

The original 49-acre site represented a dream that almost came true for Mr. Towle, a prominent Boston real estate developer and banker. After extensive castle-hopping in Europe for inspiration, he hired architect Arthur H. Bowditch to design the main house.

As it neared completion in 1923, the Roman brick and limestone edifice was hailed as the ultimate in gracious living. In September of that year, Loren D. Towle died suddenly. His dream house went on the market.

A 16-page real estate brochure of the day refers to it as "A Remarkable Estate." It lists among the assets a separate heating plant and water supply system, wood interiors by Irving & Casson, stained glass windows by Tiffany, and 470 feet of greenhouses stocked with rare plants, peach and apricot trees, and grape trellises.

The brochure notes that "The organ is the finest product of the Aeolian Co., operated both manually and by roll, and comprises the main instrument and console on the first floor and an echo organ opening into the main hall on the third."

Despite its attractions, the estate remained unsold for three years. It was bought by the Religious of the Sacred Heart in 1926 to solve the problem of cramped quarters at their academy for young ladies on Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

Since then, tennis courts have replaced the greenhouses, classrooms and gym extend from the north end of the house, and the original billiard room, dining room and servants' hall now house administrative offices.

But the magnificent front hall, music room, library, living room and conservatory have retained their pristine elegance. These rooms, plus the ballroom-sized west terrace, will be used for the dance. Ruby Newman's orchestra will play under the yellow-and-white striped marquee on the terrace. Dinner will be served at tables for four in the adjoining room.

"Plenty of fall flowers are all we'll need for decorations," said general chairman Mrs. Roger E. Hughes, Jr. "The rooms themselves are so lovely, anything extra would spoil the effect."

Among the committee members working on the dance are: Miss Elizabeth Barry; Mrs. John P. Birmingham, Jr.; Mrs. Harold F. Cahill, Jr.; Mrs. Timothy X. Cronin, Jr.; Mrs. John E. Donnelly, Jr.; Mrs. Peter F. Franzosa; Mrs. Mark E. Gallagher III; Mrs. Frank J. Giovino; Mrs. Philip V. Harol; Mrs. Laurence J. Hoch; Mrs. Brian Kelly; Mrs. John A. Largay, Jr.; Mrs. Robert J. Muldoon, Jr.; Mrs. Edward J. O'Neill III; Mrs. F. Henry Savage, and Mrs. Thomas J. Swan, Jr.

CRC Probes Prejudice

Committee reports probed the complexities of getting people to be nice to each other at the Community Relations Commission meeting in City Hall last night.

William Ramsey's report on employment practices revealed that while 10 percent of the work force at the Newton High School construction site was non-white, at the Day Jr. High site the percentage had sunk from 1 percent to zero. However, Ramsey stated that employment of minority groups is a complex problem involving union recruitment, and added that the CRC could play no further role unless it received a specific complaint concerning discrimination in hiring.

Ramsey added that while there are few non-whites on the municipal payroll and in school administration, the hiring of more than 50 new black teachers brings the total of non-white teachers to 90 in a staff of 1200.

Results of a survey of social clubs taken by Reverend Robert L. Griesse, pastor of the Lutheran Church, were examined.

Key topics for the evening's discussion were presented in Florence Rubin's description of program for the coming year. The committee is examining the problems of recruitment for its "Dialogues"—small group discussions in which the emphasis is on tackling the differences separating groups in conflict.

One special group of dialogues has been the yearly Human Relations Seminar for the Police Department—a sensitivity session in which police officers and youths, or police officers and minority group members confront one another and wrestle with the attitudes that bring them into conflict.

A Conference on Low-Income Housing, conceived of as an educational workshop for city officials, was also discussed.

Rev. Griesse described the Interreligious Committee Project, in which a number of ministers will be paired with high school students for a day of seeing the world from a student's-eye view.

The fall series of educational workshops for small business firms, conducted by Northeastern University's Education, will begin October 5. Courses for businessmen from the Newton-Wellesley area will be held at Henderson House in Weston.

According to Professor Taylor E. Roth, program director, the program will also be offered in Springfield, Mass.; Manchester, N.H.; and Providence, R.I. this year.

The fall series will include courses in: Advanced Financial Management, Marketing Management, Production and Inventory Control, Credit Collections and Cash Control, and Banking Relationships.

The courses are designed to meet the particular needs of the small business firm. Business firms, large and small, will be interested in three additional courses in this year's series: Basic Techniques of Supervision, Human Relations, and Interpersonal Communications.

These courses are designed to assist both the small and large business firms in their day-to-day business dealings.

The Northeastern workshops will be offered in separate sections held evenings and Saturday mornings.

For further information, please contact the Northeastern University Center for Continuing Education, 360 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass. 02115, or call (617) 437-2600.

'Y' Adult Classes Include Many New Courses This Fall

Highlighting the start of the Newton "Y's" Fall Adult classes are a number of new courses, in addition to many favorites from previous years.

Leonard Garfield, the "Y" Associate Executive Director and Adult division head noted: "The popularity of our programs has been growing steadily for the last seven years. It has become increasingly important for those who want to participate to register early, because all of our courses have limited enrollments."

Three new offerings among the adult classes at the "Y" this fall include: instruction in a special flower decoration technique called "Fleur De'cor", a course to help the homeowner beat the high cost of repairs, called "Home Mechanics" and a course in creative writing.

Mrs. Ruth Somerville of Waltham brings her experience at Bateauaux Flowers and Greenhouse to the "Fleur De'cor" class along with her specialized training at Ritner's School of Floral Design in Boston. More than a flower arranging course, preservation of real flowers and their incorporation into wall decorations.

Mr. William Zisi of Newton will share his many secrets and the diverse experience he has garnered through building renovation with the participants in "Home Mechanics."

For many years a teacher in Newton public schools, Mr. Zisi will teach men and women the intricacies of painting, plumbing and electrical repairs, and general care of the home.

His intention is to help members beat the high cost of home repairs, and have a rewarding experience while they keep their homes in good order. For advanced students with more extensive plans for changes in their homes, Mr. Zisi will teach a course called "Home Remodeling." All phases of the remodeling will be covered, from planning and purchasing to painting and plastering.

The holder of a Master's Degree in Creative Writing and the recipient of the Schubert Theatre Fellowship in Playwriting will instruct the new Creative Writing class at the "Y" this fall. The bearer of these credentials, Mr. Douglas Lipman, will cover the most demanding, but rewarding of creative writing forms: the short story. The ten

NAA Lions In Pre-Season Romp Over Norwood 22-0

The Newton Athletic Association Lions won their season opener last week by defeating the Norwood Redmen 22-0 in a pre-season encounter.

The first half was a battle of defenses as neither team could muster an attack.

In the second half, Norwood kicked off to Ed Tompkins who fielded the ball at his own 30 and rammed 70 yards for a touchdown. Fullback, Matt Sabetti rushed the conversion as he crunched over two Norwood defenders.

Newton kicked off and forced Norwood into a punting situation. Newton then started a drive at their own 38 yard line and watched it fizzle at the Norwood 7 due to a fumble. Norwood marched the ball out to their own 35 where they were forced to punt.

The snap from center went over the punter's head and Newton had a first down on the Norwood 11.

Quarterback, Tim Merimee faked to Fullback Matt Sabetti and threw a strike to end, Alan Flynn for a touchdown.

The touchdown by Flynn marked his first with the Lions since becoming a starter two seasons ago. Halfback Ed Tompkins rushed the conversion and the Lions led 16-0.

Norwood fumbled the ensuing kickoff at the 50 and linebacker Matt Sabetti recovered. Three plays later Brian O'Halloran swept left end for 9 yards and a 22-0 count.

The Lions defensive unit was impressive all day and maintained a shut-out while utilizing 30 players throughout the game.

The Lions offensive team came alive in the second half by scoring 22 points with 211 yards total offense. Norwood could only pick up 4 first downs in the game and one was via a penalty.

Quarterback Tim Merimee, in addition to his touchdown fling had receptions to Flynn, John Amicangioli and Dave Fialkow nullified by penalties.

The Lions are now preparing for their first West Suburban League encounter against an always tough Arlington team at Newton Highlands Playground, Sunday at 1:45 p.m.

The Jr. Midget Tigers will debut their 1971 edition starting at 12:30 p.m. prior to the Lions game. The Jr. Midget Mustangs will make their first appearance on Sunday at South Boston. The Pee Wee Division will open their season on Sunday, Sept. 19.

South High's Grid Outlook Is Good As Season Is Near

BY LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

Newton South High's football team recorded its first winning season in three years last year with a 5-3 mark and should improve on it this fall.

The Lions, coached by George Winkler, have eleven starters back, six on offense and five on defense. Most of the remaining posts have replacements on hand in the persons of 1970's back-up team. The positions which appear the weakest are guard and linebacker where there are no returnees.

South's strengths are an explosive backfield, a solid receiving corps and some ferocious linemen.

The quarterback duties last year were shared by Ron Izen and departed Richie Learner. Izen performed capably when Learner was injured, but will be given a real challenge for the job by junior Ned Moan. Paul Pattison has an outside chance, at best, of winning control of the offense.

The running backs are fleet and powerful, though all-star Bob Staulo will be hard to replace at fullback. Staulo ground out 779 yards last season in eight games, including 199 in a single contest. Co-captain Dave Lechhook chewed up 348 yards and scored 30 points, while another backfield starter back, Howie Haines, tallied a team-leading 42 points. Andy Moynihan is the top candidate for the fullback job. Steve Bucavales is another possibility.

End is strong, bolstered by co-captain Bob Levine, junior John Staulo, Bob's younger brother, Rich Dunne, and Tom Ward, all with varsity experience.

The interior line features Roger Cooper, a huge 240-pounder at one tackle, and Dave Dolitka at center as holdover starters, plus experienced Lenny Adelman, Jon Rosenberg, Wayne Vespa, Brian Corcoran and Al Backer. Jim Caruso, and twin brothers Jim and Phil Sellinger will battle for guard positions.

Levine, Cooper, Lechhook, Haines and John Gordon anchor the defense, whose biggest problem is linebacker, where there are no returnees. Bruce Brown, Bob Ronayne, Bill Walsh, Jon Collins, Paul Ford, John Ferreri, Mike Kent and Mike McKinney also have experience.

Coach Winkler is optimistic about the coming season, which opens September 25, versus Bedford High. "Last year was a good season and we have a good nucleus back. Our strongest points are ends, backs and tackles with the weakest being guard and linebacker. Quarterback is a questionmark, but I think we'll be all right with whoever wins the job.

"Our opposition is more or less unknown. Last year in our first year playing against Dual County League teams we had some good games and some bad ones. It was tough to get the team up for a Class D opponent, but after the Wayland game (which South lost 38-6) there was no more trouble and that should be a reminder for this year. We learned something and won't repeat the mistake. But some teams we've never seen at all. One plus about being in a league (for the first time in Lion history) is that there is a championship to shoot for. It's very hard being an independent. One loss kills almost any chance of winning the class title, but in the league even in an off year the team can be a spoiler.

"This season, too, we have a Thanksgiving Day opponent, St. John's, but we hope to begin a rivalry with a school in the league.

"I'm encouraged. I think we will have a good season, barring injuries. Injuries will be important because we have no real depth. We should be tough, though."

Hills and Falls Nursery Plans Parent Activities

September 20th will mark the opening of Hills and Falls Cooperative Nursery School for its thirtieth year of serving families in the Newton and Wellesley areas.

Another beneficial year for pre-school children is anticipated under the guidance of Mrs. John Coates and Mrs. Robert McGandy. Mothers assist by helping at the school one morning a month.

Fathers share a role by contributing their talents at a Fix It night at the beginning of the school year, and by servicing playground equipment in the Fall and in the Spring. Fathers also have an opportunity to visit their children in the classroom on a Saturday morning in the Spring.

Meetings concerning topics of interest to parents of nursery school age children are held throughout the school year with guest speakers invited to lead the discussion.

A Pot Luck Supper, held at the beginning of the school year, is a pleasant evening for parents and teachers to get acquainted.

The children have a wide variety of indoor and outdoor activities and projects available to them. They also participate in field trips to local points of interest such as a farm, zoo, fire department, etc.

Now . . . Norfolk introduces the newest feature of the

ALL PURPOSE BANK PLAN

a great new way to borrow money-RESERVE CREDIT

If you are familiar with Norfolk's All Purpose Bank Plan, you already know the convenience of having your Checking, Savings and Notice accounts on a single monthly statement.

Now Norfolk has added another important feature: Reserve Credit . . . the latest development in modern banking convenience. Its purpose is to provide you with a personal line of credit that you borrow against as easily as writing your name. Just complete a transfer document for the amount you need. Norfolk will then transfer the amount requested from your Reserve Credit to your checking account, and you can write personal checks to pay bills or make purchases.

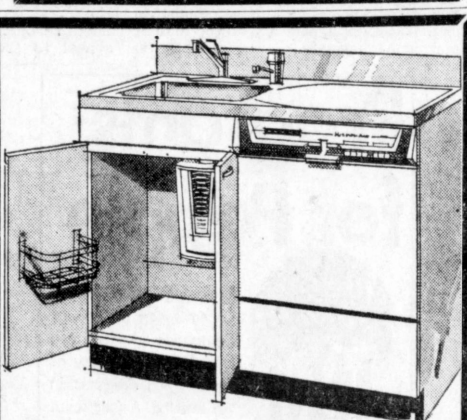

Best of all there's no cost until you use it, and then only at modest interest rates on the amount you actually borrow. As you repay, you rebuild the loan reserve for future use. Status of your Reserve Credit is reported each month on the All Purpose Bank Statement, along with your Checking, Savings and Notice accounts.

If you already have an All Purpose Bank Plan at Norfolk, come in and apply for Reserve Credit. Don't wait till you actually need a loan—establish your credit now and be ready for those financial emergencies everyone faces from time to time. If you don't have an All Purpose Bank Plan, there's never been a better time to start one! Stop in or call your nearest Norfolk office and get the details.

New Approach To Religious Education at Temple School

A university-style system of religious education has been adopted by the Religious School of Temple Shalom of Newton. It is based on the fundamental concept that in order to understand Judaism children must not only study it but experience it as well.

This revitalization of Jewish education was developed by Dr. Robert Spector, Director of Education, and the Religious School Committee under the leadership of chairman Eugene Salem, all under the spiritual guidance of Rabbis Murray I. Rothman and Terry Bard.

Basic to this new concept is the realization that textbook learning alone may be insufficient to awaken a child's interest in the Jewish way of life.

More information may not be enough in a world where people are bombarded daily with information of every type to give a child that spirit of Judaism that will remain with him all the days of his life.

It is the belief of Temple Shalom Religious School that genuine instruction is problem-solving instructing where the child absorbs knowledge not only through reading and listening in the traditional way but also by performing interesting tasks and by undergoing inspiring, meaningful situations relevant to the Jewish experience. Kindergarten through Grade Six are being taught with an eye to the child's creativity.

Children in Grade Six, for example, will be studying the factual content of the Bible through books, but they will also be encouraged to write and act in plays built about the subject-matter that they are studying - all under the guidance of carefully selected instructors.

Creative writing of all types, music, the plastic arts, will be employed to help the child catch the richness of Biblical Judaism, such as perhaps trying to compose original music for the Psalms in the style of 20th century folksinging.

The whole idea is to enable the child to see the living quality of Judaism, as significant, or more significant today with its myriad problems, than ever before.

The Junior-high and High-school grades are relatively unstructured. Seventh and eighth grade classes will have certain required courses in ethics and comparative religion, but students in these classes have their choice of such electives as Jewish History, Story of Zionism, Israeli and Jewish Dancing, Jewish Cooking, Photography of Jewish subjects, Debating, Jewish Fine Arts, Israel Today, Medieval Jewish Literature, Modern Jewish Literature, Archeology of Ancient Palestine.

At least six field trips are being planned for each of these two grades, in order to make the classroom learning more meaningful.

The Ninth grade program is a specialized one, keyed totally to individuality and creativity. Classes have been eliminated and replaced by four week-end conclaves at Camp Interlocken in New Hampshire and five monthly Shabbatons. The conclaves and the shabbatons are designed by the students with the guidance of Rabbis and skilled instructional personnel to bring Judaism directly to the student through activities that appeal to the modern American teenager: creative services, participation in music, dancing, and singing, forums, panel discussions, question and answer sessions revolving about the many problems confronting our American Jewish youth today.

Although the Tenth (Confirmation) Grade activities will center about Tuesday night classes and supper meetings largely planned by the classes themselves, the Tenth Grade will enjoy two conclaves at Camp Interlocken - one in the fall, one in the spring.

The regular Tuesday night classes will involve planning the conclaves and the supper meetings plus the study of pertinent Jewish literature centering about four subject-matter groups - Israel, Eastern European Jewry, the Nazi Holocaust, and Modern America.

At the supper meetings - the last Tuesday each month - students, their parents, and their teachers - will enjoy supper and a guest speaker. The post-Confirmation Class, scheduled for Sunday evenings, will meet each week for a general program of deep interest to young people in their upper years of high school.

Employing the important subject-matter of Rabbi Gittelsohn's incisive book Consecrated Unto Me as a basic study, the class will enjoy in addition the pleasure of vital and informative guest speakers as well as discussions of such important books as Chaim Potok's The Chosen, Malamud's Shen Fiker, Michener's The Source, or any other relevant book agreed upon by students and instructor.

Throughout Grades Seven through post-Confirmation, the emphasis is upon student-teacher communication, understanding, cooperation, and interaction with the living world about us. For this purpose, Temple Shalom has sought to attract to its staff the best available instructional personnel.

The Hebrew Studies Classes, Tuesday and Thursday, more traditionally oriented toward a solid mastery of reading and writing the Hebrew language, have been staffed by experienced skilled instructors. Here the emphasis is upon the study of the language as it is used today in modern Israel.

Just as in the religious studies classes, the effort is to have the student "feel" as well as understand his Judaism, so in our Hebrew classes, the object is to get the student to sense Hebrew as a breathing vehicle of communication, no longer to be thought of as a dead language of a dead people.

In line with these principles, instituted for the lower classes, Kindergarten through Sixth Grade, a full problem of Jewish and Israeli music instruction.

We are all ecological hypocrites

Now, and only now, are we beginning to realize that ecology is more than a conversation piece; that compatibility with the environment will demand a sacrifice that, as yet, we have shown no real desire to make.

Few of us have looked at ourselves, preferring instead to turn a critical eye next door. Unrelatedly we look askance at the industrial smokestack, at the auto plant, at the atomic generator, the steel mill, the chemical industry.

But who, in heaven's name, do we believe these enterprises serve?

We are all, each and every one of us, selfishly, blindly - no longer ignorantly - doing our damndest to destroy our environment, polluting it to our personal convenience until the inevitable point of no return.

The world as a physical entity is not infinite, it is finite.

Uncomfortable though it may be, we have to face the mirror and ask: - Is it selfish and destructive to others including those unborn...

To have five-10 children?
To have three cars?
To have 50 home appliances?

To have a boat which befools the waters?
To create untold decibels of noise?

To litter and waste and buy non-reusable materials?
To demand more and more gadgets which escalate polluting power needs?

We are all hypocrites - the academic, the writer, the nature lover, the legislator, the preacher, the flower child. We talk well and do little.

But we can no longer evade the truth. Saving our environment will force a final confrontation with free enterprise and free choice.

Can we in fact continue to allow untrammelled individual choice now that we know one man's free choice is another man's burden; that a world of free choice may mean no world at all.

The fight to preserve the environment and the balance of nature, in and outside our cities, may demand rules and values beyond anything yet conceived, an idea abhorrent as yet to an older age.

But how else? Man is not yet ready to give up that which he does, or has, without being so ordered.

SCHOOLS OPEN DRIVE CAREFULLY

CITY OF NEWTON POLICE DEPARTMENT

Now that school classes have resumed after the summer vacation all automobile operators must exercise extra care and caution during the periods when children are going to and from school.

Surprisingly, there still are some people who do not realize they must stop their automobile when a school bus stops even though they are headed in an opposite direction from the bus.

If you are driving on a highway where a school bus stops, and when lights are flashing, you must stop and wait until the bus starts moving. This is true whether you are going in the same direction as the bus or the opposite direction.

If the bus discharges children, wait until you are certain one of those youngsters is not going to cross the street in front of your car.

Remember also that some younger children now are walking to school for the first time. They may not yet understand the safety rules their parents try to teach them. One of them might dart suddenly out into the street in the path of an oncoming automobile.

It is the responsibility of every driver to be on the alert for such children and to have his car under such control that he can stop it instantly when he is in an area where small boys and girls are passing to and from school.

The person behind the wheel of an automobile knows the safety regulations. He is expected to have mature and sound judgment. He should never forget that those small children walking along the sidewalk are our most precious possessions and must be protected against any development.

Parents, of course, should do their utmost to impress upon their small sons and daughters that they should stop and look both ways before crossing the street, that they should remain on the sidewalk until no car is approaching and that they should cross only on crosswalks.

But in the final analysis responsibility for the safety of those boys and girls rests on the shoulders of the men and women driving automobiles. If they see children trying to cross the street, they should stop and let the youngsters cross in safety. If they see children walking on the sidewalk, they must be prepared in the event one of them runs out onto the roadway.

Safety is the No. 1 responsibility of every person driving an automobile. Let's give our children a chance to grow up.

Aliyah Plans Services for High Holiday

On the evening of Sept. 11, synagogues throughout the world will be holding the traditional Selihot service. This is a prayer for forgiveness, penitence and mercy. At Temple Aliyah, Needham's conservative congregation, this service will commence at 10:30 p.m. and be conducted by Rabbi Harold Kastle and Cantor Edward Simon.

The Selihot service is always held on the Saturday evening prior to the holiest period in the Jewish Year and is recited at this hour in an attempt to set the tone for each individual who seeks forgiveness from God, as well as fellow men, for his sins committed during the previous year.

Temple Aliyah's Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur Services are listed elsewhere under Religious Services in this newspaper. For further information regarding these Services contact Nathan Green.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JANICE E. KAPLAN

Today's school bells chime the end of lazy days in the summer sun for Newton South juniors and seniors. They join the sophomores who began school yesterday as Newton South opened its doors to begin its eleventh year.

OPEN CAMPUS

With the new school year came several new policies. The major changes in the school day were a result of the implementation of open campus. The open campus plan, which was passed by the school committee last June, basically allows students to leave the school anytime during the day that they are not in a regularly scheduled class. Supplementary programs and available school facilities will also be open to students when they are not in class.

Because of the many options now being offered students, there have been two revisions in the school schedule. Firstly, the school day is longer, and secondly the lunch schedule has been changed.

The school day now extends from 8 a.m. to 2:28 p.m. Classes end at 12:40 p.m. on Tuesdays, allowing time for student and faculty meetings.

Temple Plans Seminar For High Holiday

Marvin Lampert, president of Congregation Kehillath Jacob, 858 Walnut Street, Newton has extended an invitation to residents of the Brookline, Newton, Needham, and Wellesley areas to join in a High Holiday seminar on Saturday evening, September 11 at 8:30 p.m.

The theme of the seminar will relate to social issues as reflected in the High Holiday prayer book and to the universality of the High Holiday theme. The seminar will be conducted by Rabbi Samuel I. Korff, spiritual leader of the congregation.

Residents of the area will have the opportunity of visiting the newest congregation in the Newton area, that has recently been remodeled to suit the needs of the local area for a religious and cultural center.

Reservations for the High Holiday seats are open to the general community and do not require any membership affiliation.

A special invitation has been extended to the Jewish college students in the area to be the guests of the congregation at its High Holiday services without any remuneration. High Holiday seats will be free to those students, and the tickets will be given upon reservations made by the students.

Teens Lauded For Service At Hospital

Teenage and adults volunteering at Newton-Wellesley Hospital this summer turned in just under 4,000 hours of service, according to Mrs. M. D. Roggeveen, director, of the Hospital's volunteer program. Altogether there were 165 summer volunteers, 52 of the Candystripes, junior and senior high school girls and 5 college students, doing messenger service and helping on patient floors throughout the hospital.

Participating young people came from all the Newtons and Wellesleys, Weston and Wayland.

Joining in special thanks to the summer volunteers, Hospital Administrative Vice President William S. Brines, commented that the Hospital had been exceedingly active and full this summer. "It was a hot summer too," he said, "yet through it all these wonderful people came faithfully and gave important back-up assistance to the busy regular hospital team. We are most grateful to them."

HOLIDAY SCHEDULE

School will be closed three days this year for religious holidays. There will be no school on the Jewish holidays, September 20 and 29, or on Good Friday, March 31.

Thanksgiving recess will be November 24-29. Christmas vacation is slated for December 23 through January 3. February 21-25 marks winter vacation, with the spring holiday following on April 17-21.

This promises to be an interesting and exciting year at Newton South. This column will once again appear bi-weekly to keep you posted on all the news and happenings at South.

DRAFT FOES STAND FIRM ON EVE OF SHOWDOWN VOTE

DESPITE new Pentagon warnings of damage to the national security, opponents of the draft extension bill stood firm Wednesday on the eve of an expected close showdown vote on their bid to block the measure—and perhaps kill it for the rest of the year, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he not only would insist that the bill include his timetable for ending U.S. involvement in Vietnam, but that the original nine-month deadline be shortened to 2½ months to make up for lost time. "The situation in Vietnam is not going to be placed on the back burner as long as that conflict exists and as long as I am a member of this body," he told the Senate. The administration meanwhile increased the pressure for Senate approval, delivering a personal letter to each senator signed by the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Unless the draft is resumed by November, they said, "readiness in all the services will be severely and adversely affected in 1972."

GOV. ROCKEFELLER BROADENS PROBE OF ATTICA PRISON RIOT

GOV. NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER Wednesday ordered a broader investigation into the Attica state prison rebellion to determine how nine hostages were killed when the New York state facility was stormed by state police, National Guardsmen and sheriffs deputies. At the prison, state correction officials clamped on a virtual news blackout and refused to answer reporters' questions. Rockefeller, meeting with reporters in his New York City office, was asked if state police bullets killed nine hostages. "In the heat of a situation, tragedies develop," Rockefeller responded somberly, shaking his head. The governor said he would fly to the capitol in Albany Thursday to confer with legislative leaders on the Attica situation. Rockefeller named Robert E. Eisner, the head of the organized crime task force, who is better known as New York's "super cop," to head an investigation focusing on alleged criminal acts committed during the five-day uprising.

STORM EDITH THREATENS LOUISIANA, TEXAS SHORES

TROPICAL STORM Edith, which killed scores of persons and wiped out entire villages in Latin America last week, gathered new vigor Wednesday and threatened the shores of Louisiana and Texas, already soaked and flooded by 21-inch rains. Hundreds were homeless because of flooding from Hurricane Fern, which spun in from the Gulf of Mexico earlier this week and caused an estimated $20 million damage.

BOMB KILLS AT LEAST EIGHT IN SAIGON NIGHTCLUB

A PLASTIC BOMB shattered a nightclub a block from Sen. George McGovern's hotel in the heart of Saigon Wednesday night, killing at least eight persons, including three Americans. It was the worst terrorist attack in Saigon in more than two years. At least another 16 American soldiers and Vietnamese were seriously wounded, U.S. military spokesmen reported, when the 10-to-15 pound bomb destroyed 70 per cent of the two-story Tu Do Club. The blast capped an eventful day in the tense presidential election atmosphere, in which a U.S. Army truck was hit in the 10th fire bombing directed at Americans in six straight days. McGovern ends a three-day fact-finding trip in Saigon today. The incensed senator termed outrageous the statement of the Saigon police chief that McGovern unwittingly conferred with Viet Cong agents Tuesday night when the church in which he met with religious leaders was fire bombed. The commander, Trang Si Tan, said McGovern "was not aware he was meeting with Viet Cong agents and cadres." He explained that some of the youths present were members of the radical Saigon city Viet Cong youth students proselytizing group, some of whom had been arrested earlier. McGovern complained personally to President Nguyen Van Thieu, whom he has criticized for political maneuvering.

REDS SAY NEXT MOVE IN PARIS DEADLOCK IS UP TO U.S.

COMMUNIST VIETNAMESE diplomats said Wednesday the next move toward breaking the deadlock at the Paris Vietnam talks is up to the United States. At the same time, they reaffirmed readiness to agree quickly on a timetable for the release of American prisoners and send them home by Christmas in exchange for a U.S. military withdrawal from South Vietnam before the end of the year. The Vietnamese diplomats indicated they planned no new initiatives beyond the seven-point proposal presented on July 1 by Viet Cong Foreign Minister Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh.

FINANCIAL LEADERS OF 10 NON-COMMUNIST NATIONS CONFER

FINANCIAL LEADERS of the 10 wealthiest nations of the non-Communist world began a two-day meeting Wednesday in London on the world money crisis with the United States under fierce pressure from its main allies to devalue the dollar. The devaluation pressure caused heavy selling of dollars that drove down the price of American currency in London, Frankfurt, Brussels, Amsterdam and other European centers. In Frankfurt, the dollar plunged to its lowest point in 22 years. In London, the value was pushed down from Tuesday's closing price and later staged a small comeback, but officials said the rush to sell dollars reflected the crisis atmosphere of the talks.

RESULTS OF BOSTON PRIMARY SURPRISE MAYOR WHITE

MAYOR KEVIN H. WHITE said Wednesday he was surprised to finish first in the Boston mayoral primary. "I have to be honest," the mayor said after only two hours sleep, "I thought Mrs. (Louise Day) Hicks would finish first." White was not alone in his thinking. Most political observers felt Mrs. Hicks, now a Democratic congresswoman, would outdistance the other five candidates as she did in 1967 when she finished some 13,000 votes ahead of runner-up White to top a 10-man field. White went on to defeat Mrs. Hicks by more than 12,000 votes in the final election that year, and he is now expected to do the same in the runoff this November. The mayor, 41, who drew 46,926 votes to 42,293 for Mrs. Hicks, told his campaign workers, "There are forces at work in this city that want to take it back—and were going to take it forward." Mrs. Hicks, 53, who gained national fame for her stand against racial busing to end racial imbalance in the schools, said the vote shows that "the people of Boston want law and order brought back to the city. Kevin White had every vote that he'll get in November." Few observers agreed with Mrs. Hicks on the last count.

Chantal and Brother

French Girl Here As Exchange Pupil

Eighteen-year-old Chantal Razel of Sceaux, France, arrived in the United States three weeks ago to spend a year as an exchange student on the American Field Service program in Newton.

After three days of orientation in New York, Chantal joined her host family, the Richard Gladstones, 9 Glen Rd., Newton Centre.

In France, Chantal is the oldest of six children, two boys and four girls. Her father is an engineer, whose work often takes him to Africa. She calls her mother a "mere de famille," or housewife.

The Gladstones, Chantal's new family, have three children. Susie, the youngest is to be Chantal's sister for the year. Like Chantal, Susie is a senior at Newton South High School.

At Newton South High this year, Chantal will take courses

OEP Dumps Raise For City Workers

City workers, in pursuit of a wage increase to which they think they are legally entitled, are about to lock horns with the Board of Aldermen on the one hand, and with the federal government on the other.

The city workers are gripped over delays in the appropriation of money for a six percent cost-of-living increase promised last May.

Monday their claim was effectively squelched by the Board of Aldermen, and Tuesday it was turned down by the OEP (the Office of Emergency Preparedness), the federal agency responsible for administering the wage freeze.

The City Hall Associates, a union of municipal clerical workers and secretaries, claim that their contract was settled prior to the freeze, and that it was also supposed to take effect prior to the freeze. This, they say, exempts them from the freeze.

Alderman Cohen, a practicing attorney, is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts where he received a B.A. degree and from Boston University where he received his J.D. and LL.M. in Taxation Degrees. During the Korean conflict he served as a captain in the United States Air Force.

Commercials Crowd Kids TV, Prof Says

A commercial every three minutes, violence in seven incidents out of every ten—this is the content of those Saturday morning cartoon shows, according to a study of children's television published last week.

The study was commissioned by Action for Children's Television, of 46 Austin St. Newtonville and 23 Hancock Ave. Newton Centre.

It was funded through their recent grant from the Markle Foundation of New York, and will be part of the ACT submission to the Federal Communications Commission inquiry into children's television.

Boston University's Professor of Communications Research F. Earle Barcus, who conducted the study, comments that although there is "an abundance of violence of all kinds... very little permanent damage is done to the characters."

Although in 52 per cent of the episodes studies, violence was directed at human beings, only in 4 per cent did this result in death or injury. "One is left with the impression that violence is harmless."

Professor Barcus videotaped a total of nearly 19 hours of Saturday TV programs available in Boston in May and June 1971.

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Has Vice President Agnew Been Discredited By Media

William F. Buckley, Jr., the articulate and at times sharp-tongued columnist and commentator, raised an interesting point about Vice President Spiro Agnew in a recent column.

Buckley said in substance that hostile columnists, commentators, cartoonists and editorial writers went to work on Mr. Agnew in retaliation for his attacks in 1969 upon television networks, certain newspapers, unruly students and other inviting targets.

The question evolving from Mr. Buckley's column is whether these moulders of public opinion have discredited Vice President Agnew to the point where it would be politically unwise for President Nixon to pick him again as his running mate.

Buckley declared that an organization is being formed to pressure Mr. Nixon to tap Spiro Agnew next year as the GOP candidate for Vice President, that he had been asked to join the committee but

Population Boom Fades In Public Schools Here

The population boom appears to be definitely a thing of the past as far as the Newton public schools are concerned. Figures released by Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink at Monday night's School Committee meeting show school population dropping, particularly at the elementary level.

Fink explained that school officials would not have definitive figures until about Oct. 1, but estimated that the school population at that time would be about 17,550 which would be some 260 or 270 below the tally of last October 1.

The Superintendent of Newton Public Schools explained that opening day figures showed a drop of 304 pupils under last year's opening population. Of that total 297 or all but seven were at the elementary level. High and junior high school enrollment have held about constant.

Superintendent Fink said that most of the changes at specific schools had been foreseen. Bigelow Junior High School rose 44 students because of transfers from the Weeks Junior High, which remained about the same. Meadowbrook Junior High School increased by 20 pupils because of an influx from the Angier School. The Warren Junior High School shrunk by 40 students as hoped by the school administration.

At the elementary school level the Davis, Franklin and Ward Schools increased enrollment more or less as expected. Newton High School showed a slight growth and Newton South

High School decreased slightly in enrollment.

Ward 8 School Committee member Alvin Mandell reported that several parents of children in the first grade at the Countryside School had complained to him about overcrowding. The Countryside has presently two first-grades, one with 28 and one with 27 pupils. Mandell pointed out that the totals included

School Board Sets Tuition

The tuition rates for out-of-Town students attending Newton schools were set for 1971-1972 in a routine vote Monday night by the School Committee. According to Massachusetts law, the tuition is calculated on the basis of per pupil cost for the preceding year.

Tuition for elementary school children will be $1,069.24. For Junior High School pupils it will be $1,347.75. For High School Students tuition was set at $1,469.46.

Average cost for all students in the Newton public schools was $1,233.44 per pupil.

Senator Fishman Endorses Carmen Mayoral Candidacy

Senator Irving Fishman (Democrat, Newton) has announced his support of Alderman William Carmen, candidate for Mayor of Newton. Senator Fishman pledged his support to Alderman Carmen at a reception in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Obermayer, where prominent anti-war leader John Kerry also endorsed Alderman Carmen's candidacy.

Senator Fishman stated "It is not often we have a candidate that does justice to our hopes. Too often in politics we are faced with making compromises without conscience, and with compromise we give away a little bit of ourselves. "But there are no compromises needed this year in Newton. We have a candidate for Mayor we can and should enthusiastically endorse. I am supporting Bill Carmen for Mayor not just with my hopes, but with my conscience as well. I know that Bill Carmen is the kind of new leader that Newton needs as it Mayor."

Mr. Kerry stressed the importance of local government with his endorsement of Alderman Carmen, and stated "I am supporting Bill Carmen for Mayor of Newton because his views reflect the human priorities and new approaches that we need at every level of government. Bill Carmen has long been an outspoken opponent of the war, and he brings to urban government the same insights and conviction which brought him to that position."

Community Center Offers Art Classes For Kiddies

Art classes for children, ages 2 to 12, were announced by Art Director, Linda Janower, at the Newton Community Service Center, 429 Cherry St. West Newton, Mass. (969-5906). CREATIVE ART which caters to Mothers and Tots, Nursery children, and Elementary school youngsters offers unusual programming for one and two hour sessions during the fall and winter semesters. For Mothers and Tots: This class offers the child his first opportunity to enjoy creative work and social awareness through the special effort of mother and teachers. Children will expand their sensory perception by experimenting with many forms of art media (visual and tactile) in an atmosphere free of restraint and worry about mess. Mothers gain ideas for home use with children, as well as a new perspective for themselves using various media.

Seeing mothers and children (ages 2 and up) involved in a mutual creative effort like puppet making, splashing paint with bare feet to music, building constructions from boxes, etc., has made it clear to us that this special time together makes this venture doubly meaningful. This group was so successful when we started it three years ago that additional class sections were added. It would be helpful if you could indicate a second choice of hour for this semester, in case the class you request is filled. Also, this gives us an opportunity to group the two, three and four year olds together, making a more homogeneous class. Register early; spaces fill quickly. Schedule for Mothers and Tots is as follows: Monday - 9:20 - 10:20 a.m. Joan Witt and Marie White 1 - 2 p.m. Joanne Holland Thursday - 9:20 - 10:20 a.m. Judy Kelleher 10:40 - 11:40 p.m. Judy Kelleher For Nursery Children: Nursery Art is a class for similar experiences, but for Nursery school aged children who are independent enough to work without their mothers. (Mothers are invited to the first class). Schedule for Nursery Art is as follows: Monday - 10:40 - 11:40 Linda Vahrenkamp and Melinda Hardaway For Elementary School Children: This program has a special staff interested in a wide-open experience for all children. The Art staff is geared to building a child's awareness of himself and the world around him. With this orientation they draw on natural sciences and experimentation, improvisation, body movement, feelings — paths of communication and perception open to him and all culminated in the artistic experience.

The atmosphere is one of discovery. Each child will be challenged to solve problems in new ways. Color, form, design, light and appreciation of the aesthetic concepts will permeate all of these areas. There is a great variety of two and three dimensional materials used for exploration. The staff draws on many community resources such as Match boxes from the Children's Museum, materials from E.S.I. film libraries, etc. However the emphasis is not on the media, but rather on the interests and needs of the individual and the group. The goal is not the finished product, but rather the total experience within the child. Meaningful learning about art is a shared experience between student and teacher. The child brings curiosity, motivation and personal experience of varying amounts; a wide array of materials and processes are provided to the student for his exploration and discovery. The teacher is both a resource, and a guide to the student as he explores. Aware of each child's experience and goals, she assists with technique and helps the child relate artistic processes to his world. The purpose of the program is to stimulate children to express their ideas, feelings, and experiences visually, thus helping them to become happy, confident, creative people.

If your child is drawn to projects which tap the intellect, the senses, the emotions, the body — indeed involve him totally as a person, he will find this program very exciting, very meaningful and a great deal of fun! Schedule for Elementary Children is as follows: Tuesday 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. - K I N D E R G A R T E N Judy Kelleher and Paula Gilbert. K I N D E R G A R T E N D I S - C O V E R I E S: This two hour class presents more opportunity for the pleasure in exploring a subject in depth. The world of puppets, animals, cultures, natural forces and other topics will be explored through the eyes of a five year old with stories, games, songs, dances, films, and of course art. An exciting group for kids who love learning in a fun way. 12:50 - 1:50 p.m. - K I N D E R G A R T E N, S a n d y O l a n s k y 2:15 - 3:15 p.m. - K I N D T R G A R T E N, S a n d y O l a n s k y 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. - G R A D E S 1 - 3, S a n d y O l a n s k y Thursday - beginning February 4 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. - ALL E L E M E N T A R Y WORKSHOP Joanne Holland. ALL E L E M E N T A R Y WORKSHOP: This class is for highly motivated kids who love art and want lots of time to work. The workshop enables a child to work at his own pace and choose the materials that appeal to him. (e.g. a boy who loves woodworking may spend as many sessions in this media as he desires; an older girl may request instruction in creative stitchery, etc.) The children who join may work with their siblings, their friends or alone, as they desire. They may come at any time within the specified hours and stay for as long as they are interested; however, the fall semester has shown us these kids hate to go home! Additional Information for all classes: Classes are limited in size to insure individual attention, and places are filled in the order in which forms are received. Information sheets on all classes may be obtained at the Newton Community Service Center, 429 Cherry St. West Newton Mass. or by calling 969-5906 or 969-5907. Classes will begin the first week in October. All instructors in the Art program are experienced teachers and parents with a fine understanding of children. They may be contacted at any time for special problems or considerations. The Elementary Art Program will have an early Meet-the-Teacher Session, before classes begin so parents as well as children will have an opportunity to meet the instructors, arrange carpools, etc.

Since Mothers and Tots meets regularly with parents, this extra meeting will not be necessary. Nursery Art parents are invited, however, to attend the first class session with their child. Malleable nickel produced in the U.S. is chiefly used for radio and television.

Local Lad Is Jr. Harmonica Title Winner

August was a very exciting month for John Kingsbury, 11, of 32 Barbara Road, West Newton.

John took his first jet flight to visit his aunt in Prince Edward Island, Canada and a week later on August 17th he won the Junior Harmonica Championship of Boston.

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department held a harmonica contest this summer in 18 Boston Districts. 450 harmonicas were distributed to children interested in learning how to play the harmonicas and runoffs were staged in each district. 33 children being selected for the semi-finals at Jamaica Plain, August 9th, the day before John and his mother left for Canada.

This time 14 finalists were chosen, John being one of the 14 in the junior age category (ages 5-12) and Daniel Hellen, 14 of South Boston a finalist in the senior age group (13-18) to represent Boston in the finals at City Hall a week later.

Weathering the tailend of hurricane "Beth" between Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island John and his mother hurried home just in time for John to play "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Good Night Ladies" before a noontime audience and to hear his name called as the Junior Harmonica Champion, to win a bike from Miss Joie Prevost, Mayor Kevin White's patronage secretary.

All this thrilling news on the steps of Boston City Hall at Government Center. The following day John and his mother were guests of Bob Glover at TV channel 56 and on Friday of the same week were guests of the Botton Greyline Harbor Tours.

On Sunday John and Daniel Hellen, the Senior Champion played their harmonicas on the Bob Glover Show on Channel 56 and now they are anxiously awaiting delivery of their new bikes any day now.

The channel 56 tape was sent to New York for the National Harmonica Contest. 45 leading cities throughout the country each have two contestants like Boston. Tapes were played before the judges the week of September 7th to select the four grand prize winners who will be announced on September 15th. The grand prize - a free trip to New York City and a debut on national television for the winner and one parent.

John's grandfather, Prescott E. French of Arlington is the proud harmonica coach. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kingsbury and brother of David Kingsbury, a sophomore at Newton High.

John attends Franklin School where he plays the flute in the school orchestra and he is a member of the junior choir at the United Presbyterian Church of Newton.

Khrush's Shoe

Eleven years ago next month, Nikita S. Khrushchev sparked a bigger craze in this country than even such money-makers as the hula hoop and miniature golf courses could inspire.

The craze had a bit of a head start before the Soviet Premier became a factor, but it seemed to be running its course until a United Nations' session on Oct. 13, 1960, when Khrush in lieu of a gavel took off one of his shoes and banged it on the table to gain attention before the General Assembly.

With some encouragement from the government both on state and federal levels, some folks had begun getting themselves bomb shelters after the USSR leader had remarked at a Kremlin reception, "We will bury you," two years earlier.

After the shoe incident bomb shelters became a must for thousands. Contractors across the country welcomed the surge brought to their business. Underground shelters ranged from oil tank drums to elaborate concrete structures fitted out not only with creature comforts and necessities but luxuries as well.

Every international crisis brought new life to the craze. Boil-ups occurred in Berlin, Lebanon and Cuba. Khrushchev's "We'll bury you" quote, kept the minds of many on "the bomb" and basements of large buildings were tagged with posters attesting the hopes of officials that they would be bomb-proof.

Crises still came and went on the international front. Even though Khrushchev lost his job as top man in the Kremlin, his successors made no attempt to erase his "bury you" words, though they expunged a lot of his ideas. In Peking, Mao Tse-Tung's followers got to boasting what they would eventually do to the "Paper Tiger" that was the United States.

Yet, gradually Americans started to forget all about private and public bomb shelters. In communities where sirens had been tested regularly silence prevailed.

International conditions haven't changed perceptibly since the bomb-shelter days.

We'll never know how effective those old bomb shelters would have been. It's a knowledge Americans would prefer never to acquire.

Khrushchev was buried with little fanfare on Monday, in the last chapter of his strange story.

Failure and Success

The Russian people probably won't hear anything more about the U.S.S.R.'s latest moon odyssey. Unmanned Luna 18's exact mission, of course, was never spelled out in the first place. Izvestia was permitted to inform its readers that Luna 18 performed superbly in 54 moon orbits.

The craft headed for a plotted landing on the moon at the end of its 54th orbit. It hasn't been heard from since. Tass reluctantly announced Luna 18 had had an unlucky landing. That will be the last Russians on the street will hear of Luna 18.

To the rest of the world it was a flop, and the Kremlin specializes in erasing flops from the record swiftly and effectively. However, the Kremlin won't be able to hide from the world that her space scientists have now authored two failures in succession — the tragic end of the Soyuz II space craft, which cost three lives and now Luna 18.

It's very possible the failures could have a beneficial effect on our own space thinking. Soyuz II had gone into space to establish an orbiting space station. Luna 18 might have had the task of bringing back some rocks.

The prime mission of both craft was to restore some of Russia's prestige in space activities. There's no question but that the successes of our Apollos had severely damaged the Soviet image. Yet, there's evidence that during the past two years Russia has cut down on its expenditures in space.

Its apologists have argued unmanned moon missions were more reliable than our actions in putting humans on the lunar surface. The Soyuz II space station feat was truly remarkable but its propaganda yield was greatly reduced by the tragedy of its landing.

Russia will be cautious about further failures. Money and resources it would prefer to put into armaments, will be needed to guarantee space success.

It was 14 years ago that Sputnik 1, a 184-pound sphere, was sent into orbit by the Russians. The achievement astounded the world and the United States couldn't conceal its shock.

We got over the shock. We surpassed the Russians. Now would be as good a time as any to rest on our laurels. As we study our collection of moon rocks we can contemplate the money they cost. We have paid a big price for our moon flights.

Sugar Uses There are more than 70 known non-food industrial uses for sugar. A 139-pound tank is used to ship 17 pounds of compressed oxygen, used in welding processes.

Political Highlights

that he had declined because he felt it would be unfair to the President to do so.

If Vice President Agnew has been discredited by the columnists, commentators, cartoonists, editorial writers and sundry others, who comprise the so-called media, to the extent that Buckley's column implies, it is not apparent to this observer.

Mr. Agnew, to be sure, is a controversial figure. He has blasted television networks and big newspapers and has been blasted back. But he has far greater political stature today than he did when President Nixon tapped him to be his Vice Presidential running mate.

The fact is that Vice President Agnew probably would be more of an asset to President Nixon in next year's election than anyone else he could select.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, former Texas Governor, has been mentioned from time to time as a possible choice to replace Agnew on the Republican Presidential ticket in 1972.

Connally's great claim to national fame, of course, is that he was riding in the automobile with John F. Kennedy when the latter was assassinated in Dallas. He's a Democrat, and he probably would help Mr. Nixon carry Texas.

But it is difficult to think of another State where Connally, a conservative, would help President Nixon more as his running mate than would Spiro Agnew.

Columnist Buckley points out that Mr. Agnew was considered a Liberal Republican when he was nominated for the Vice Presidency. Agnew was widely regarded as a GOP Governor who was progressive and had been pro-civil rights but adamant on the question of law and order and strongly against civil disobedience.

Buckley implies that Vice President Agnew was giving robust expression to some of President Nixon's ideas when he made his attacks upon the television networks and newspapers and that Nixon owes it to him to allow him six months in which to undo the harm he has done himself.

We're not at all sure the Veep has done as much harm to himself as Mr. Buckley seems to think.

Too much emphasis may be placed on the selection of the candidates for Vice President. Several of them in recent years could not carry their own states. Earl Warren couldn't do it when he was teamed with Thomas Dewey in 1948; nor could Estes Kefauver in 1956.

President Nixon's reelection or defeat next year will depend largely on whether the people think he has been a good President or a poor one, not on the identity of the man he selects for second place on the ticket with him.

Is Sarge A Better Governor Because Of Four-Year Term?

We were asked a question at a neighborhood civic meeting the other night, and for a time it stumped us. The query from an obviously thoughtful citizen was:

"In your opinion is Francis Sargent a better Governor than if he were serving only a two-year term and, if so, why?"

After very careful thought and deliberation, our judgment is that Mr. Sargent is not doing a better job than if he were a two-year Governor and that the lengthening of a Governor's term has served mainly to make him more remote from the people.

Back in the early 1960s the League of Women Voters launched a supposedly reform movement to lengthen the term of the Governor and other State Constitutional Officers from two to four years.

The argument was advanced that it would result in better government for the people of Massachusetts and that, relieved of the necessity of running for reelection every two years, the Governor would be free to do a non-political job of running the Commonwealth for all the people of Massachusetts.

If that theory has crystallized into actual practice, it is not apparent from where we sit. Right now it narrows down to the intriguing question of whether Mr. Sargent is a better Governor this year than he was last year when he was thinking in

WHAT'S AHEAD?

Editor of The Graphic:
By now increasing numbers of people are becoming active in the search for a healthier environment, be it at home or at work. What particularly concerns me at the moment is the link up between asbestos and cancer.

In New York City the City Council has passed a law banning the spraying of asbestos onto buildings for insulation purposes. As of February 1, 1972 contractors will have to apply the material as a paste or will have to shift to masonry as a heat retarder.

What caused New York's concern were the findings of medical research which linked asbestos in the lungs to cancer. Since asbestos has the chemical property of absorbing other chemicals onto its surface (it is often used as a filter), it may, once taken into the lungs, hold cancer causing chemicals in contact with cells for long enough periods to enable the cells to multiply uncontrollably.

Now let us change the focus to Newton. Is there a ban on asbestos spraying in our town? If not, there should be. Specifically, is the construction of the new high school, among other buildings, proceeding with the use of such an unhealthy chemical?

Surely we want our children, as well as the rest of the population, to be subjected to as little danger in our most immediate surroundings as possible. Any information which you can give me as to the use of asbestos as a building insulator in Newton would be much appreciated.

terms of politics and in getting the votes of the people in his election bid.

John A. Volpe was the first four-year Governor, but, of course, he set his sights on the Vice Presidency, lost out in his bid for that office because he couldn't control his own state's delegation to the Republican national convention and then resigned from office midway through his term to accept the cabinet post of Secretary of Transportation.

It's possible although highly improbable that Governor Sargent will become the Republican nominee for Vice President next year if President Nixon and his brain trusters finally decide to dump Spiro Agnew.

Sarge probably would be as much help or as little handicap to President Nixon, depending on which way you look at it, as about anyone Mr. Nixon could pick although the general guessing now is that he will again tap Spiro who has done quite a job of throwing many of his snowballs for him.

However, many political pundits are convinced that Governor Sargent will not complete his term if President Nixon wins reelection and that he will accept a position in the Nixon administration so that Donald Dwight may get better public exposure for the run he will make for the Governorship in 1974.

Young Voters Enrolling In Fairly Substantial Numbers

A fairly substantial number of young people apparently are enrolling as voters.

In Boston, for example, it is estimated that half of those who registered as voters before the preliminary municipal election were boys and girls under 21 years of age.

While the estimated figures on the under-21 voters were not spectacular, they were great enough to make an impact in an election, and the totals will grow in the weeks ahead.

Political pundits will be waiting to see what happens later this year in a college city such as Cambridge and early next year in a college town such as Amherst.

The guessing is that students at Harvard, M.I.T. and Radcliffe, who do not live in Cambridge, will be more interested in what happens in their home communities and will register as voters there, not in Cambridge.

While experts express the opinion that most students are more interested in state and local matters than in national issues, the likelihood is that the first big impact of the under-21 voters will come in next year's Presidential election and that it will hurt Richard Nixon.

By early next year, you probably will be hearing a new cry of "student power" from those undergraduate leaders who need something to get excited about besides their studies and the football team.

On the other hand, there is not much in the Presidential picture to get the young people excited. If it were possible to turn the calendar back to this stage of 1959 when John F. Kennedy was launching his campaign for the Democratic nomination for President, the students would have a cause which would influence them to swing into action.

But as one undergraduate leader told us the other day, it's difficult to engender much enthusiasm about any of the present crop of Democratic Presidential prospects.

The war in Vietnam was an issue in 1968 when so many students charged into the camp of peace candidate Eugene McCarthy. But President Nixon is winding down the war, and he should have it wiped out as a real issue next year.

That could cause more students to stay on their campuses and attend classes in 1972.

Thieu's Machinations May Speed Our Viet Withdrawal

The fact that South Vietnam President Thieu maneuvered matters so that he will be unopposed for reelection next month probably will speed up the U.S.

withdrawal from Vietnam.

While the people of South Vietnam should not be blamed for the machinations of Thieu, the fact is that he has played into the hands of the doves who want us to get out of Vietnam and that he had made it more difficult to justify our participation in the Vietnamese War.

Dispatches and reports on the recent National Assembly election in South Vietnam would indicate that the South Vietnamese people are almost as much afraid of Thieu as of the Viet Cong.

This long-range observer also wonders if the voters actually were given an adequate opportunity to participate in that election.

For example, a dispatch reported that the turnout for the National Assembly election was low in Saigon, where only 59.6 per cent of the eligible voters turned out for the election.

But the same dispatch declared that at one crowded Saigon polling station, just before the voting ended, the people climbed through the windows and tried to batter down the doors.

Apparently, this was done not so much because the people were supporting any particular candidates but rather because they wanted to get their voters' cards clipped and stamped to show they had voted.

The people of Saigon have never shown any real liking for Thieu and evidently would welcome an opportunity to throw him out of office. They did elect seven opposition deputies out of a total of 13. But, of course, they'll have no opportunity to give Thieu the heave-ho.

Newly Enacted Law is Aimed At Professional Car Thefts

A greater percentage of automobiles are stolen in Massachusetts than in any other state in the nation. The number increased from 36,180 in 1967 to more than 48,000 last year.

The loss to car owners and insurance companies for motor vehicles stolen in Massachusetts and not recovered now amounts to about $25 million a year.

Almost 75 per cent of the cars stolen in Massachusetts are taken by teen-agers for a "joy ride" or a thrill. Most of those vehicles are recovered although not always in one piece. The operators, some of them in their early teens and too young to drive an automobile legally, frequently are injured or arrested.

But slightly more than 25 per cent of motor vehicles stolen in Massachusetts are taken by professional car thieves for the purpose either of reselling them or stripping them and selling the parts. Most of those are not recovered.

A new law aimed at the professional auto thief has been enacted and placed on the statute books in Massachusetts.

It provides for a "certificate of title" of an automobile which would be issued to a person buying a new or used car. A person purchasing a new car would get the certificate from the dealer. He would produce that certificate when he turned in his automobile or sold it to somebody else.

A car-owner also would be required to present that certificate in order to register a vehicle and obtain license plates for it.

This law should be in operation by the start of next year. It should cripple the operations of stolen car rings which steal automobiles either in Massachusetts or other states and then sell them here through fences.

A similar law has worked well in 36 other states, where the car theft rate is much lower than in Massachusetts.

The system of curtailing the traffic in stolen cars would not be unlike that of protecting the ownership of a home or other piece of property.

It would cost $2 to register the certificate of title with the Registry of Motor Vehicles and $3 for transferring the title when a used car is resold. But the protection resulting should be worth the minor expense involved, and the Commonwealth would be reimbursed for the work it does in keeping the records.

contractor at the High School can always meet these requirements when the contractor at the F.A. Day cannot. We made a very strong commitment to the hiring of minority workers," Mandell declared.

Committeeman Douglas pointed out that the High School has had no change orders during construction and will be completed at the bid price. He compared the High School with the Middlesex County Courthouse which has had 158 change orders and whose cost has risen from the $18 million originally estimated to $55 million.

"I think it significant," Douglas said, "that this year's Middlesex County Assessment is $2.2 million. That is equal precisely to the cost of replacing an elementary school. Part of that money will go the Middlesex County Courthouse."

Young Belle With a Belt; Nina Gets First Degree

Despite his enthusiasm for the effect of the sport on his youngsters Mr. Levin himself is not a practitioner of Judo.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Levin of 164 Newtonville Ave., she won her yellow belt (the first promotion) in Judo at Bay State Judo Club on Tyler Terrace last week, after six weeks of instruction in the Recreation Dept. class. She is a fourth grade student at Cabot School.

Nina has a family full of sparring partners. Brother Marc, 13, and sister Amy, 12, have both taken Judo for six and half years, and both now sport 1st-degree green belts.

A Judo class is a real struggle, and Mr. Levin had to put some pressure on the three youngsters to make them stick with it. "But now they're good enough so they can begin to appreciate it," he reports.

Judo techniques give one an amazing agility, Mr. Levin asserts. Although the Levin kids have a tendency to be on the heavy side, Marc, 13, can turn a complete standing flip without touching the ground with his hands. "It's a good

Creative Gems Shop Opens In Chestnut Hill

Creative Gems, a new concept in jewelry, opened for business this week inside the Ashton Gallery, 667 VFW Parkway, in the Westbrook Village section of Chestnut Hill. The shop makes available to Bostonians jewelry which looks expensive, but in reality, is not.

The jewelry offered by Creative Gems has been designed by a collection of international craftsmen well-known for their skill in creating fine jewelry. But, rather than using costly materials in which their work is best known, these craftsmen have been persuaded to substitute less costly materials, resulting in pieces resembling those which sell for thousands of dollars.

The necessity of costly and hard-to-get insurance is eliminated, and you can wear your Creative Gems without the fear of a substantial loss due to theft.

Creative Gems was conceived by Ruth Berns of Chestnut Hill. A resident of the Boston area for the past 26 years, Mrs. Berns is a member of Temple Ohabei Shalom and its sisterhood, has been head of the Womens' Big Gifts Things are seldom what they seem.

Big cars often pose as big cars, when they're really small cars.

For instance, notice how much bigger the big car seems than the Volkswagen Squareback Sedan. Then count the number of suitcases it can take on: only 12.

Now, notice how small the Squareback seems to be.

Then count the number of suitcases it can take on: 16.

That's because the Squareback has 32.8 cubic feet of carrying space. Which is one and a half times as much as that of the largest sedan trunk.

Of course, if you really have a lot to carry you can always fold down the Squareback's rear seat. Then you'll have more than twice as much carrying space as the largest sedan trunk.

So which would you rather have—a sedan that looks like a big bully but really is a 12-suitcase weakling?

He has championed the cause of an irate and aroused citizenry and is currently opposing N.C.D.F.'s "end run," to by-pass the City of Newton's control by their appeal under the so called Anti-Snob Law, before the Dept. of Community Affairs.

Mr. Stiller will work for the adoption of the Right of Referenda and Initiative Petition to be included in our City Charter.

He will work to uphold the zoning laws to prevent indiscriminate rezoning of residential land for more intensive land use. He opposes any program of forced busing of children out of the City, he states.

Mr. Stiller believes the proposed New City Charter should be defeated, because of the inclusion of many items that weaken the effectiveness of good government. He would like to see more desirable portions of the proposed New Charter added to our present charter through separate legislation.

As a business man Mr. Stiller says, "It is time for a business-like approach to City government." He will work to stabilize the rate and try to get more services for the same Tax dollar.

Mr. Stiller said, "I am a candidate for Alderman because of my desire for Newton to remain a desirable residential community. I will work for a scheduled plan of refurbishing and up-dating school plant facilities in older areas of the city, so that children in all areas will have the benefits of modernized facilities."

He went on to say, "I am able and willing to make time available to work for the City of Newton."

Mr. Stiller is a graduate of Boston Latin School, received his B.S. at Ohio State University in Business Management graduated Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program.

He is Past Master of Euclid Lodge, A.F.&A.M., is a member of Aleppo Temple Shriners, Past President N.E. Toy Representatives Association, President of the Newton Civic and Land Association, and a member of the Newton Taxpayers Association.

Bob and his wife Cynthia are the parents of Myra, a junior at Boston University School of Education, Linda, a freshman at the University of Denver, Robyn attending Meadowbrook Jr. High School and Marc in kindergarten at Memorial School.

Seminar Set Sat. Before High Holiday

Marvin Lampert, president of Congregation Kehillath Jacob, 858 Walnut Street, Newton (tel. no. 969-5482) has extended an invitation to residents of the Brookline, Newton, Needham, and Wellesley areas to join in a High Holiday seminar on Saturday evening, September 11 at 8:30 p.m.

The theme of the seminar will relate to social issues as reflected in the High Holiday prayer book and to the universality of the High Holiday theme. The seminar will be conducted by Rabbi Samuel I. Korff, spiritual leader of the congregation.

Rosh Hashana begins Sunday evening, Sept. 19 this year. Reservations for the High Holiday seats are open to the general community and do not require any membership affiliation.

A special invitation has been extended to the Jewish college students in the area to be the guests of the congregation at its High Holiday services without any remuneration. High Holiday seats will be free to those students, and the tickets will be given upon reservations made by the students.

Middlesex Hospital Seeks Volunteer Entertainers

The Volunteer Department of Middlesex County Hospital on Trapelo Rd., Waltham, is developing its fall program. The biggest need in the chronic hospital remains for persons from the community who will befriend a patient on an individual basis to help him or her keep up his morale and contacts with the community during his weeks of hospitalization.

The hospital is hoping to expand its informal musical occasions such as someone playing a piano on a unit lounge, folk singing with guitar accompaniment or small musical groups, either instrumental or vocal.

"Many of the patients have alert minds, but because of their illness, such as a stroke, are unable to communicate verbally. However, music breaks the language barrier and they are able to enjoy it and feel the vitality of communication again," explained Mrs. D. Barbara Ciampa, director of volunteers.

"The most important needs are informality and continuity of visits by the volunteers. Patients look forward to seeing volunteers return, as they do several METCO children in apparent violation of School Committee policy that METCO children would not be put in classrooms where there were more than 25 children.

Mandell added that he had suggested to parents the possibility of transferring some of the children to the nearby Oak Hill School.

Committeeman Mandell's remarks were seconded by a group of mothers from the Countryside area who were present at the School Committee meeting.

Countryside Principal Merton C. Tefft, Jr., declared that the admission of METCO students was made on the basis of a survey of kindergarten children last spring, which seemed to indicate that five places would be available in the two first grades to bring the classroom size up to the permitted maximum of 25. However, Tefft explained, it turned out that nine more Newton children than were anticipated enrolled last week, thus causing the overcrowding.

Assistant Director of Personnel Hope F. Danielson told the Committee that her Division is waiting to "look at our total resources and total enrollment." She asserted that she needs to know the final enrollment at the Countryside School in order to see whether an additional teacher aide might be allocated to the first grade.

Superintendent Fink observed: "We know that between now and October 1, enrollment will increase between 300 and 400. We have no desire to put kids in an untenable situation at Countryside."

A Countryside mother praised the present first-grade teachers. "They are both wonderful teachers. We would like more METCO children. Most of us enjoy having children of other faiths brought in." On the other hand, she objected to the fact that at present a teacher aide is available only for an hour and a half in the morning for the Countryside first-graders. "We would like more teachers or teacher aides," she concluded.

A different kind of crowding was reported by Superintendent of Schools Fink at the Underwood School where teachers have to park in two-hour limited zones and are getting massively ticketed.

School Committeeman Mandell commented: "We raised the issue of parking at Underwood last spring. I had hoped it would be improved by now. I am disturbed that our employees are getting tagged. Most organizations provide

Miss Frechette-Mr. Brown Married at Nuptial Mass

At Our Lady Help of Christian's Church, Newton, on Saturday, September 11th, Miss Suzanne Marie Frechette became the bride of Thomas Daniel Brown. Both the bride's parents, Mr. S.M. celebrated the 6 o'clock nuptial mass at which the bride and groom exchanged rings. A reception was held at the Holiday Inn, Waltham.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight embroidered organza over taffeta gown. Her molded bodice had a high rolled collar and long sleeves. The smartly styled skirt had a chapel length train. A matching cap was fastened with her illusion veil and she carried an old fashioned bouquet caught with cascading apricot ribbon to match her shoes.

Miss Andrea Biron of Waltham was honor maid. She was attired in an apricot colored satin gown and wore a rust colored Juliet cap and shoes. Her flowers were arranged in an old fashioned bouquet. Identically costumed the bridesmaids were Miss Janet McCarthy of West Newton, Miss Mary Louise Collins of Dorchester, Miss Marilyn Brown of Hull, sister of the groom, and Miss Aletha Diehl of Hull.

Carrying fireside baskets of daisy poms and wearing apricot and rust print dresses, the flower girls were Claire Frechette and Joline Frechette.

The problem is similar to that which once existed at the High School," Gilleland stated. "There is land in back of the children's library. It is City-Owned land and just grass at present. Perhaps as a desperate measure it could be paved and used for parking."

School Committeeman Mandell made what he termed "an imperative motion" demanding that the City come back with an immediate solution to the Underwood parking crisis. Mandell's motion, seconded by Committeeman Edwin Hawkrige, passed unanimously.

School Committeeman Manuel Beckwith concurred with Mandell, saying, "We cannot expect our teachers to go all over the City looking for a place to park."

Committeewoman Eleanor S. Rosenblum suggested that the Committee make its recommendation for new parking on the basis of long-range plans for the new Underwood School.

Master Bernard Frechette was his cousin's ring bearer. Vincent G. Brown of Buffalo, N.Y., served as his brother's best man. Norman Frechette of Pembroke, uncle of the bride, Bruce Goldman of Hull, Carl Peterson of Falmouth and Kenneth Diehl of Hull were ushers.

When they return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will live in Newtonville. The bride, a graduate of Our Lady's High School, is now in her senior year at Newton College of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Brown, a graduate of Hull High School, attended Quincy Junior College and is presently associated with Price Waterhouse in Boston. (photo by Sharon's Studio)

Beth Avodah High Holydays Services Set

At Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton Centre, services for the Holydays of Rosh Hashanah will be held at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19; and at 10:30 a.m. Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 20 and 21. A special children's service will be held at 3:30 p.m. on Monday.

Rosh Hashanah means the beginning of the year... and the spirit of the Holyday is one of solemnity, seriousness, remembrance and dedication. It is a beginning, too, for the congregation, for this is the first New Year service to be held in the new Temple. And Rabbi Robert M. Miller has only recently been elected to the pulpit.

On Rosh Hashanah eve, the Rabbi will sermonize on "A New Year... A New Rabbi". The following morning, he will speak on "A Day of Remembrance".

Strangely enough, the Zodiac sign for the month in which Rosh Hashanah occurs is a pair of scales. Perhaps it is a symbol to remind us that one's deeds are weighed and judged on the New Year. The congregants of Temple Beth Avodah wish to take this opportunity to wish their many friends a happy, healthy New Year.

DISCUSS PAINTINGS FOR EXHIBIT—Chairman Phyllis Church Maloney of Newton and President Marguerite Eichorn Daly of Auburndale discuss paintings for the Newton Art Association Outdoor Exhibit which will be held Saturday, September 18th, 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. at the Centre St. area of the Newton Center playground.

Irma Rogell To Resume Classes In Newton Centre

Irma Rogell, internationally acclaimed harpsichordist has just returned from her most recent European concert engagement. This past summer Miss Rogell spent on the Greek island of Aegina, where she had been invited by Aegina Art Center to be the harpsichordist with their Baroque Chamber Orchestra, and a member of their faculty.

The orchestra, directed by the American conductor, Sayard Stone, was made up of musicians from all parts of United States and Canada, members of such outstanding orchestras as the Metropolitan Opera, the Philadelphia Chamber Players, the Cleveland Symphony.

In addition to being the soloist in harpsichord concerts with orchestra, Miss Rogell was ensemble coach and directed and performed in weekly concerts of baroque chamber music.

The island of Aegina, being only an hour by ferry from mainland, and an hour and a half from Athens, attracted many visitors from Athens, among them composers, critics and musicians, to these concerts of the Aegina Art Centre Orchestra.

Miss Rogell plans to spend the current year in Newton Centre, where she is now preparing her next release for Ars Nova Ars Antiqua Recording Company, and where she will resume her teaching schedule.

This year the exhibit will be on the Centre Street edge of the Newton Center playground, instead of Newton City Hall in hopes that this area will be more convenient to the viewing public.

The exhibit is free to the public and will include interesting events such as some demonstrations by the artist members. One of the demonstrators will be the president of the Newton Art Association Mrs. Marguerite Eichorn Daly, who will paint a portrait in acrylics of one of the audience. Mrs. Daly's portraits were recently exhibited on Channel 4 T.V.

The new Newton Art Association officers elected for the 1971-1972 season are as follows: President, Mrs. Marguerite Daly of Auburndale; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Roland Triff of West Newton; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. George Palmer of Newton Highlands; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Michael Annunziata of West Newton; Assistant Recording Sec., Mrs. Sheldon Frankel of West Newton.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Frederick Fisher of West Newton; Assistant Corres. Sec., Mrs. Stephen York of Waban; Treasurer, Mr. Russell Monto of Newton Center; Membership Chairman, Mrs. Charles Train of Waban; New member of the Board of Governors, Mrs. Ruth Wynn of Waltham.

Women's Union Plans Meeting Here in October

Mrs. Eustis Wolcott of Chestnut Hill, trustee of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston, is general chairman of a morning and luncheon program to be sponsored by the Union at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton next month.

The dilemma confronting women consumers will be the keynote theme of this program on Wednesday (Oct. 27) which will feature nationally famous consumer experts and an outstanding panel of local authorities.

"We plan to provide Greater Bostonians the opportunity to learn more about the campaign to improve the position of consumers and what they can do to insure receiving what they paid for, and what they expect from a product or service," stated Mrs. Wolcott. Title of the conference is "The Consumer Quandary of Women Today."

"Because of the unique program and the top calibre of our participants, we look forward to an early sellout, including luncheon," she added. "Tickets are currently available at the WEIU in Boston."

5 Newtonites Are Appointed Notaries Public

Five Newton area residents have been appointed as Notary Publics according to announcement from the office of Secretary of State John F.X. Davoren. All were confirmed at a meeting of the Executive Council following submission of their nominations by Governor Sargent.

Appointed for the first time was Aaron M. Shapiro of 126 Bonad road, Chestnut Hill while Emanuel L. Rosengard, also of Chestnut Hill, was reappointed. Also reappointed as Notaries were Philip P. Stuart of 28 Cabot st., and Benjamin M. Striberg of 512 Dedham street, both of Newton; and Stephen N. Subrin of 30 Birch Hill road, Newtonville.

All terms of the Notary Publics will expire in seven years.

David Siegel of 21 Royce road, Newton, has been named to the Dean's honor list at the University of Denver for high scholastic achievement during the summer session this year.

Out-Of-Work Engineers To Join City Hall Staff

The staff at Newton City Hall may soon include a full complement of aerospace engineers. The unemployed aerospace engineers are being retrained for jobs in municipal government by Washington's Joint Aerospace Program.

The city of Newton is awaiting final approval on a $216,000 grant from Emergency Manpower Funds with which to hire these converted engineers. The grant, of which $43,380 has already been approved, provides funds for a Traffic Engineer; an industrial engineer to serve as assistant to the Director of the Department of Public Works; a Research Assistant for the Planning Department; a Personnel Manager; and an Executive Director and Secretary to handle the programs of the Drug Education Program, the Newton Youth Commission, and the Council on Aging.

Final application for the funds was filed with the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) Friday, but approval is "just a matter of routine" according to Mayor Monte Basbas, who revealed that Newton has already received a check for $10,000 toward the grant.

In addition to hiring for the technical positions cited above, in which aerospace engineers will be given first priority, and Newton applicants first priority within this group, the grant will also provide funds for hiring of several secretaries and custodians, as well as for the city's first full-time policewoman and a half dozen additional members for both the police and fire departments.

A $70,000 fund request by the School Department has probably been nixed, Basbas says, because the funds requested were mostly to cover such positions as lunch-room aides, and the OEP is not providing funds for part-time workers.

Newton is lucky, says Mayor Basbas. "Any city under 75,000 in population has to work through the governor. But we were able to apply directly for the funds." Basbas revealed that he has been in direct phone contact this week with the Washington office administering the emergency manpower program.

James Curtis of Newton, is enrolled as a freshman at Ripon College in Wisconsin and began classes on Sept. 1. Curtis is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Newell Curtis of 70 Summer st.

"We agreed on a contract on May 12, and it was supposed to be retroactive to May 3. That's 100 days before the freeze began," declares David Thomas, counsel for City Hall Associates. Newton Mayor Monte G.

Bashas supports their contention.

However, the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) has ruled against the claim. In a letter received Tuesday by the City Hall Associates, the union of municipal secretaries and clerical workers, A. D. O'Connor, regional director of the AEP stated, "From what you have told us, agreement was formally executed as of Aug. 16, 1971, which was the first day of the current freeze period."

"No appropriation existed at that time, nor for that matter did it exist at the time of your most recent letter, dated Sept. 1, 1971."

"Under these circumstances, therefore, it is our opinion that payment of these increased wages would be in violation of the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970."

City Hall Associates Union President Murdock Fraser stated that the key factor in the OEP decision seemed to be that the money had not been appropriated by the Board of Aldermen.

The Wage Increase was held up, Attorney Thomas claims, because of delay in the signing of the contract by the Mayor, and delay in appropriation of money by the Board of Aldermen.

The Mayor, according to City Hall Associates President Murdock Fraser, "didn't want to ask for the appropriation piecemeal," and had put off going before the board to ask for an appropriation, until the police department contract was settled.

The City Hall union wasn't particularly worried about the delay, because they knew that regardless of when the formal signing took place, the contract was retroactive to May 3, and workers would get all the money that was coming to them.

Mayor Bashas confirms this interpretation from the city administration's point of view, and adds that city money has been set aside to pay the wage increase.

The Mayor, union lawyer Thomas adds, also objected to some of the wording of the contract. These technicalities, however, had been untangled by early August, and the Mayor's office called City Hall associates on August 12 to say that the Mayor was prepared to sign the contract at any time.

Three days later, on August 15, the freeze was announced. The contract with City Hall associates was signed Aug. 16.

"If the Board had appropriated the money at any time between May 12 and August 14, the City Hall workers would be exempt from the freeze," Fraser asserted.

At the meeting of the full Board of Aldermen last Monday night, the six percent increase was referred back to the Aldermanic Finance Committee "so that individual items can be studied further," according to Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein.

"This does not mean that the Board of Aldermen is voting against raises," declared Uehlein. "Those raises will be in effect in accordance with the law of the land."

But David Thomas, counsel for City Hall Associates, the union of clerks and secretaries in city hall, disagreed. "If the Board doesn't appropriate the money tonight, city employees stand to lose six months' worth of salary," he stated.

Why six months worth of salaries? First of all, says Thomas, speaking for City Hall Associates, the wage freeze shouldn't even apply to city hall workers, because they were scheduled to get their wage increases a full three months before the start of the freeze.

In the second place, there's a catch in those words "according to the law of the land." There's a special state law regulating salary increases to municipal workers in election years.

In an election year no pay raise can go into effect unless it covers at least three months of the year. (Presumably this keeps a legislature from holding onto funds in order to look frugal, and then springing increases after election day.)

By the time of the next Board of Aldermen meeting on October 4, it will be too late to vote the appropriation. The

Miss Johnson, Mr. Paster Married In Sudbury Chapel

Miss Nancy Elaine Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Lenard Johnson of 11 Contentmet place, Dedham, became the bride of Mr. Richard David Paster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paster of Brookline, at a 3:30 o'clock ceremony on Sunday afternoon, August 29, in Martha-Mary Chapel, Sudbury.

Rev. Francis J. Daly officiated at the double ring ceremony, and a reception followed at "The Maridior", Framingham. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory silk organza fashioned with an empire princess bodice of rosepoint Alencon lace embroidered with clusters of pearls, a sculptured wedding band neckline, and tapered lantern sleeves. The A-line skirt was appliqued with matching beaded lace, terminating with a billowing chapel train. Her matching lace mantilla with chapel train was held in place by a camelot cap, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis with white and yellow roses.

As maid of honor, Miss Kristina Ann Johnson of Dedham, sister of the bride, wore a long-sleeved coral crepe empire gown with matching braided sash. Her flowers were an old fashioned bouquet of white and shrimp daisy poms.

Wearing similar gowns in maize yellow and carrying old fashioned bouquets of white, yellow and gold daisy poms were the bridesmaids, Miss Susan Carney of Dedham, Mrs. Peggy Ciriello of Medway, and Miss Joyce Marie Foran of Hyde Park, cousin of the bride.

Patricia McManus of Pennsylvania was in charge of the guest book. Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Mr. Wayne Rana of Southampton, L.I., N.Y., and sharing usher duties were Mr. Kenneth Parks of Dedham, Mr. G. Lawrence Maffei, both of Milton and cousins of the bride.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec, Canada, the couple will reside in Norwood. The bride is a 1964 graduate of Dedham High School and a 1968 graduate of Boston-Bouvé College at Northeastern University. She teaches school in Newton.

Discuss Study Program For
This Year At Temple Sinai

Rabbi Benjamin Z. Rudavsky, 16 Upland Road, Waban, and Louis A. Zonderman, 30 Marvin Lane, Newton Centre, returned from a successful retreat this past weekend in Great Barrington with students of the 10th grade (Confirmation Class) of Temple Sinai, Brookline, and their teachers.

Discussion groups considered the program of study for the year, which will feature weekly classes with Rabbi Rudavsky in which he will develop a comparison of the underlying values of the eastern religions with those of Judaism.

In addition, courses will also be taught on the history of the Jews and on rabbinic Jewish attitudes on selected basic themes such as freedom, oppression and rebellion. Much spirit and good fun was shared on the weekend retreat through learning a number of Hebrew religious and pioneer songs.

A parallel session of the course on the History of the Jews will be offered to parents of the 10th graders, and other interested adults. Another part of the Temple's adult education program this fall will be a course taught by Rabbi Rudavsky surveying "Gems of Jewish Thought" from the Talmud, the Midrash, Medieval and Chassidic Literature.

The Religious School of Temple Sinai, under the creative direction and guidance of Rabbi Rudavsky and Principal Walter Lechten, 45 Columbine Road, Newton Centre, is continuing its successful pioneering developments in the area of Jewish education.

A recently released School Guide outline the curriculum and goals for all grade levels. In the Primary Department, Kindergarten through Grade 3, the emphasis is on helping the foundation of a personal identity with Judaism through an introduction to the Bible, holidays, rituals, customs, etc.

In the Intermediate Department, Grades 4-6, the areas of concentration are: the history of the Jewish people from the Mosaic period to current times, including a study of the State of Israel; an introduction to ethics and the role it plays in everyday life; and a continuing examination of all aspects of Judaism.

In the Junior High Department, which consists of Grades 7, 8 and 9, the students are given the opportunity to elect a program of study from a list of courses including:

Life Is With People (The Shtetl Period) - A survey of the communal life of the grandparents and great-grandparents who emigrated from eastern Europe; how they lived and why they survived; and the manner in which their attitudes shaped their lives and their children's lives as immigrants and first generation American Jews.

Changing Israeli Society - An examination of some of the problems and trends in Israeli society today, including the changing role of the Kibbutz, poverty and affluence, changing ideals and styles of life. This will be considered in comparison with problems and trends in contemporary American society.

The Prophets - their Personalities and Teachings - A study of the major literary prophets: Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel. An understanding will be developed of how their personalities and teaching affected Reform Judaism.

Courses at this level are ungraded so that strict grouping by age is eliminated, leading to greater flexibility in grouping and broadening of opportunities.

The Hebrew School offers an intensive program of study, with a growing emphasis on conversational Hebrew - especially in the fifth-year Hebrew courses. Students may become a Bar or Bat Mitzvah upon completing the necessary program of study which includes at least three years of Hebrew.

Because Temple Sinai believes that it is essential for a religious school to keep pace with the advances in course content and innovative teaching methods being introduced in the public schools, it plans to continue to develop new programs and new approaches in Jewish education.

Increase-

It includes the state funds allocated to the city on the "cherry sheet," the list of transactions between the city and the state. The surplus also includes money raised by building permits, zoning applications, etc.

The tax rate is set quite late in the year because the city can't set its tax rate until state budget is passed. Then the state sends out the cherry sheet telling how much money is being allocated to each city and town, and what the costs to each town will be for MBTA and county assessments.

MBTA, county, and other state assessments amounted to $5.6 million while state allocations amounted to less than $4.2 million. The city must shell out a net of $1,429,600, which accounts for $3.50 of the tax increase. About 35 per cent of the city budget goes toward state assessments.

In the meantime, the city borrows money for operating expenses. Taxes are calculated on the basis of how much money is needed to cover the budget, including interest on money used to run the city between the beginning of the year and the time the taxes are collected.

The final setting of the tax rate depends on how much money can be transferred from the budget surplus account to cover budget items. Some money must be retained in the surplus account to cover emergency expenditures. The rest goes toward items in the city budget. Expenditures not paid for by surplus funds must be paid for by city taxes.

A small part of the increase (perhaps 25c) may be due to a raise in teachers' salaries negotiated last spring. The Board of Aldermen at its Monday night meeting approved an $88,000 appropriation for raises in teachers' salaries to begin Nov. 13 (at the end of the freeze) and continuing to the end of the fiscal year (Dec. 31).

Before the freeze was announced, the Finance Committee had approved the initial school committee request for $207,018 to cover salary increases from September to the end of the year.

Crystal Balling Red Sox Future

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

What does it take to mold a pennant - winner? Obviously, Baltimore has something the Red Sox have not. Outside of things like cohesiveness and lack of dissension from within the ranks the Orioles have one important thing over the Red Sox. Pitching.

It's almost laughable to compare the two staffs and even more uproarious to believe they were expected to be comparable. Well, while Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar, Pat Dobson and Jim Palmer all cruise toward their 20th wins, Red Sox hurlers' earned run averages skyrocket toward the 5.00 mark.

At one time or another this season Bob Bolin, Ken Tatum, Jim Lonborg, Ken Brett, and Luis Tiant demonstrated they belong in the major leagues. Most of the time they were major disappointments. Sparky Lyle, 5-4, 2.81, and Bill Lee, 9-2, 2.69 saved the bullpen from being a total write-off, while Sonny Siebert, 15-9, 2.87 and Ray Culp, 14-13 were the genuine two front-line starters. Gary Peters, 13-11, was amazingly erratic.

By hook or crook, or hopefully, by the farm system, help must arrive to augment the incumbents. Southpaw Rogilio Moret looks like he's arrived already. Other reinforcements better be on the way. Lynn McGlothlin, Jack Curtis and Mike Garman were supposedly a year away this spring. Their time is now.

The Red Sox's infield doesn't look half bad with George Scott, Doug Griffin, Luis Aparicio and Rico Petrocelli. The aging (37) Aparicio appears to have help at hand in Juan Belquez. Petrocelli is a slick fielder and a good hitter, but he started popping off last week. If things don't straighten out he'll be gone, which is too bad since he's a solid ballplayer. Of course, if Tom Seaver were available, it would be nice. The other infield substitutes, Phil Gagliano, 304, and John Kennedy, 275 were miracle-workers this year, though Mike Fiore should have retired after spring training.

Carl Yastrzemski should bounce back. Reggie Smith is one of the best hitters in the league and hopefully will improve his fielding. Billy Conigliaro will definitely be traded if he doesn't shut up. Joe LaHoud has flashes of brilliance, but he's only hitting .225.

Catching has always been a sore spot. Don Pavletich, Bob Montgomery and Duane Josephson were the best in recent years but if Johnny Bench jumped leagues no-one would complain.

Conclusion: The Red Sox need pitchers desperately, plus a little consistency. They could also use some luck, like the kids coming through.

The Red Sox should have done better this year and they'll probably trade like crazy this winter to shake up the team. By next April, Pavletich, Bolin, Tiant, Fiore, Conigliaro, Petrocelli, Peters, Brett, and maybe Gagliano will be gone.

P.O. Promises 24-Hr. Service

Postmaster George G. Walker promised next-day delivery beginning October 31 for "95 per cent" of the zip-coded first-class mail deposited by 5:00 p.m. on weekdays in business district or main-street boxes in the Boston area.

This means that Newtonites can expect overnight delivery on all mail sent from Newton to communities as far south as Plymouth, as far west as Marlboro, and as far north as Haverhill and Newburyport. (Cape Cod is not included.)

Newtonites should receive letters mailed from anywhere in the Boston Postal District.

Post Office officials say the speed-up should affect more than half of all first-class mail.

According to workers in the Newton Centre Post Office, the drive here for next-day delivery is already under way.

Mgr. Alvin Huberman, Peter Katseff, Steve Rittenberg, Paul Winnick, Paul Goldman, Brad Schiff, Chris Teranova, Coach Ron Van Dam. The Chiefs' league record is 14 wins, 4 losses, 2 ties; playoff, 4 wins, 3 losses, 1 tie.

Local Lions Take 28-6 Victory In League Tilt With Arlington

The N.A.A. Lions won their first West Suburban Conference game against the Arlington Spy Ponders by a score of 28-6 at the Newton Highlands Playground last Sunday. The Lions had a balanced scoring attack as 5 different players recorded points.

The game began on a rather sour note. Newton won the toss and elected to kick. After forcing Arlington to punt, the Newton offense fumbled on the next three plays, losing the last one to the opposition.

For the second series of downs Arlington was forced to punt. Safety Pete Arnold made a fair catch at his own twenty. From there the Lions went 80 yards in fifteen plays and culminated the drive with a Matt Sabetti to Brian O'Halloran touchdown pass of eight yards. Halfback Ed Tompkins rushed the conversion and Newton led 8-0 which was the score at the half.

In the third period, Newton took the kickoff and launched another drive which was terminated by a fumble. After forcing Arlington into its 4th straight punting situation, the "Blue and Gold" went 43 yards in twelve plays with fullback, Jim Vizakis crashing his way in from the two. Again Ed Tompkins rushed the conversion and the score read scoring drives and also made a spectacular catch for the score. Little Pete Arnold who weighs 80 pounds carried the ball three times for 62 yards and a touchdown.

Defensively the Lions were spearheaded by Matt Sabetti, Alan Flynn and Dave Proia. Tompkins for consistency and also Brian O'Halloran.

In a way, it sounds like life itself.

This is because of what electricity does. Its benefits to man. In our health care. Our standard of living. Our working conditions. In so many things we take for granted, because we take the availability of electric power for granted.

Yet in another way, electricity sounds like the value it is. Yes, electric rates reflect a chaotic oil situation. Yes, many utilities have been forced to raise rates due to increasing costs and others may have to do so in the future.

Even so, electricity can perform services beyond price—like running this baby's incubator.

What does electricity sound like?

We're working to make sure you never find out what it doesn't sound like.

New Miriam Uni Self Enrichment

The new Miriam Uni Self Enrichment Series, an eight week program in building self-confidence, will begin its fall session next week.

"With classes for men and women, this course will concentrate on developing human relations tools for dealing with contemporary situations successfully," according to Miss Uni, its creator and director, who will personally conduct the three-hour seminars.

"Self-confidence is a key ingredient for achieving success today," Miss Uni explains. "We therefore emphasize techniques for understanding yourself, understanding others, effective communication and relaxation of mind and body, all of which allows us to unlock our creative minds and enhance the positive aspects of our self-image."

Miss Uni has drawn on her more than eight years of instruction in field of human relations to prepare this series which was originally presented exclusively to sales and marketing personnel, corporate executives and professional organizations throughout the country. Last year it was offered locally for the first time as the "Unique Woman's Series."

"We have obviously made some content changes for the men's program, however the women's series will follow last year's course structure," she adds.

Men's classes begin Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. with women's classes beginning Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. and Sept. 23 at 10 a.m.

Often referred to as a "female Henry Higgins" who helps transform people into dynamic, confident personalities, Miss Uni serves on the executive committee of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Greater Boston.

Miss Uni was formerly associated with Sales Training of Boston as vice president.

ALL PURPOSE BANK PLAN

a great new way to borrow money-RESERVE CREDIT

If you are familiar with Norfolk's All Purpose Bank Plan, you already know the convenience of having your Checking, Savings and Notice accounts on a single monthly statement.

Now Norfolk has added another important feature: Reserve Credit . . . the latest development in modern banking convenience. Its purpose is to provide you with a personal line of credit that you borrow against as easily as writing your name. Just complete a transfer document for the amount you need. Norfolk will then transfer the amount requested from your Reserve Credit to your checking account, and you can write personal checks to pay bills or make purchases.

Best of all there's no cost until you use it, and then only at modest interest rates on the amount you actually borrow. As you repay, you rebuild the loan reserve for future use. Status of your Reserve Credit is reported each month on the All Purpose Bank Statement, along with your Checking, Savings and Notice accounts.

If you already have an All Purpose Bank Plan at Norfolk, come in and apply for Reserve Credit. Don't wait 'till you actually need a loan—establish your credit now and be ready for those financial emergencies everyone faces from time to time. If you don't have an All Purpose Bank Plan, there's never been a better time to start one! Stop in or call your nearest Norfolk office and get the details.

This is a Deck House. Although it is a thoroughly American, contemporary house, it reminds one of the best examples of Japanese residential architecture. In its design and construction it reflects the traditional Japanese concern for orderly function, simplicity and restraint in design, the flexible control of interior and exterior space, the relationship of the house to its natural setting — and most importantly, the typical Japanese attitude to the house as a dwelling place for both the spirit and the body of man.

Congressman Robert F. Drinan (D., Mass.) last night called upon the Federal Government to make a new and unique moral commitment to the 20 million Senior Citizens of America.

Speaking before the American Association of Retired Persons at the Statler Hilton in Boston, the Congressman declared that "America must commit itself to treat its Senior Citizens as its first citizens."

"The present administration has proposed sweeping economic reforms to combat inflation and create jobs, but no program has been designed to provide relief and remedies for the aged," Drinan stated.

"Instead of repealing a 7 per cent excise tax on new automobiles which, in general, would benefit the most prosperous persons in America and those least in need of a $200 savings in taxes, I suggest the repeal of excise and other taxes of up to $200 per year which our Senior Citizens now pay at great sacrifice."

"The repeal of 5 percent excise tax on telephone use would benefit all of us," Drinan pointed out.

"Another way of alleviating unemployment while simultaneously benefiting older Americans would be to provide positions for jobless persons, both skilled and unskilled, doing tasks for the one million Senior Citizens who presently live in institutions," Drinan recommended.

Concluding his remarks, Drinan exhorted Senior Citizens to become the most active and militant force and voice in America. "You, the older citizens of America, have an overwhelmingly powerful voice," the Congressman declared. "You have been locked out of the labor market by the unconstitutional requirement that you may not earn any more than $1,680 a year. You are required to maintain yourselves as retirees on benefits which continually diminish in real value. You are being cheated daily in benefits which should be yours in housing, medical care, and even in food."

"This nation will listen to its fathers and mothers, its grandmothers, and grandfathers," the Congressman declared, "and it will remember, recognize, and reward those over 65 in the manner which they rightfully and richly deserve."

Northeastern to Enroll 200 Freshmen in January

Northeastern University will initiate its first January admissions policy when it enrolls a second freshman class on January 3, 1972. Dr. Asa S. Knowles, N.U. president, announced today.

The announcement follows a request by Boston Mayor Kevin H. White for involvement by education institutions in the new Veterans Education and Training Action program and a Northeastern survey revealing an increase in the number of servicemen discharged too late to fulfill the regular fall admission procedures.

The January class, however, will not be exclusively for veterans. It is also expected to attract students who, because of financial difficulties, were unable to enter college immediately following high school graduation. By continuing summer employment through December, such students will have earned sufficient money to make January enrollment possible.

Also, students who preferred to travel before entering college or highly talented high school students who wish to enter college before completing their secondary school studies may be interested in applying for the new January admission.

Members of the January class will complete their freshman year in three quarters. Upon entering their sophomore year they will pursue the normal Northeastern cooperative schedule by alternating quarters of the four upperclass years between classroom instruction and work on regular paying jobs related to academic majors.

According to Gilbert C. Garland, dean of admissions, students may register for the January class at either the Boston campus or the university's suburban campus in Burlington.

Programs are available which lead to degrees in engineering, technology, business, pharmacy and allied health professions, arts and sciences, criminal justice and teacher education.

Dean Garland noted that the class will accommodate 200 freshmen and that the application deadline will be Dec. 1, 1971.

61 Students Enrolled In Nursing Class

Sixty-one students began classes in Newton - Wellesley Hospital's School of Nursing last week - the first class in a new two-year diploma program. Among them were four men, five married students, two Licensed Practical Nurses and an operating room technician.

While two-year programs have been available in other parts of the country for some eight years now, Newton - Wellesley's is the first in New England. Over the past year and a half faculty have been developing the new curriculum, which will take eighty weeks to complete.

The school had over 1500 inquiries for the 60 places available this year and the first class reflects a far broader spectrum of age and background than has been usual. Over half the class has had previous experience in the health field serving in such capacities as nurses aid, orderly, hospital volunteer or caring for retarded children. The class ranges in age from 19 to 38. Fifty-four students come from eastern Massachusetts - 111 of them commuters, and there is a student each from Western Massachusetts, Connecticut, Georgia, New Jersey, New Hampshire and two from Maine.

NHA Postpones Answer On Low-Income Housing

Members of the Housing Authority at its Wednesday, Sept. 8 meeting, expressed reservations, but deferred official discussion of the Board of Aldermen's counter proposal on low-income housing. It seems that no one is making any sudden moves on the Housing Authority proposal to buy three city sites for construction of public housing.

The Housing Authority received notification from the Board of Aldermen that the city would sell approximately one-third of the land requested, with the remaining two-thirds reserved for recreation at two sites, but the matter was also referred back to the aldermanic Finance Committee for further perusal.

In response to questions by League of Women Voters representative Mrs. Stephanie Martin, Housing Authority vice-chairman James Miller said that there was a question whether a builder would bid on a project that contained only 12-15 units on four sites.

Donald R. Ferreri, the Housing Authority representative from organized labor, added that there could be a problem of maintenance costs in taking care of 16 units spread over four sites. The board cut an original Housing Authority request for 120 units to approximately 12 to 16 units of low-income housing.

Asked whether the Housing Authority would negotiate with the Board of Aldermen for a compromise housing figure, Miller stated, "In a sense, we are in a non-negotiable position," because the Housing Authority proposal was a firm cash offer.

"There is a problem of philosophy," he added, "and a problem of needs." Even the Changing Roles Of Women To Be Theme of Panel

"A Woman's Changing Roles" is the title of the symposium that will be presented to the public free of charge by the Massachusetts Mental Health Center Auxiliary, 74 Fenwood Road, on October 2 at 1 p.m.

A panel discussion followed proposed sites only as a package, so it is not clear what action could be taken on the third site, on Thurston Road in Upper Falls.

The Aldermanic Housing Committee had recommended four units of low-income housing and housing for the elderly on separate sections of the Thurston Rd. site. "The Newton Housing Authority felt that a mix of low-income and elderly housing wouldn't work. But the Board felt otherwise," said NHA vice chairman James Miller.

Dr. Reichard's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Reichard, has been an active member of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center Auxiliary since 1955 and has served on its Board in various capacities. She is a past president of the Auxiliary and assisted in coordinating arrangements for this program.

Other residents of Newton who have been working on the program committee are Mrs. Douglas Chessen, Mrs. Benjamin Gill, and Mrs. Robert Pyles.

by questions from the audience will focus on the options open to a woman in her effort to live a creative and meaningful life and on the ways in which the choices she makes affect those with whom her life is intertwined.

Dr. John F. Reichard, 63 Monadnock Road, Chestnut Hill, will preside as moderator and introduce the speakers.

Cohen-

Alderman Cohen is a former director of the Associated Alumni of the University of Massachusetts, and is a past president of Alumni group.

He was appointed by Governor Peabody to serve on the Massachusetts Advisory Board of Higher Education Policy, and has been cited by Governor Volpe for his role in developing and expanding the field of higher education in the Commonwealth.

Having served as Special Counsel for the Boston Finance Commission, he was cited by the City of Boston for financial savings to the city resulting from his direct efforts.

An author of widely used legal forms, he has been a member of the Northeastern University faculty.

Alderman Cohen has served as Chairman of the Education Committee of the Board of Aldermen, and currently serves as Chairman of the Legislation and Rules Committee and as the Board's Vice President.

Among a few legislative ordinances in which he was instrumental were the reorganization of the Recreation Department, the Air and Water Pollution Ordinances, and the establishment of Occupancy Permits for Substandard Housing.

In seeking reelection, Alderman Cohen addresses himself to the problems of the 1970s and more especially to the ever increasing real estate tax rate. "Tax dollars must be stretched to go further" and while he believes this can partially be accomplished on a local level, we must also look to the national and state governments for support."

A municipal legislator's role, according to Cohen, should no longer be limited to local problems for he feels a concerted effort should be made by all municipal officers to press for a reevaluation of national and state priorities.

"Only through these efforts can monies be funneled back to the hard-pressed local communities, the backbone of our nation," he said.

A Director of the Greater Boston Heart Association and a former District Director of the United Fund, Alderman Cohen is the Vice-President of Temple Ohabei S halom in Brookline, a past president of its Brotherhood, as well as being a member of Temple Mishkan Tefila of Newton. He and his wife, Elaine, and children, Sandra and James, reside at 52 Voss Terrace.

Edward P. Nelson, '72, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy L. Nelson of 17 Plainfield street, Newton, attained the Dean's List for a grade average of B or better during the spring semester at Williams College, Williamstown.

Women Voters To Continue Charter Unit Discussions

At meetings to be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday September 22, 23, and 24, the League of Women Voters of Newton will continue its discussion of both the present and proposed Charters of the City of Newton.

Each year the League examines some aspect of Local government, but only twice, in 1966-1967 and in 1970-1971, have its members engaged in lengthy studies of the entire structure of government.

In 1966-1967 the Newton League studied and discussed the provisions of the present Charter, reaching positions which have been a basis for action during the past four years.

As a result of one of these positions League members worked to place on the 1969 ballot a question to permit the election of a Charter Commission, which in 1970 prepared a Proposed Charter for the City of Newton.

The question of adopting or rejecting this proposed Charter in its entirety will appear on the ballot on November 2.

Before that time the League of Women Voters, at its September meetings and at meetings on October 6, 7, and 8, will have considered Newton's governmental structure by discussing and comparing the city's present charter, the proposed charter, and positions now held by the League.

In September, factual information on all aspects of both charters will be presented and discussion will center on elections, city planning, aldermanic procedures, and initiative petition and referendum procedures. At the October meetings, neighborhood units of government will be discussed.

The same subject is discussed at all Units during a given week, and participants may choose the particular Unit they wish to attend. Morning meetings are 9:30 to 11:30; luncheon meeting is 11:30 to 2:00; and evening meetings are 8:00 to 10:00. Locations are as follows:

Wednesday morning, September 22, at the home of Mrs. Gerald Cohen, 26 Larchmont Avenue, Waban; babysitting at the home of Mrs. Brian Murphy, 101 Avalon Road, Waban. This unit will be led by Mrs. Elia Lipton. The Wednesday luncheon unit will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox Street, West Newton, and will be led by Mrs. Ernest Picard. (Bring a sandwich and coffee will be provided.) Mrs. Joseph Alexander will lead the Wednesday evening unit at Newton Junior College, 5 Park Place, Newtonville.

Thursday evening, September 23, the unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Edwin Weiner, 156 Arnold Street, Oak Hill, and led by Mrs. Edward Morrison.

Mrs. F. Dow Smith will lead the Friday morning, September 24, unit at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street. A babysitter will be in attendance.

Discussion units, for which there is no charge, are open to the public and visitors are most welcome. The League of Women Voters of Newton carries out a major part of its program by means of the discussion units and the conclusions reached in the units act as a guide to the local League Board in making decisions.

This first set of discussion units is an excellent means for Newton women to get acquainted with local government. Further information about the League of Women Voters of Newton is available from Mrs. Jonathan Bard, 6 Holland Street, Newton, Membership Chairman.

Feeley Sees Link Between Television, Tunnel Vision

Can too much TV-watching make your child accident-prone? Sgt. Charles Feeley, of the Newton Police Department's Traffic Safety Education Program, thinks so.

In a letter to David J. Lucey of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Sgt. Feeley suggested that TV watching in the early years, plus new techniques, encourage bad visual habits.

"When I went to school, you always had to watch for the teacher out of the corner of your eye. This encouraged peripheral vision," Sgt. Feeley says.

Today, says Feeley, teachers use an "over-the-shoulder technique," standing directly behind the student's chair to go over his work. The student knows exactly where the teacher is, and he stops exercising his peripheral vision.

In the schools of a generation ago, much work was copied from the blackboard, which required constant refocusing of vision from desk to board. Today, much of the schoolwork is done in workbooks, Feeley says, and the skill of rapid glancing, which is vital to traffic safety, has virtually disappeared.

In his letter to Lucey, Sgt. Feeley stated,

"The disturbing increase in the number of children aged five to nine involved in pedestrian-auto or bicycle-auto accidents may be attributed to television-training in the early years and new teaching techniques in the school age groups.

"Television and over the shoulder techniques encourage tunnel vision. This became apparent in 1967 when Newton experienced thirty-six pedestrian accidents involving second- to eighth-grade students, all with good or reasonable vision.

"In each case visibility was good, and in each case, the child came into contact at the driver's door, or the back seat or trunk sections, and saw the car only after they were knocked down. In each instance the driver tried to avoid collision. Interestingly enough, none of the children were seriously injured, as in each case an alert driver was in the process of braking. These cases indicate that tunnel vision could be a reason.

"At the time, I consulted with Dr. Charles Chilling, U.S. Public Health and a member of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Optometry Association. Dr. Shilling intended to have a study made by the Health Department, although to my knowledge, this was not followed up. However, the Mass. Optometrists were interested and suggested mobiles or a multi-colored ball suspended and rotating, (to attract attention and break concentration) in every classroom, and if possible, every home T.V. room. Any variation of the foregoing could also work.

"At this time, we visited every classroom in the Newton schools, and had complete cooperation with the schools and many parents.

"When we started our bicycle safety program, we took fifteen to twenty fourth-grade children outdoors on bikes for street training.

"As a result of our on-the-street training, we were able to get these nine-year-old children in the habit of looking over the left shoulder before signaling or making a left turn.

"This fourth grade class was the first time those children learned to glance behind them before making a turn. At first, the children had difficulty in maintaining control of the bicycle if they took their eyes off a straight-away point. However, they caught on quickly and became much safer.

"Of course, we can't point to any elaborate scientific study to prove that the tunnel vision theory is correct, but since we started the bicycle training, accidents of this type have become minimum.

"I write this so that one of your researchers may pursue this, and through your office you may be able to promote more programs in encouraging parents, teachers, and children to a greater use of the eyes as a means of accident reduction."

Rep. Guzzi Has New Schedule Of Visiting Hours

Rep. Paul Guzzi, who has been holding "Office hours" at Newton City Hall every Friday afternoon since the beginning of the legislative year, has announced a change of schedule which will go into effect immediately.

Guzzi will continue to be at City Hall, Room 222, every Friday between the hours of 2:30-4:30 p.m. He will also be available evenings on the first Monday of each month at his home (49 South Gate Park, West Newton), between the hours of 7:00-9:00 p.m.

The change is designed to accommodate the schedule of residents within the Newton district, particularly those who are unable to go to City Hall on Friday afternoons.

Rep. Guzzi stressed that the need and opportunity does exist for individuals to express their views on issues currently before the Massachusetts Legislature.

"Too often people assume that elected officials aren't concerned about their particular point of view. And all too often interested citizens fail to communicate with their representatives because no regular channel for such dialogue exists. I am hopeful that these office hours will promote meaningful communication," he said.

Rep. Guzzi can be reached at the State House by phoning 727-3639. He can also be reached at Newton City Hall on Friday afternoons at 244-4700 (ext. 260).

Great Books Discussion Group to Meet Sept. 21

Is sex man's primary motivating drive? Did our bodies but not our souls evolve from the animal world? Is man a fault to be explained successfully in terms of environment?

At the first meeting of the Newton Discussion Group these popular suppositions will be challenged in the Group's discussion of Robert Ardrey's book African Genesis.

The discussion will be held at Newtonville Public Library, Tuesday evening, September 21 at 8 p.m.

The Newton Great Books Discussion Group consists of twelve to fifteen people who meet informally on alternate Tuesday evenings under the leadership of Irving Sanders of Waban. Through discussion they explore the meaning of a Great Book written in our Age as well as in other Ages.

The program rests on two basic concepts: that there is excitement in ideas discovered through discussion; that "The unexamined life is not worth living."

Because the Great Books depict the experiences of the human race, they often answer those provocative, insistent questions each of us asks himself in so many different forms: What can I know? How shall I act? What am I, and what may I hope to be?

The list of the Great Books scheduled for 1971-1972 is:

1. IBSEN: The Wild Duck
2. EPICTEUS: The Manual
3. CHAUCER: The Canterbury Tales
4. DANTE: The Inferno
5. EURIPIDES: Medea
6. BERGSON: Time and Free Will
7. GOETHE: Faust
8. WILLIAM JAMES: Psychology, Briefer Course
9. SPINOZA: On the Improvement of the Understanding
10. PLATO: Symposium
11. KIERKEGAARD: Works of Love
12. BOCCACCIO: The Decameron
13. The Book of Genesis
14. DARWIN: The Origin of Species
15. TURGENEV: Fathers and Sons

The public is invited to attend any of Great Books Discussion Group meetings, to participate if they have read the book, or merely to observe. Every meeting is a demonstration of the discussion process of learning. For additional information about the Great Books Discussion, call Mrs. Esther Cimo, at 244-7221.

57 Teacher Appointments Get OK By School Board

Teacher vacancies in the Newton Schools had all been filled by Monday night's School Committee meeting, according to Assistant Superintendent for Personnel James Laurits. "There are fine people available," Laurits said.

"Strange figures have been quoted on the recruitment of black teachers. We had 26 black teachers who are returning this year, and we have recruited 24 new black teachers. There will be a total of 50 black professional people," Laurits declared.

Laurits asserted that he would not have final figures until next month but that he estimated there would be about 1250 or under persons in the Newton School system this year, a slight drop below last year's 1250.

CAPT. ERNEST MEDINA CLEARED OF ALL CRIMES AT MY LAI

A COURT MARTIAL JURY at Ft. McPherson, Ga., which deliberated 57 minutes, cleared Capt. Ernest L. Medina Wednesday of all crimes at My Lai, including the murder of a Vietnamese woman he admitted shooting. The decision came at 4:19 p.m. EDT, and the speed was in sharp contrast to the verdict in the case of Lt. William L. Calley, which took 13 days. Col. Kenneth A. Howard, the military judge, called Medina before the bench, and then the president of the court, Col. William Proctor, rose and addressed the defendant: "Capt. Ernest L. Medina, it is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session, and upon secret written ballot, has found you not guilty of all specifications and charges." Medina said as he left the courtroom: "I'm extremely happy. I just don't know what else to say. I always had absolute faith in the military justice systems and I always thought my actions would be exonerated." In addition to one count of murder, Medina also was accused of involuntary manslaughter in the slaying of 100 Vietnamese whom his troops allegedly killed, and of two counts of assault for firing shots over the head of a Viet Cong prisoner he questioned at My Lai. He could have been sentenced to three years on the manslaughter and assault counts, and to life in the murder charge. He originally had been accused of 102 counts of murder, but all but one of these was reduced or dismissed by Howard before the jury was given the case. Medina's famed criminal lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, admitted he "had some concern about the assault charge" because of the wording of the judge's charge to the jury on these counts. Bailey said, however, he was convinced his client would be acquitted on all other charges.

PRISON WORKERS THREATEN TO LOCK UP ALL CONVICTS

THE UNION representing New York State's 8,000 prison workers, reacting to the five-day Attica prison revolt, said Wednesday they would lock all convicts in their cells Oct. 7 unless Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller implements immediate prison reforms. Earlier, a well-informed source in the Rockefeller administration estimated that damage at Attica would total more than $3 million. Thirty convicts, six guards and four civilian employees died in the uprising. "We'll lock the prisoners in their cells and we'll feed them and that's all we'll do," Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, parent union to the Security Unit Employees Council 82, said at a news conference in Albany. He was backed by the presidents of chapters at all 22 state correctional facilities, including Hollis Chase from the Attica state correctional facility.

HURRICANE GINGER TURNS WEST TO AIM AT BERMUDA

HURRICANE GINGER ended an eight-day sabbatical in the central Atlantic Wednesday, turned westward and aimed its 75-mile-per-hour winds at Bermuda. The National Hurricane Center at Miami said the resort island would be stung by Ginger's far-flung winds Wednesday afternoon and would probably feel winds approaching hurricane force during the night.

NATIONALIST CHINA WINS UN VICE PRESIDENCY

NATIONALIST CHINA won a vice president's seat in the United Nations 25th annual General Assembly Wednesday. It was an unexpected show of strength by the Chiang Kai-shek forces who are fighting to maintain a place in the United Nations. The Nationalists won 73 votes among the 130 members of the world body, seven more than necessary for a simple majority. Traditionally, the assembly elects the big five—China, the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—plus 12 other member states as vice presidents. The vote, therefore, could not be taken as an accurate measure of Nationalist China's strength in the final test against the Communist regime. That will come in the debate and vote on rival resolutions submitted to the assembly by the United States and Albania. The U.S. resolutions would admit Communist China and give it China's seat on the Security Council while at the same time retaining a seat for the Nationalists in the General Assembly. The Albanians would expel the Nationalists.

DIPLOMATS SEE INDICATIONS OF CRISIS IN RED CHINA

DIPLOMATIC sources in Hong Kong with contacts in Peking said Wednesday there were indications of a crisis in Communist China. But Chinese embassies in major world capitals said Chairman Mao Tse-tung is alive and healthy. The diplomatic sources said there was no clear indication what was wrong. The sources had speculated a string of "unusual" events in the past could point to the illness or death of the 77-year-old Mao who has ruled the giant nation with an iron hand since 1949.

ISRAELI CABINET DISCUSSES SUEZ CANAL FLAREUPS

THE ISRAELI CABINET met in Jerusalem Wednesday for its first full-scale discussion of last weekend's flareups along the Suez Canal—the worst since the U.S.-initiated Middle East cease-fire began 13 months ago. In Cairo, an Egyptian diplomat warned that all western interests in the Middle East could be jeopardized if war broke out between the Arab states and Israel. Kamaledin Rifaat, ambassador to Britain, was quoted as saying the Middle East conflict was no longer purely an Arab-Israeli problem, "but an international problem and any deteriorating in the situation may extend to affect the interests of several world countries." Even as Prime Minister Golda Meir's ministers met, the Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv reported that the United States had told Israel it could have more Phantom jet warplanes if it would make concessions toward a partial peace with Egypt.

WHITE HOSTS DOZEN MAYORS FOR CONFERENCE

THE LEGISLATIVE Action Committee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, which is attempting to focus attention on urban problems, takes a look at tax-exempt property in Boston today. Boston's Mayor Kevin H. White, a member of the committee, will host a dozen mayors on a bus ride and tour of tax-exempt property, highlighting on the city's college-saturated properties as well as lands owned by the Massachusetts Port Authority. The one-day visit to Boston is the group's seventh stop on its periodic cross-country "road show." Meanwhile, the executive vice president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation said Wednesday that large amounts of tax-exempt property do not necessarily force tax rates to rise. "There is no significant relationship between large amounts of exempt property and high local property tax rates," Frank J. Zee said. Tax rates in most communities, he said, "will largely reflect spending decisions and past and future choices as to the character and intensity of land use, irrespective of the extent of exempt property."

Lower Falls Dispute

Area Tenants Give Views On Problems

Much has been said about the homeowners in Newton Lower Falls who are fighting urban renewal there, and much has been written about the Aldermanic Land Use Committee and the Redevelopment Authority, who have been dueling for months over the chairmanship of the Authority.

But comparatively little has been said about the tenants, the residents of the unheated, crumbling, leaky or boarded-up buildings that drew reformers' attention to the area some eight years ago.

There's Miss Sara Shaw, the spunky grey-haired lady of "way, way past 65," who rents a small converted barn sandwiched between a gas station and a TV and appliance store.

She will be glad to get out of her present quarters, which she says are very stuffy in the summer, but she hates looking for an apartment, and dreads moving, which means trying to stuff dozens of paintings (she will have a one-man exhibit at the Lower Falls library soon) and accumulated knick-knacks into an apartment.

Miss Shaw has lived in her little house for ten years, and she's reluctant to think of going to another

Informers To Receive Pay

The Board of Aldermen voted Sept. 13 to appropriate $1500 to a special police account to pay informers in drug arrests. The money will also be used to make "buys", in order to provide a basis for arrest of pushers.

Alderman Harry Crosby expressed concern about the appropriation. "I think people should be aware that there will be informers among them," Crosby said.

Memorial Fund To Help Medic Alert

Under Monte Basbas's chairmanship a few years ago the first suburban-type campaign of the Greater Boston Project Lifeguard taking the life-saving services of the Medic Alert Foundation to the community was launched.

Copied quickly by other communities these campaigns have spread internationally, thus Newton people can take pride in their part of the saving of lives which has resulted.

Next Thursday Is Deadline For All Candidate Stories

The deadline for entering Newton's 1971 municipal election contests has expired. The lists of candidates are finalized. The election is less than six weeks away. In fairness to all the office-seekers, next week's edition of the Graphic will be the last one in which announcements of candidacies for the Nov. 2 election will be published.

DiCarlo Remains As Member

Davidson Takes Over Chairman's Position On NRA

A six-month log jam was broken Monday when the Newton Redevelopment Authority voted during a special meeting with Mayor Monte Basbas to accept the resignation of Mario DiCarlo as chairman of the Authority.

DiCarlo submitted his resignation last spring at the request of Mayor Basbas, when the Board of Aldermen declared it would refuse to approve zoning changes for a proposed Redevelopment Project in Newton Lower Falls until DiCarlo stepped down.

The aldermen were responding to pressure from homeowners in the project area who objected to demolition of homes involved in the Redevelopment plans.

DiCarlo will continue as a member of the Authority. At a meeting of the Redevelopment Authority last Thursday, DiCarlo accused the Aldermen of refusing to act "because of a personality conflict with me."

Mayor Basbas announced the election of Robert G. Davidson, Director of Planning and Construction for the MBTA (Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority), as the new chairman of the Authority. Davidson is former chairman of the Newton Planning Board.

The Mayor expressed hopes that now the redevelopment project will be able to "move along."

Authority member Donald Daniels, who at last Thursday's meeting of the Authority urged action on the resignation, said that the decision was unanimous. "This is quite an achievement for the Mayor. It may mean a new lease on life for the whole Redevelopment Authority," Daniels said.

As recently as last Thursday, Authority member Lawrence Sullivan was suggesting that it was as likely that the Board of Aldermen

Dr. Rowland To New Post For Welfare

Appointment of Dr. Richard H. Rowland of West Newton as executive director of the new Massachusetts Public Council was announced today by Acting Chairman Harry M. Durning.

The Council was formed this spring as a citizen-group base to broaden public understanding about welfare problems and to provide an independent and respected voice on the issues that arise in the welfare field.

The hiring of an executive director was made possible by a $20,000 grant to the Council from the Committee of the Permanent Charity Fund. The Council has its headquarters at 14 Somerset St., Boston.

Election Campaign Shifting Into Gear

Newton's municipal election campaign is beginning to pick up spark and steam. The lists of candidates in the various contests have been closed. The battle lines have been drawn.

Registration for the important Nov. 2 election will end on Wednesday, Oct. 13.

Interest is starting to mount in the battle for the right to serve as Newton's next Mayor and the fights for places on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee.

Major contenders in the mayoralty contest are Alderman William Carmen, Representative Theodore D. Mann and Representative Paul F. Malloy.

A fourth candidate is Alan G. MacNeil.

Sarge Unlikely To Get Wish For Open GOP Veep Fight

Governor Francis W. Sargent apparently is a prospective candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice President next year—provided there is an opening or opportunity to seek that nomination.

Mr. Sargent has told fellow party leaders that he favors an open fight at the 1972 Republican national convention for second place on the GOP national ticket with President Nixon.

It's highly improbable that Mr. Nixon would give up his right to handpick his Vice Presidential running mate. But Democratic Presidential candidates have done that twice in modern times, setting the stage for highly exciting fights.

City Asked To Ban Salt

"The true cost for heavy salting (of roads) must include damage to shoes and boots, cars, shrubs, grass, concrete, etc.," declared a petition to ban salt presented to the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Peter Harrington, on behalf of Mrs. Carolyn Whittle of 59 Anthony Circle, Newtonville.

The petition which declares that salt is "generally destructive to the New England water and biota (plant and animal life), is aimed to substitute the streets.

The signers hope that action will be taken before this winter's snows. The petition will probably be assigned to the Public Works Committee.

Antonellis Candidate For Re-election As Alderman

Alderman-at-Large Michael J. Antonellis of 49 Lawmarissa Road, Newton, has announced his candidacy for re-election to his present position in the forthcoming Newton election. Mr. Antonellis was elected to the Board of Aldermen in the Special city wide election held last December.

MICHAEL J. ANTONELLIS

A lifetime Newton resident, Mr. Antonellis is married to the former Janette Train of Newton, and is the father of three children, Lauren, age 8, Suzette, age 6, and Michael Jr. age 4.

A graduate of Newton schools, Mr. Antonellis served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, in the Asiatic-Pacific area. Later, he attended Boston University and Boston University School of Law, graduating as Juris Doctor.

Mr. Antonellis has been a practicing attorney for 18 years, and maintains a law office in Newton Centre. He is a former Special Assistant United States Attorney, a former Trial Attorney with the Criminal Division, United States Dept. of Justice, and a former Assistant City Solicitor for the City of Newton.

He is admitted to practice before the Massachusetts and Federal Bar and is a member of the Mass. Bar Association, Federal Bar Association, Association, Boston University Law School Alumni Association and the Justitia Law Society.

Mr. Antonellis is currently serving as Newton Community Chairman for the 1971-1972 United Fund Drive. He is a member of the Boston University Century Club, and in October 1970 was appointed that a three year term as a member of The National Alumni Council of Boston University.

He served as host of the 1970 Garden City Charity Ball and will serve as host at the forthcoming Garden City Charity Ball for 1971. Mr. Antonellis is a member of the Newton YMCA, P.T.A., American Legion, Post 440, Order of Sons of Italy, Lodge 1069, Knights of Columbus Council No. 167, Italian-American War Veterans, Post 50, and the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

In declaring his candidacy for re-election Mr. Antonellis states that in his capacity as Alderman he has at all times endeavored to apply a common sense approach to the problems and issues of government, with a view towards a person to person relationship with the people, striving for understanding and fairness, and cognizant of and considerate of the voice of the people.

He further maintains that his record since election manifests his concern over, understanding of, and efforts to alleviate the many problems confronting particular segments of our community, including the drug problem and other matters relating to the youth of our City.

In the matter of subsidized public housing he advocates a careful approach, mindful of the constantly changing Federal and State programs and policies in this field, engendered by experiences and problems confronted elsewhere, and states that our guideline and ultimate aim should not simply be to provide housing, but to provide such maintained living accommodations within the relatively limited capabilities of our developed City that will not be viewed at a subsequent date as a blight on our City, but as a product or program conducive to the well being and betterment of the occupants, and not inimical to the property, interests and welfare of abutters and others in the immediate area; a product or program having and deserving of the confidence and support of our Citizens.

He says he considers as the foremost problem facing our City the ever increasing tax rate, and the resulting financial burden on all of our Citizens, and particularly on the elderly and others living on limited and fixed incomes.

In this regard he asserts that under present circumstances substantial relief is dependent upon Federal and State programs which are beyond the scope of the powers of the Board of Aldermen.

However, within the purview of his authority as an Alderman he maintains that any non-essential, although desirable, programs involving substantial expenditures should not be undertaken, and that every reasonable effort be made to scrutinize and curtail all expenditures.

Dr. Rowland comes to the Council after two years working nationally with various state governments as a planning consultant for the American Public Welfare Assn. and the Social Development and Review Corp.

A native of Wisconsin, Dr. Rowland has lived in the Boston area for 12 years. He has worked with the United South End Settlements and the Roxbury Multi-Service Center.

He is past president of the Catholic Inter-racial Council of Boston and a former member of the Archdiocesan Human Rights Commission.

At various times he has taught at Simmons College, Northeastern University, Boston University and the University of North Carolina. He received his doctorate from the Florence Heller School at Brandeis in 1970.

"There is deep confusion and, as a result, an occasional atmosphere of hysteria surrounding welfare these days," Dr. Rowland said. "This confusion covers the cost of the various programs lumped together under the overall welfare umbrella, the status and background of the people who get the benefits and the alternatives for solving what has finally become a crisis at both the state and national levels."

Dr. Rowland said that the people who have banded together to form the Council felt a new organization was needed to seek out the facts and to present them to the public.

"We think this facts-first approach is essential to reaching out and bringing in the broadest possible membership from concerned business, labor and civic groups across the state," Dr. Rowland added.

"The Council's position will then be developed from the base of a diverse membership, and we're convinced it will have far more impact as a result."

Maxine Kumin Publishes Her Third Novel

Her works have appeared in Harper's, the New Yorker, and Atlantic Monthly.

Mrs. Kumin has been an instructor and lecturer at Tufts University and a scholar at the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study. She was born in Philadelphia, Pa., and received her degree from Radcliffe. Publisher's Weekly has lauded her works, stating that she "writes beautifully and meaningfully, creating a group of very real characters of different backgrounds."

GOP Loyalty Fund Drive Is Now Under Way

The Annual Loyalty Fund Drive of the Newton Republican City Committee is well under way at this time and is meeting with encouraging results, it was reported today by Julius L. Masow, Committee Chairman.

Letters signed by the Committee Chairman, its Treasurer and all eight Republican Ward Chairmen, have been sent to nearly three hundred of the committee's membership.

"While these letters have been sent to Committee members who are by virtue of their activities closely identified with the GOP in Newton, we invite all those interested in the party to participate."

"We need to raise funds with which to carry on normal operational activities required to keep voters of Newton informed of our programs and events," Masow declared.

Ward Chairmen participating in the campaign are: Miss Adelaide B. Ball, Ward One; Wigmore A. Pierson, Ward Two; Henry Brown, Ward Three; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh, Ward Four; Robert H. Corbett, Ward Five; Michael Lipof, Ward Six; Mr. and Mrs. G. Nicholas Dawson, Ward Seven; and Melvin B. Clayton, Ward Eight.

Mrs. Charlotte R. Hirschberg of Waban is Treasurer of the Committee.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas cut the ribbon at the main office on Tuesday, September 21, inaugurating an open house for the remainder of the week. The public as well as depositors are invited to visit both locations this week and participate in a drawing for a free color TV set to honor the occasion. The winning name will be drawn at 3:30 tomorrow, Friday, September 24, at the Newton Highlands location.

Michael G. Milgroom, a 1971 graduate of Newton High School, is enrolled for the fall term at Shimer College in Mount Carroll, Ill., where he will study for a bachelor's degree. Milgroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Milgroom, 51 Holly road, Waban.

Alderman Jefferson Will Seek Re-election To Post

MATTHEW JEFFERSON

"My decision to seek re-election to the Newton Board of Aldermen as an Alderman-at-Large, Ward 3 is based on my belief that we need to work for continued change in some of Newton's priorities, better vision as to what our city is and what it should be for all of its citizens, and a recognition that the city, the state, the county and the world is changing. We can no longer act as if we occupy our own little niche in space, but we must realize that whatever we do ultimately effects others," said Alderman Matthew Jefferson in announcing his candidacy.

"I won election to the Newton Board of Aldermen as an Alderman-at-Large, Ward 3 after filling the unexpired term of Alderman Paul Burke, Ward Three Alderman, in 1968. "Presently I am chairman of the Street Traffic Committee, a member of the Public Works Committee, Land Use Committee, and the Special Committee on Housing. I have also been appointed to other special committees by the president of the Board of Aldermen.

"As chairman of the Street Traffic Committee we have instituted some new procedures which we see as helpful in implementing items on our dockets and giving citizens a greater voice in our decision making process.

"In particular the traffic committee has made it a rule that any petition to change a street from two way to one way, no parking, hours relative to no parking, etc. is advertised for hearing before the committee before the matter is finally voted on by the Newton Board of Aldermen. A new traffic item control docket was also devised.

"The purpose of this control sheet was to keep proper and accurate account of all traffic items and to be able to say at what step the item is at any time. It also facilitates the handling of the many traffic items and to be able to say at what step the item is at any time. It also facilitates the handling of the many traffic items coming into the city government and aids any petitioner when inquiring as to where the item stands.

"High on the list of concern of the citizens of Newton is the need to make their streets safer relative to vehicular traffic. Since this is a predominately residential community, I continue to urge more vigilance and enforcement in this direction.

"Low and moderate income housing is still a much discussed topic in Newton, both from the private developers and the Newton Housing Authority concept. I think the Board of Aldermen will play the key role in supplying the needed housing. It is apparent that if we do not take charge, someone else will. I prefer that the city allow the building of low and moderate income housing and that we legislate our own terms, not have someone else to do it for us.

"I think that a percentage of all low income housing and (moderate income housing too, if this is ever achieved) by the housing authority should be exempt from residency requirement. The basis for my belief is that state and federal funds are used in all of these developments.

"More explicitly, it would indicate that we are both interested and cognizant of the housing shortage throughout the metropolitan area. Our land mass is limited, therefore we should plan and plan effectively so that there will be no finger of recrimination pointing at our city in the future.

"It is imperative that we make decisions concerning the financial well being of Newton now. That portion of our tax dollar that we have control of should be handled shrewdly.

"The matter of garbage collection in the city is a necessary financial expense. We should decide now how it is going to be implemented in the future since it costs nearly

Higgins Announces Bid For School Committee

Peter Higgins of 42 Brae Burn Rd., Auburndale, in announcing his candidacy for the Ward 4 school committee seat, addressed himself to "the Newton voter who is not completely satisfied with the educational system in our city and is very concerned with the rapid growth in his tax bill."

"To those of you have this frustrating feeling," Higgins declared, be assured that as your representative on the School Committee my policy will be directed towards this end, that is, continuing to stress programs which will benefit all of our children, having in mind particularly a better education for the average student, and at the same time balancing these objectives with financial responsibility.

"My approach in these fiscal and other matters will be first to direct the superintendent to operate his department with not more than a maximum increase of 4% in his budget each year — less than one-half the annual increase of 10% to 12% we have been experiencing in the past five years. It will be his responsibility, as it should be, to then act within this framework giving and taking where necessary but again without exceeding this maximum increase. Within these budget limitations all items must be carefully screened by the School Committee. Only in this way can we the new school committee say to our citizens — we recognize each of you may have differing opinions about education and its costs but we have taken action to establish a budget that will balance your interests, that you can rely on year to year and with no surprises. We will expect our professional educators to establish programs within this framework which are best for all of our children."

"Secondly the Superintendent should be directed to establish educational guidelines not for just the next year but for the next five years. I am recommending not a general statement about goals and objectives or the purpose of education, but a plan with sufficient details which spell out to our students, citizens, teachers, and administrators what the Newton schools are going to do during the next five years. This 'planning' technique is being used very effectively by companies which are spending money in the $20 million range, the very size of our school budget. This 'plan' will enable the administration to deal with new programs, ideas, and problems as they arise with more understanding and less effort than with the 'brush fire' techniques used so often today."

"These two approaches: setting a ceiling on spending and planning today for the future — should help to calm the polarized camps within our city and at the same time balance the needs of our educational system."

"In the past 14 years I

SOME PEOPLE JUST TALK BILL CARMEN GETS THINGS DONE.

When taxes started going out of control, Bill Carmen sponsored cuts in the budget. When our senior citizens found themselves out in the cold, Bill Carmen pushed the Elderly Housing Program through. When the national drug problem hit Newton, Bill Carmen helped bring Operation Turnabout to town. When Newton's open spaces were in danger of being taken over, Bill Carmen fought for a Newton Conservative Commission. Three years before the Pentagon Papers, Bill Carmen was already Chairman of the Newton Peace Center. Bill Carmen has been involved for 22 years. Because he cares. And he needs the help of a lot of people who care just as much. Like you.

Absurd Curiosity

According to the 1970 census, the town of Attica's population is something less than 3000. Over a 10-year period the population went up by 300. Attica's principal industry is the big State-owned correctional institution carved out on land which might have been added to its farm acres with the passing of time.

Last weekend curious outsiders descended on the town and as a people who would have preferred to have been alone with their sorrows. Curious heads poked out of automobiles, some of which bore registration plates from as far distant as Toronto.

The unwanted visitors gawked stupidly at the walls of the penitentiary and exchanged stupid observations. They saw nothing of interest. Curtains were drawn in many of the homes. The walls were silent blanks. Police kept the cars moving, and some of the visitors challenged with — "It's a free country isn't it?"

Curiosity is not an exclusive American phenomenon. It's a natural human trait. Yet, a man, who will go to the trouble of packing his family into a car on Sunday and driving a couple of hundred miles to visit the scene of a tragedy, has been cheated in life. He needs an interest.

Following the recent San Francisco earthquake disturbance, the task of searching for possible victims and restoring order was impeded by motorists, most of whom came from outside the city.

Fire and emergency vehicles called to fires and explosions in most communities are regularly obliged to force their way through lines of cars competing for spaces at the scenes.

Truly we live in a free country. Sometimes the exercise of our freedom opens a question on the intelligence of many of us.

Role for '76 Fair

Montreal's Expo 67 is still making money. Japan's 1970 Expo officially closed last September, but Nippon's tourist authorities say it stimulated a post-fair visitor influx beyond their most optimistic anticipations. Seattle's World Fair 'way back in 1962 was disappointing to some of its backers but its towering Space Needle which affords a great northwestern view is doing a big business week-after-week.

Meanwhile, Philadelphia and Washington are still trying to iron out all the differences over plans for the celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary in 1976. In New York they still fuss about bills incurred in its 1964-65 World's Fair.

Boston, Washington and Miami will have roles in the '76 Fair. How important the roles will be is problematical right now but one thing is certain. Boston will not wind up with a spectacular development of its harbor islands, moving sidewalks downtown and an instant solution of its traffic problems.

Philadelphians who envisioned some permanent capital improvements in the multi-million-dollar brackets, and even an elimination of all its slums, shocked Washington with their demands after they had won the major focus for the bicentennial celebration.

Montreal, of course, had its mind on the future when it built some of its installations. As things turned out it looks as though the United States exhibit will go on attracting a steady flow of tourists, most of them from this side of the border as long as it stands.

Yet, neither Japan nor Seattle was looking for any considerable monetary returns after their fair closing dates. Like New York, they were seeking to avoid winding up in the red. New York was frank enough before its '64-'65 Fair to admit it was sure of only one big return — the reclamation of the dreary flats on which it was built.

Historically, Boston's claim to the '76 Fair was well-grounded. It would have taken a lot of stamina to have survived the present debate in which Washington and Philadelphia find themselves.

We lost the main decision. We still deserve in Boston and Massachusetts something more than a minor ancillary role.

John F. Kennedy and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, both then members of the U.S. Senate, wanted the Democratic nomination for Vice President in 1956. Kefauver originally sought the endorsement for President but lowered his sights when it became apparent the convention at Chicago would pick Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson did not want to choose between Kennedy and Kefauver and left the selection of the Vice Presidential nominee to the convention. The battle which followed was a tremendously exciting one.

The thing which stands out in the memory of this reporter was Lyndon B. Johnson, then the majority leader in the U.S. Senate, standing at the microphone on the floor of the convention floor and casting the solid bloc of Texas votes for "the young sailor from Massachusetts who had bared his breast to the wounds of war," or some very similar description.

Members of the Massachusetts delegation and Bay State visitors went wild, and it appeared that Kennedy might be on his way to a victory. But Kefauver made a strong last-minute surge and captured the nomination.

Had JFK won that nomination, he would have gone down to defeat with Adlai Stevenson in the subsequent election. That might well have cost him the Presidential nomination in 1960.

But John F. Kennedy launched his drive for the 1960 convention almost from the day he was defeated in 1956, and there was a grim, unhappy day in Dallas.

In summer of 1944 the Democratic party bosses were insisting that Franklin D. Roosevelt drop Henry A. Wallace as his Vice Presidential running mate.

John Nance Garner had been FDR's Vice President in his first two terms and Henry A. Wallace in his third.

But Wallace was a far-out liberal by 1944 standards. Franklin Roosevelt's health appeared to be failing under the strain of 12 years as President, and the Democratic leaders did not want to see Henry Wallace in the White House. So they insisted that FDR dump Wallace.

FDR came into Chicago on a special railroad train during the Democratic national convention, and he met with the party bosses in his car. He refused to go as far as they asked him to go, but he agreed to leave the choice of the Vice Presidential nominee to the convention delegates.

Wallace stood his ground and made a fight for the Vice Presidential nomination. He was able to muster extensive support. The party bosses picked a non-controversial U.S. Senator from Missouri named Harry S. Truman and rallied behind him.

In such a manner was the trend of history fashioned.

No such excitement, however, will occur at next year's Republican national convention which will nominate President Nixon and then rubber stamp its approval on whomever he wants as his running mate.

A Nun Is Candidate For The City Council In Lynn

A priest is serving as a member of Congress. A minister is Mayor of Somerville. Another Catholic clergyman is a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Now a Nun is running for the City Council in Lynn, and there is considerable interest in her campaign outside that city.

Sister Edith Ann Beauchamp, seeking election as Councilor-at-Large from the entire city, expresses the belief that she can be of help in resolving community and social problems in Lynn.

She holds a bachelor of arts degree from Simmons College, is a registered nurse, did graduate studies at Yale, Marquette and St. Louis Universities and has worked as both a nurse and school teacher.

Welfare Problem In Most Complex Confronting State

Administration of welfare in Massachusetts unquestionably is the most difficult and complex problem confronting the State government.

Yet, when a sincerely motivated public official such as Senator James A. Kelly of Oxford, chairman of the important and powerful Senate Ways and Means Committee, tries to protect the taxpayers and get at the crooks and chiselers, he is opposed at almost every turn.

An observer cannot help but wonder whether it's possible to solve this problem or if it will continue to get out of hand to such an extent that it will cause the Commonwealth to go broke.

The State Supreme Court has struck down a proposed new law which would have required that a person must live in Massachusetts for a year before becoming eligible to obtain welfare assistance.

This means that persons in states where both living costs and welfare assistance are less than in Massachusetts, will continue to pour into the Bay State to go on relief.

Senator Kelly, incidentally estimates that the requirement that general relief recipients pick up their checks at the offices of the State Division of Unemployment Security will save the Commonwealth between $5 and $15 million. That is not a tremendous amount, but at least it is a start.

Senator David H. Locke, Wellesley Republican, disclosed the other day that a man could make $100,000 during the first four months of the year, earn nothing in May and apply for welfare aid in June under our law. That is typical of the chaos and confusion surrounding our welfare statutes.

Mayor White Heavy Favorite But Don't Count Louise Out

Political analysts have installed Boston Mayor Kevin H. White as a surprisingly heavy favorite over Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks in their upcoming fight for the right to serve as the Hub's chief municipal executive.

On the strength of the returns in Boston's recent preliminary city election, White should win reelection on Nov. 2 and should be rated a favorite over Mrs. Hicks.

That opinion is based not only on the fact that Mayor White outpolled Mrs. Hicks in their recent preliminary race but also on an analysis of the manner in which the vote totals were divided and on the assumption that White's campaign will be better organized and financed than that of Mrs. Hicks, as was the case in the primary.

Their preliminary contest matched a campaign run by a skilled professional against one headed by an enthusiastic amateur.

Mayor White turned many of the mechanics of his campaign over to political experts. Mrs. Hicks ran pretty much a one-woman show which was not put together with the same finesse as the drive staged for White.

John P. Marttila, who served as Mayor White's campaign coordinator, won praise even from Francis X. Cuddy, Councilor Joseph F. Timilty's campaign manager, for the excellence of the job he did for White. Marttila, incidentally, directed the successful congressional campaign of Father Robert F. Drinan last year.

Marttila obviously hopes to overwhelm and overpower Mrs. Hicks in the final two-candidate battle for the job of Mayor for the next four years. He is endeavoring to double the size of Mayor White's campaign seen in the gymnasium along organization and put 8000 workers in the field for White in the closing weeks of the election contest.

What Mr. Marttila did in the preliminary election that Mrs. Hicks apparently did not do was to compile a tremendous list of White supporters and then try to make sure they turned out to vote. This was particularly important during the early stages of Primary Day when the weather was poor.

While Mrs. Hicks had campaign headquarters scattered throughout Boston and published telephone numbers her supporters could call to get rides to their polling places, she did not match the intensive drive that was to get White's followers to the polls.

Mrs. Hicks pretty much depended on her supporters to get to their polling places under their own steam, and a great many of them did exactly that.

Where White had a professional expert serving as his campaign coordinator, most of the decisions in the Hicks campaign were made by her brother.

Yet, despite the fact that the odds favor White and are against Mrs. Hicks, it would be foolish to count her out of Boston's mayoralty election.

Mayor White made a great comeback in the preliminary election. He surprised most of the experts by placing first. He is the favorite to win when the returns are counted on the night of Nov. 2.

But Mrs. Hicks says she will put on a different kind of fight in the weeks ahead. She declares that her objective in the preliminary was to qualify for the final election and that she did so even though she trailed the Mayor by 4600 votes.

Now, she asserts, she intends to raise more money and to see that more attention is paid to the details of her campaign. "I intend to show the people I can do a good job as their Mayor, and then I will rest on the decision they make," she states.

State Commission Ordered Apologies In Unusual Case

One public agency in Massachusetts has the authority to order one individual to apologize to another.

The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination did exactly that in a recent case involving a Lawrence sandwich shop.

Jose Garcia and Carmen Batista filed complaints with the Commission that Joseph Green, owner of Green's Sandwich Shop in Lawrence, had refused to serve them and had posted a sign that his store was closed to all Puerto Ricans.

Commissioner Ben G. Shapiro, who heard the case, ordered Mr. Green to apologize to Garcia, Batista and the Spanish-speaking community. Mr. Shapiro says the apologies have been made.

Religious Education At Sacred Heart This Weekend

This weekend, September 25 and 26, the parishioners of Sacred Heart Parish, Newton Centre, can discover what is going on in religious education by visiting the Bishop Mackenzie Center after Saturday evening or Sunday morning Masses.

"What's This Got to do with Catechism?", a filmstrip, may be viewed in the Youth Room, while five religious education films will be shown downstairs.

Registrars for CCD classes and high school mini-courses will be held at this time. Teachers involved in the CCD program will be present to register students. If you have any questions or perhaps some answers, Mrs. Arthur Kubick, Religious Education Coordinator for Sacred Heart Parish, will be present to discuss them with you over hot coffee and doughnuts.

that is scheduled for eventual demolition because of the widening of the street.

In addition to the widening of Grove St., present plans for the Lower Falls area call for the regarding of the hill above Washington St. and the construction of 60 to 70 units of garden apartments along Washington St. in an area now occupied by a block of stores, a gas station, some dilapidated mill houses, and some single family homes. In the area near Route 128, planners have sited a commercial area, and a park is to be set in a narrow strip along the river.

The Lower Falls Project has been riddled with controversy, partly because plans for the area make necessary the removal of some well-preserved owner-occupied houses, as well as dilapidated housing in the area.

One of the goals of the planners is to systematize the neighborhood, by clearly separating residential from commercial areas, and by widening streets. This means that several houses on a hill overlooking Washington St. are to be taken, not because they are dilapidated, but

Music School's 61st Season To Begin October 4

On Monday, October 4, the All Newton Music School will begin its 61st season. Located at 321 Chestnut St., West Newton, the school is a non-profit organization founded in 1911 by Elizabeth Fyffe who, together with a group of public spirited people of Newton, believed that music study of a high quality should be available to all children and adults. The school is now one of many community music schools in the United States.

The All Newton Music
School offers individual instruction in all string instruments, woodwinds, brass, harp, piano, voice, classical and folk guitar, recorder, and percussion, for both children and adults.

At no extra cost every instrumental and voice student may enroll in a musicianship class to acquire a theoretical background as well.

For younger children, the school offers pre-instrumental music classes, which give the child the necessary ear training, the elements of sight singing, rhythm, and melody.

This year the school will be offering for younger children violin classes according to the Suzuki method. For intermediate and advanced students, both children and adults, there is also a wide variety of courses in addition to the individual instruction.

because they are "isolated", and are part of a largely undeveloped area that would be suitable for commercial development.

Of the houses to be moved on Grove St., one is dilapidated, but the others are in excellent condition, and are to be removed because they are located on small plots of land that will be further narrowed by the widening of the street.

Owners fighting the project hope to force the authority either to make higher compensation payment for their homes, or to alter the construction plans so that their homes will be spared. Owners say that they can't hope to relocate at today's prices, in spacious wooded lots like the ones they have now, with the moneys the Authority intends to pay for their property.

The Redevelopment Authority has said that it can't spare the houses in good condition because of the expense involved in clearing land and building a project without disturbing the houses. In addition, some of the houses would jut into an area slated for commercial use, causing a "mixed use" of the land.

Need Volunteers For Headstart

Fall is here and once again the Newton Headstart Program is offering a challenging opportunity for individuals from the Community to participate in the program.

There is a need for individuals to volunteer their time and energies in a variety of ways within the program. Headstart is a federally subsidized child development program made available to pre-school youngsters from families within the poverty level of income.

It functions at the First Unitarian Society with the Newton Community Service Centers serving as administrative agency and the Communities United as applicant agency.

The program operates Monday - Friday and is serving 30 youngsters locally. The need at this time is for volunteers to assist in the classroom one morning per week or individuals who may be able to help with trips related to the program.

Headstart affords untrained individuals an excellent learning experience in child development and a challenging experience for the individual who has participated in past programs offering for this age grouping. The rewards inherent from helping others are vast and will result in a great sense of accomplishment for participants.

For additional information on the program and volunteer opportunities contact Mrs. Lester Steinberg at 332-3612.

Architect Opens Gateway Office

An open house on Friday, September 24, from 2 to 5 p.m. will mark the opening of Interface Architects, One Gateway Center, Newton, according to an announcement today by Stephen Oles, principal architect.

Oles is a graduate of the Yale School of Architecture.

In 1968, he won the Birch Burdette Long prize sponsored by the Architectural League of New York. His most recent designs have been for private residences in New Mexico, Massachusetts and New York.

Mandell Seeks Re-Election As Member of School Board

Alvin Mandell, 287 Spiers Rd., Newton Centre, (Ward 8), announced today that he will be a candidate for re-election to the Newton School Committee. Mandell is a Registered Professional Engineer with BEE and MSEE degrees from CCNY and Northeastern University.

In addition to being employed by Raytheon Co., he has been a member of the Northeastern Faculty since 1949, and a volunteer advisor to the Blue Hills Regional Vocational Technical School. Mandell is chairman of the Big Cities Committee of the Mass. Assoc. of School Committees and a member of its executive council.

In opening his campaign for re-election, Mandell stated: "I see the following major problems facing us: (1) Mounting costs increasing faster than the enrollments warrant. (1960-1970 enrollments increased by 138 but professional staff increased by 324 plus 72 full time teacher aides.) The new power of the teacher unions is being felt through collective bargaining and the latter plus inflation is impacting the tax rate.

(2) A general slackening of standards across the school system reflected by some softening of subjects covered in the curriculum and an unequaledness in performance across the various schools.

(3) A general decrease in required standards of conduct in our secondary schools which has led to numerous cuts of classes and in fact has been used as one of the justifications for legalizing the open campus concept at both High Schools.

(4) A lack of a clearly defined philosophy of education for the Newton School System. This should be provided by the School Comm. since as elected representatives of the people, they have accepted a mandate to operate the schools and are answerable for educational goals, curricula, and standards. Only the people's civic representatives have the right - and duty - to determine whether public schools are, for example, to serve as social service stations or to provide the essential skills of language, numbers, and orderly thought - and to transmit in a reasoned pattern the intellectual, moral, and aesthetic heritage of civilized man. (The ethical and moral teachings of the great sages of 2000 years ago and more will be valid in the 21st century.)

School Committee member Mandell further stated that in the remaining months of his present term, and if re-elected in the term ahead, he proposed to initiate the following:

(A) The format of the school budget for 1972 must be prepared using the techniques of project or functional budgeting. This will make it clearer to see where each school dollar is going. (This system of budgeting was approved by the S/C in 1968 but has never been enforced.)

(B) The results of the May 1971 Staffing Study must be implemented so that teaching work loads are equalized. Some savings in staff positions should result from improving a situation whereby large numbers of teachers do not carry full teaching programs.

(C) A firm of CPA's should be employed to conduct an independent audit and review of the business practices of the school department which is presently responsible for a 23 million dollar budget ($23,000,000).

(D) The entire concept of how reading is taught should be reviewed and changed or improved as a result of the State 4th grade tests and our own in-house Reading Study which indicated serious weaknesses in past approaches and methods. (A shining example of success has been the program for teaching the perceptually handicapped. This program will continue to get my full support.)

(E) Modify the S/C Rules and Regulations to require a full report from the Supt. twice yearly. Once at the beginning of the school year in Sept., and again at the end of the year in June. These reports to cover in detail what the coming year will be all about and the June report to give results of the completed year.

(F) Since a communication redibility gap continues to exist in spite of the changes of the S/C rules which allow citizens to ask questions or make statements at Committee meetings, I intend to hold regular open meetings of my own, at least once monthly or more frequently if necessary.

"At these open forums, I will answer any questions put to me concerning the schools and or discuss any subjects raised by residents, employees or students of Newton. All topics

Garden Clubs To Dig In For Fall

Flower gardens are still colorful and gay with September blooms, but members of Garden Clubs are already turning their attention to fall and winter activities.

Plans for a broad program with emphasis on conservation, education, landscape improvement, civic beautification and garden therapy were outlined at the first fall meeting of the Metropolitan District of the Federated Garden Clubs of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Leo E. Wolf of West Newton, district director, presided. The meeting was last Thursday (Sept. 16) at the Jackson Homestead and followed by luncheon. 32 garden clubs in the area were represented.

Among the many interesting reports was that of Mrs. James Fee of Needham, Mrs. Raymond Cronin of Wellesley and Mrs. Frank Wheelock of West Newton who urged volunteers for the Hub Box. This is one of the most unique and educational of recent programs to introduce a bit of horticulture to children in distressed areas.

Each Hub Box, supported by contributions of garden clubs and friends, contains the ingredients for four lessons on how seeds are planted and grow into beautiful flowers and trees. The lessons are taught by volunteers from garden clubs and received with enthusiasm in the public schools of the core city.

Members from the Newtons at the meeting included Mrs. Nathan D. Bugee, Mrs. Wilbur S. Roberts, Miss Esther Winslow, Mrs. Harry Abells, Mrs. Leonard Simmons, Mrs. R. Emerson Sylvester, Mrs. Francis E. McDonough and Mrs. Robert Mullen.

will be open for discussion except personalities or reputations. In order not to increase cost to the City, I will use classrooms in schools which are open on the evenings scheduled.

(G) Finally, I intend to initiate the establishment of Citizen Review Boards which will take advantage of talented residents in order to review, recommend and advise on the following:

1. School policies, fiscal, hiring, staffing, etc.
2. Curriculum - content, topics, methods, etc.

3. School Standards - open campus, discipline, classroom and school atmosphere, etc.

4. System Philosophy - What should Newton be striving for, for all its children.

Mr. Mandell concluded his statement by saying, "Uppermost in my thoughts is the awesome responsibility the School Committee is charged with to develop the intellect of the youngsters who will inherit and make work... hopefully to improve... our democratic system and way of life.

Flaschner Hears BC Bugging Case

Justice Franklin N. Flaschner of Newton District Court accepted the plea of "nolo" made by two Boston College students charged with "bugging" a trustees' meeting at the College last Feb. 19.

Thomas J. Sheehan, 22, of New York City and Michael Berkey, 20 of Baltimore, had been accused of conspiracy to commit interception and conspiracy to use illegally obtained communications.

Boston College President Seavey Joyce asked Attorney General Quinn's office to investigate when the conversation of the trustees' meeting which the defendants allegedly bugged, appeared in the BC newspaper The Heights.

According to Attorney General Quinn's office, a plea of "nolo" is "Substantially, though not technically, a plea of guilty; an implied confession."

The two students were assessed court costs totaling $350.

Maid of honor Miss Ronda Lee Sapers of Newton, sister of the bridegroom, wore a gown of maize striped voile styled with a bib effect of ruffled Valenciennes lace on the high collar and bodice which had long bishop sleeves.

The other attendants wore the same style gown in apricot.

White floppy hats trimmed with matching velvet completed their ensembles.

Burton M. Pike Starts His Campaign For Alderman

Attorney Burton M. Pike, of Waban has recently announced his candidacy for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5, Newton, in the forthcoming November City-wide election.

A resident of Newton for over ten years, Mr. Pike has been a practicing attorney in the State and Federal courts for eighteen years, representing numerous Massachusetts corporations as well as many public and municipal agencies. His decision to run for Alderman-at-Large is prompted by his deep concern over the unresolved difficulties existing in the City of Newton today without the promise of satisfactory solutions in the years to come. As he states, "Our real estate taxes have been strained to the breaking point. The demands to maintain our schools and city services in an efficient manner run ahead of our available revenue. New programs for housing and youth services create additional demands and expenditures."

"Every program must be carefully scrutinized to determine the necessity of their objectives and to ensure that the monies expended will result in the achievement of their initial goals. Because the decisions of the Board of Alderman on such programs and revenues guide the City, they must act with courage and with the capacity and ability to choose fairly among competing demands, seeking to reconcile the interests of all the citizens without favoring any one party or faction."

Attorney Pike has taken an active part in fraternal, civic, religious and professional organizations including Massachusetts Bar Association; Massachusetts Trail Lawyers' Association; American Bar Association;

BURTON M. PIKE

Chelsea-Revere Bar Association; Rental Housing Authority; Freedom Lodge AF&AM; King Solomon Lodge IOOF; Chelsea Lodge of Elks; Credit and Finance Lodge B'nai B'rith; New Century Club; Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center; Temple Reyim and Brotherhood; Big Brother Association; Salvation Army (past Chairman of Relief Fund).

In concluding, Mr. Pike urges all who wish to join him in his efforts for effective, efficient city government to contact him at his home or office and to support him at the polls on Election Day.

Sierra Club Seeks Gift of Trashmasher

The Sierra Club seeks the help of area residents. We recycle newspapers and glass at our 373 Huron Ave., Cambridge, office. Because it is necessary to smash all glass destined for recycle centers, we ask the area residents to donate a trash masher.

This may not seem as extravagant a request as it appears. Towns using incinerators, including Newton, do not want compacted trash, as it is difficult to burn, and requires shredding to oxidize the materials. Several towns, including Newton, have considered banning home trash compactors. Help us help the community: Call 868-9330, or write Sierra Club, P.O. Box 32, West Somerville, Ma., 02144. Thank you.

The gowns had scooped necklines, long puffed sleeves, fitted waists and full skirts. A band of white trimmed the skirt, neckline and sleeves. Each carried a single red rose.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

"Reality" is the subject of the Bible Lesson-sermon to be heard this Sunday at 10:45 a.m. at the First Church of Christ Scientist, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville. Reality needs to be faced up to, not escaped from.

"Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven. - the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen," a citation to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states.

The Golden Text is taken from the Apostle Paul's letter to the Galatians: "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

Newton High Football Team Prepares For Fall Season

By DAVID SOLOMON

When quarterback Paul Grillo stepped into the Thanksgiving Day game against Brookline last November, Newton was behind 32-0 in the fourth quarter. Grillo promptly marched the team 62 yards for a touchdown. It was naturally assumed that Grillo, who had alternated with Jim Doolin, would be the NHS quarterback for 1971.

What wasn't counted on, however, was that Grillo would injure his ankle, precipitating a wide-open battle for quarterback. Senior Jimmy Faye and juniors Ken Billings and Ed Becker have shared the duty so far during practice and the scrimmages. Because of their strong play it is possible one of them may start the season in Grillo's place.

Billings has been the most impressive quarterback to date. In a scrimmage against Natick he ran for two touchdowns in a 3-3 tie. Coach Jim Ronayne's praise is high for Billings: "Ken is a real good athlete and competitor. We know he is a starter on defense, but this (Grillo's injury) complicates the situation. He may be at quarterback. His passing game still needs to be refined, but we've concentrated mostly on running in our first three scrimmages."

Grillo should be ready, for at least spot duty, in time for the season's opener. However, he has missed nearly three weeks of practice and four scrimmages and he may be out of shape. There is no question, however, about his playing skill. Grillo is a pin-point passer and has the elusive quality of being consistently able to move the team downfield. A greater use of the pass as an offensive weapon this season will make the games considerably more interesting.

Whoever ends up doing the tossing, their primary receivers will be split-ends Mike Cappola and Ed Hinchey.

Along with the passing attack Ronayne listed the offensive backfield as the Tigers' main strength. Co-captain John Connolly will be Newton's key running back at his halfback position. Ronayne described him as "the type of running back a coach longs to have. He's a good blocker as well as a proficient runner."

The other running backs include Bobby Hoover, Mark Connolly and Micky D'Angelo. The offensive line will have Jack Doolin at center, Ralph Vitti and Pete Carvelli as guards, Jim Mannix and Lee Levison at tackles, with Paul Johnson and Tommy King alternating in the tight end position.

Aggressive veteran linebacker and co Captain Mike Ball will be the stalwart of the Tiger defense. Ronayne said that Ball "hits harder than anyone I've ever had." The other linebacker will be the ever-improving Dick Healey. The remainder of the defensive lineup will see Phil Pescosolido and Robert Fitzgerald at tackles, Bob Nototatomo at right end with Don Gentile and Tommy King switching off at defensive end. Matt Herendeen, Ken Billings, and Jimmy Faye are the defensive back standouts. Also seeing a great amount of action at this position will be Micky D'Angelo and Peter McKay. Evan Biblos and Steve McCourt are the middle guards.

Newton High has played four scrimmages to date and although they've mustered only one victory, it should be remembered that scrimmages are for practice value only. Many of the oppositions' scores have been against Newton's second or third team. Many experiments have also been tried. Progress has definitely been made. "It's slow," commented Ronayne, "but we're steadily getting better."

Although this year's squad lacks much of the size that previous NHS teams were noted for, they should make up for it in speed, agility and desire.

Besides Ronayne the other football coaches are Norm Walker, Paul Guzzi, and Peter Capidolupo.

The Tigers play nine games this season, the opener being September 25th against Everett, one of the toughest teams in the league.

Newton Boys In Curry Lineup

Two Newton boys were among the 22 offensive and defensive players starting for Curry College in last Saturday's football opener against Maine Maritime Academy at Curry's Athletic Field.

George Gardner, former Greater Boston All-Scholastic, was a linebacker in the starting lineup as the Colonels opened defense of their New England Football Conference title and Mike DelGrosso, also of Newton, played tackle.

Soccer Team Wins First Games; Another Fine Season Expected

By DAVID SOLOMON

Perhaps the greatest single injustice in local high school sports today is the dismal attendance at Newton High's soccer games. Soccer is a tremendously fast, exciting sport and Newton High features one of the finest teams around. Soccer is a sport which should draw hundreds of enthralled fans, yet the mystery of Newton High attendance lingers on. With a team such as Newton's, the presence of at most fifty fans is disgraceful.

Last year the Tigers were undefeated in nine regular season games and were finally defeated in the fifth overtime of the E Mass Schoolboy Soccer Tournament against Braintree. With the loss of such standouts as Emilio Mazzola, Abe Oros, Mike Blauser and others it might be expected that Newton's ranks are depleted. This is far from the truth.

Co-captain Timmy Tsochantaris is at the head of the pack of this year's stars. Timmy was all-suburban league last fall, and led the loop in scoring with twenty-one goals and six assists. It is really impossible to describe the skill with which Tsochantaris can handle a soccer ball; it can only be termed as "amazingly fantastic."

Along side of Timmy at the forward positions are senior speedster Dave Douglas and junior superstar Vinny Meglio. Both of these players figured heavily in last season's success and will be counted on to take up any of the scoring slack which might exist. The other forward starting position has been filled so far by Mark Donovan and Marty Hurwitz.

The backbone for the defense is provided by fullback Fred Whoriskey (co-captain) and Tom Gerlach. Both of these players were starters last season and are important cogs in the hopeful success of this season. Whoriskey was also all-suburban league last season, and has a tremendous ability for controlling the ball and setting up plays. Steve Zimble at halfback is also an outstanding defenseman who saw a great deal of action last season.

Richard Chaisson is the stalwart goaltender, who until being injured in last season's final game, won all ten games he played in. The second-string goalie is Tom Fentin, who did a superb job against Braintree when Chaisson was hurt last November. Fentin has also been making a difficult switch to halfback and may end up as a starter at that position. "Tommy is doing a fine job trying to switch," commented second-year head coach Mike Buzzi, "and of course we know his great ability in the goal should he become needed there."

The Tigers' opener came on September 14th against Newton South, and although the Tigers won 2-1, they showed that they need a lot of work. Especially in the first half the Tigers were sloppy, missing passes and set-ups, and allowing themselves to be beaten repeatedly to the ball. Buzzi commented that "we're a slow developing team, but the potential is there. We have good depth and the forward line is improving daily. The defense — especially the halfbacks — still need much work, but they will be really coming along shortly."

The Tigers opened the scoring against South with a goal by Mark Donovan. South got the second goal on a penalty shot by Aris Bidianos which Chaisson nearly saved. The winning goal was scored by Marty Hurwitz on a turnaround shot. Buzzi called third fullback Paul Marigni the "most poised man on the field during this game." The remaining starter was Steve Shulman at halfback.

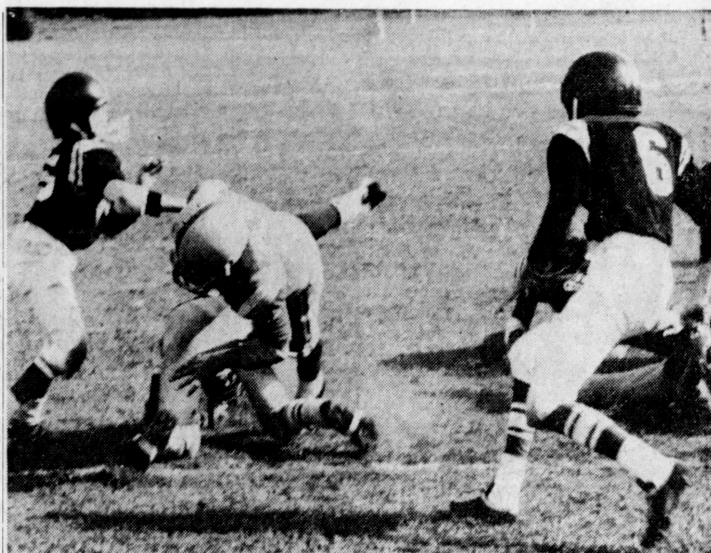

Buzzi termed the South game as a "typical opener. We made a lot of mistakes, and a lot of fine plays."

Brocton, whom Buzzi had earlier predicted was one of the "toughest teams we face," was Newton's second victim last Friday. Newton's play was much better in this game, and if this was a sign of what is to come, championship thoughts may be returning again.

The Tigers were stupendous in this game, blanketing Brocton 4-0 and controlling a good deal of the play of the game. The important coordination between members of the offense and defense was much in evidence as Newton was setting up plays nicely.

The Tigers' aggressiveness and ability to reach the ball allowed for some beautiful scoring plays by Newton. Vinny Meglio scored a pair of goals, the first of which was a classic in the true sense. Tsochantaris headed a lob to Meglio, who, standing back to the goal, scooped it over his head and past the surprised goalie. Timmy scored the second goal, coming down right wing on a perfect feed from Dave Douglas. Walter Cox accounted for the other score. Newton was able to get all of its players into the game, which was a credit to Buzzi and his assistant Bernard Flanagan.

NAA Lions Roll To Third Win, 30-0 Over Knights

The N.A.A. Lions rolled to their third consecutive win Sunday with a resounding 30-0 win over the Brighton Knights at Newton Highlands Playground.

Ed Tompkins kicked off to the Brighton 30 yard line. Brighton returned the kickoff 15 yards to their 45 where Frank Otten made a bruising tackle. A spirited Knights team started fast and caught the Lions defense napping rolling up two quick first downs before the home team stiffened and took over on downs at their own 35.

The Brighton defense forced the Big Blue into a punting situation. The punt was fumbled and recovered by an alert David Fialkow at the Knights 41.

The conversion attempt came up short. Score: Lions 6-Knights 0.

Newton kicked off and forced the Knights into their second fumble. Linebacker Alan Flynn recovered on his own 41.

From there the Lions went 59 yards in 10 plays for its second score with Pete Arnold going 26 yards around end for a score, center Mark Comerford through a key block aiding Arnold. Dave Proia rushed the conversion and Newton upped the count to 14-0.

In the second period halfback, Ed Tompkins sprinted 37 yds. off tackle behind left guard Mike Sinesi and tackle, Mike Smith blocks for their third score. Halfback, Dave Proia, rushed the conversion and the N.A.A. Lions took a 22-0 advantage into halftime.

The Lions capped their scoring in the third period when safety, Ed Tompkins intercepted a pass and ran it back 32 yards for a score. Defensive end Gerry Coughlin sprung Tompkins with a nifty block at the Knight 25.

Once again the Lions' offensive line was superb. Allowing the backs to pick up 232 yards rushing were center, Mark Comerford; guards, Mike Sinesi and Dave Chused; tackles, Mike Smith and Rick Freeth; and ends, Alan Flynn, John Amicangoli and Ned McCarthy.

Halfback Ed Tompkins rushed for 93 yards in 10 carries and was aided by Peter Arnolds 45 yards in three carries. Both Lions Fullbacks, Matt Sabetti and Jim Vizakis averaged 5 yards a carry.

was impressive in his first league start as he directed the awesome ground attack.

Not to be overlooked in this victory was the Lions Defense. After giving up two consecutive first downs, the stingy defensive contingent yielded only two more first downs the rest of the game allowing a total of 62 net yards for the Knights.

Leading the defensive charge is hard hitting linebacker Matt Sabetti. Matt was complimented by the fine end play of Rick Freeth and Mike Smith, middle guard, Jim Vizakis; partner linebacker, Al Flynn and the defensive backfield trio of Joe Pepper, Ed Tompkins and Dave Proia.

Tackles Dick Osborn and back 32 yards for a score. Dave Fialkow were also impressive in starts at new positions.

The Lions will travel to Wayland tomorrow night for a game at Cochituate Field at 7:30 p.m. The Tigers will play at 6:30.

In Junior Midget action, the Mustangs played to a scoreless tie with Wayland and the Tigers lost to Brighton 6-0. The Pee Wee season will open Sunday after the Mustangs meet Sudbury starting at 12:30 at Newton Highlands Playground. Immediately following the Highland Huskies will meet the Waban Warriors and then the Newton Centre Jets will meet the Oak Hill Raiders.

South High's Cross-Country Team Aspires To Better Season

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

Improvement of the veterans and the potential of the newcomers are the keys to Newton South High's cross-country fortunes this fall.

The Lions met with disaster in their first encounter with Dual County League competition last year, finishing 1-13, at the bottom of the heap.

It is hard to believe a Lion squad could be any weaker, but if things don't break right, and they have a habit of not breaking for the harriers, it will be another long season.

The reasons for pessimism are two-fold. First, the Lions have a tradition of bad luck. Even when the talent is available injuries or accidents or anything seem to get in the way. The second reason is simply this. South was 1-13 with Charley Pottey, the school's greatest distance runner and record-holder for the 2.6 mile Mt. Ida Junior College course, not to mention second man Captain Mike LeBlanc.

There are encouraging signs, however. There is a nucleus of seven experienced runners returning: Matt Williams, 14:47, Howie Frutkoff, 15:00, John Mason, 15:14, Dave Ress, 16:19, Mike Pottey (Charley's brother), Jim Thorne, 16:18, and Charley Hioroka. This group will have to improve for South to be a factor in the league title race.

Jack Ferreri, a junior who played football last year, has been the leader in most of the early-season workouts. He could be a sleeper. Bart Godenberg is another junior out for the first time after a year with the soccer team.

The sophomore crop is thin but potentially very good. Byron Ress, brother of Dave, has looked exceptional thus far, leading a Mt. Ida time trial in 15:17. Mark Myers, a transfer student from California has junior high experience and has shown he can run. Dave Robinson is another possibility.

Coach Richard T. Geist, in his eleventh season as head coach, is cautiously optimistic. "I think we have a good group. There is no single outstanding individual, but the top five or six should be within thirty seconds of each other. Two other pluses are our seniors, who are all seasoned runners, and the fact that there are really no slow people. It is a close group."

South opens its season this week with a new experience, a tri-meet, versus Lynnfield and Wayland. The Dual County League is experimenting with tri-meet races so each team may still compete against all others in the league twice, but will not be overburdened with races. The Lions also face Bedford and Westwood this week.

Becker Sings At Luncheon

Mrs. Jerry J. Weinberg, President of the Women's Auxiliary of the Jewish Community Center of Brookline-Brighton-Newton is pleased to announce the appearance of Mallyn Becker of Newton at the Annual Fall-Fest Luncheon to be held on October 20th at Chateau de Ville, Framingham.

Proceeds from the Luncheon are used for scholarships and camps for children who would be unable to achieve these experiences. This, for them, is like a "dream come true."

Mallyn Goretzky Becker has sung since she was five years old and sung professionally since she was fifteen. Upon graduation from Brookline High School she was awarded the Brookline Chamber Music Society Scholarship and given the opportunity to sing with members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Harry Ellis Dickson.

A music and theatre arts graduate of Brandeis University, she received her master's degree in education from Lesley College. During those years she appeared as guest soloist with the M.I.T. Symphony Orchestra in Kresge Auditorium. She went on to study voice in New York City under William Pierce Herman, the Metropolitan Opera teacher of Robert Peters, Jan Peerce and Patrice Munsel.

Mrs. Becker has been a soprano soloist in the Temple Mishkan Tefila Choir for many years and has sung as guest soloist with several of the local church choirs. Women's organizations and clubs throughout New England have had the privilege of hearing Mallyn perform at their luncheons and meetings. She is well known for her personal-

Mrs. Schiller In Contest For School Committee Seat

Barbara Mary Schiller, Candidate for the School Committee in the City of Newton from Ward 2, has issued the following statement:

"I am a taxpayer and concerned parent who feels that we are not getting full value from our educational dollars.

"I am also a housewife and mother subject to the daily scholastic problems of my children in all levels of the Newton School System. I have taught in Settlement Houses in the North End of Boston and in Roxbury, worked with handicapped children and have been assistant-treasurer for the Brookline Fair Housing Organization.

"Having been fortunate enough to have had these opportunities to be a part of youth, I would like to put forth these questions for all to consider:

"Has open-campus destroyed discipline in our schools? "Could we not tighten discipline judiciously? "Have the Reading Standards in our schools gone down?"

"Is a private Reading Report Study, paid for with public funds being kept from the public?"

"Could not the facilities of high school be utilized for 12 months of the year - for possible two year graduation for those students who feel this would be more beneficial plus more economical for the taxpayer?"

"Has the open-classroom proved to be more advantageous than the traditional classroom?"

"Are our kindergartens obsolete due to the widespread popularity of nursery schools? "Should we not have a study on the progress of the non-graduates to be used as a guideline for our school system?"

"The answers to these questions and many others are pertinent to the School Committee today. The School Committee must also consider the attitudes of today's generation but not go beyond our intentions, by being overly free and careless.

"I believe, our children have been used too often as guinea pigs in the testing of new teaching theories.

"I would like to be a Member of the School Committee, not for misguided prestige that some in the past may feel this office holds - but rather as a job and a duty to our youths.

Mrs. Pines stated after attending the signing ceremony in the Governor's office: "The passage of this legislation proves that private citizens working together can get good legislation passed. Although this bill is not ideal, it is a big step forward toward giving citizens the basic tools to protect our environment. In this first year of activity, I think 'The Citizens' Lobby' can be very proud of its accomplishment."

BARBARA M. SCHILLER

"I would be proud to have the opportunity to resolve the above questions. I am opening my home and my telephone to any and all who are seriously concerned about the present and future of our school children in Newton," she concluded.

Barbara Mary Schiller resides in Ward 2 at 122 Fessenden St., Newtonville.

Pines Authors Statute On Anti-Pollution Suits

Governor Sargent signed into law a new statute which was authored and sponsored by Mrs. Lois G. Pines of 40 Helene Road, Newton, Chairman of both The Citizens' Lobby and Newton Citizens for Clean Air, Inc.

The Citizens' Lobby, in its first year, is an independent, state wide, non-partisan organization with the purpose of working for a better Massachusetts through the legislative process. The group is lobbying for legislation in the environmental protection area, consumer protection area, school safety area, and

Three Localities Are Freshmen At Franklin Pierce

The localities are: Madeline Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lewis of 17 Hagen Rd.; Nancy Finkelstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Finkelstein of 271 Cypress St.; and Bruce Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bailey of 243 Jackson St.

for the reform of the Massachusetts penal system. This new law established a "private right of action" which would authorize groups of 10 or more individuals to sue industries, businesses, and municipalities that damage or threaten to damage the environment.

Mrs. Lois Pines, Newton Citizens for Clean Air, Inc. and other Newton residents attempted to bring suit against the City of Newton last year for polluting the environment through the operation of the Rumford Avenue, Newton, incinerator.

The suit was rejected by Middlesex County Superior Court on the theory that private citizens had no right to bring such action. This new law specifically authorizes private citizens to bring suit to insure compliance with existing environmental regulations.

Massachusetts is the second state in the United States to initiate this kind of legislation. House Republican Leader, Francis W. Hatch, of Beverly, and Democratic House Speaker David M. Bartley both supported the landmark legislation.

The Boston Bar Association, The League of Women Voters, and various other environmental groups including the Sierra Club were supportive in getting the

CITY OF NEWTON POLICE DEPARTMENT

Now that school classes have resumed after the summer vacation, all automobile operators must exercise extra care and caution during the periods when children are going to and from school.

Surprisingly, there still are some people who do not realize they must stop their automobile when a school bus stops even though they are headed in an opposite direction from the bus.

If you are driving on a highway where a school bus stops, and when lights are flashing, you must stop and wait until the bus starts moving. This is true whether you are going in the same direction as the bus or the opposite direction.

If the bus discharges children, wait until you are certain one of those youngsters is not going to cross the street in front of your car.

Remember also that some younger children now are walking to school for the first time. They may not yet understand the safety rules their parents try to teach them. One of them might dart suddenly out into the street in the path of an oncoming automobile.

It is the responsibility of every driver to be on the alert for such children and to have his car under such control that he can stop it instantly when he is in an area where small boys and girls are passing to and from school.

The person behind the wheel of an automobile knows the safety regulations. He is expected to have mature and sound judgment. He should never forget that those small children walking along the sidewalk are our most precious possessions and must be protected against any development.

Parents, of course, should do their utmost to impress upon their small sons and daughters that they should stop and look both ways before crossing the street, that they should remain on the sidewalk until no car is approaching and that they should cross only on crosswalks.

But in the final analysis responsibility for the safety of those boys and girls rests on the shoulders of the men and women driving automobiles. If they see children trying to cross the street, they should stop and let the youngsters cross in safety. If they see children walking on the sidewalk, they must be prepared in the event one of them runs out onto the roadway.

Safety is the No. 1 responsibility of every person driving an automobile. Let's give our children a chance to grow up.

Lois Pines Candidate For Alderman-at-Large Ward 5

Mrs. Lois G. Pines of 40 Helene Road, Waban, is a candidate for Alderman at Large from Ward 5.

An attorney for 8 years, Mrs. Pines, 31, was one of the originators and authors of the landmark environmental legislation signed by Governor Sargent last week which permits 10 or more citizens to sue polluters of the environment to enforce adherence to existing laws and regulations relating to the environment.

Mrs. Pines is Chairman of Newton Citizens for Clean Air, Inc., an organization dedicated to improving Environment. The group spearheaded a ban on open burning in Newton last year.

In an attempt to force the city to improve the operation of its incinerator, she, together with NCCA, brought suit against the city of Newton for polluting the environment through the operation of the Rumford Avenue incinerator.

"The residents of Auburndale are continually harassed by the emissions of the incinerator. The City has received numerous citations from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health for violation of existing air pollution regulations."

"Our suit was never heard or the merits because the court determined that private citizens had no right to bring suit. Thus, I fought for the new legislation just passed which will permit citizens to act as 'watchdog of the environment,' bring suit if necessary, and thereby assure that agencies, municipalities and industry abide by environmental regulations."

Attorney Pines, working as a private citizen has introduced comprehensive school bus safety legislation in the Massachusetts Legislature which she hopes will become law this year.

She expressed the conviction that "the safety of school buses must be improved. We must do more to protect our most precious possessions. We must eliminate standees on school buses, provide monitor in school buses, insist on better equipment, and set more stringent standards for our school bus drivers."

In explaining her candidacy, Lois Pines declared: "Newton is at the crossroads in its history; it must not sink to the level of those cities that hope that by ignoring problems they will go away. I believe that Newton must have aldermen who are capable and committed to solving these problems. I believe that my talents, experience in state legislation, concern with the future of Newton and dedication will greatly assist in moving Newton forward as one of the most innovative, exciting cities in America."

Attorney Pines declares the increasing tax rate is driving many home owners out of the city and is a critical problem. "Newton homeowners cannot meet their taxes. The burden has become too great. The City of Newton must take action now to combat this ever increasing rise in taxes," she asserts.

"We must seek innovative solutions to the problems of the environment, solid waste disposal, housing, and alienation of our youth. We must involve the energies, resources, and talents of our youth in city government."

Mrs. Pines holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Barnard College, New York, in Government. She also received a Doctor of Jurisprudence from the University of Cincinnati Law School, and she attended the Graduate Tax Institute of Boston University Law School.

She is a member of the American Bar Association, the Massachusetts Bar Association, and the Boston Bar Association. In addition, Mrs. Pines is a member of the Boston Bar Association's Subcommittee on Environment. She is also a member of the Newton Democratic City Committee and serves on the Social Welfare Issues Committee of the Combined Jewish

Mark Young Is Back To Coach At South High

BY LEWIS FREEDMAN

Mark Young, Newton South High's greatest athlete has returned to his alma mater to teach and coach.

Young graduated from South in 1964 and from Yale in 1968.

While in high school the 6-2, 175-pounder set school records in five track events and was state champion in the mile and New England champion in the 440. He was also an all-state end in football and caught 20 passes in a single season, second on the school list, for eight touchdowns, the best by a Lion. Young also played on the basketball team.

At Yale Young became captain of the Eli track squad and captured the IC4A 600-yard run with a time of 1:09.5, then only one-half second above the world record.

Carmen's resolution said, in part, "For years our city has been without adequate recreation facilities for its young people. Recently, several young persons were arrested in the parking lot between Newton South High School and the municipal tennis courts, apparently on charges of trespassing. "Newton must provide its young citizens with suitable recreation facilities."

Noting that coffee houses and youth centers are underfunded, Carmen proposed that several locations throughout the city be designated "Youth criticized the proposal as married and taught school in Maryland. He continued competing for the Sports International Track Club and was a member of that affiliation's world-class mile relay team.

At Newton South Young will teach social studies courses. This fall he is an end coach for the football team under his own former head coach George Winkler and in the spring he will serve as assistant track coach, again under his own mentor, Donald Sutherland.

Will Attend Church Meeting

Among the New England Church leaders who will convene for a three-day religious meeting next week is Archbishop Joseph Tawil of West Newton. The event will be held at the Episcopal Retreat Center in Waltham.

The Archbishop will join about seventy-five other religious executives at the conference, which is designed to provide answers to problems affecting churches of today. Discussions will center on the role of church leadership and its relation to national and international problems.

A salute to the first group of seniors comprising a large number of registered voters

Right On, Class of '72

Anyone who has read the ratings of school systems in the United States knows that Newton is always ranked near the top. This year's class of '72 is worthy of that distinction as well as being the first of its age to have a large segment of registered voters. Good students make good citizens. And good students there are here, in great abundance. Read on for interesting innovations in art, mountain climbing, open campus and more courses.

How Much?

- do the Junior High Schoolers participate in mountain climbing?
- of an athletic program is conducted in the Fall?
- innovation has been developed in art?
- of the graduating class of '72 will continue their education?

New Trial For Art Registration Open Trashmasher For Elementary Grades

There's been a temporary reprieve for the trashmasher - the rubbish compacting device consigned to oblivion at an aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee meeting two weeks ago.

Although the committee had decided to ban the trashmasher on the grounds that burning compacted fuel could prove difficult or damaging to the city incinerator, Aldermanic Committee Chairman Eliot Cohen will allow time for three weeks of tests at the incinerator.

Tests, according to a vote of the Board of Aldermen, will be conducted by the Newton Department of Public Works. It was informally agreed to accept the aid of experts supplied by the Whirlpool Corporation, which manufactures the Trashmasher. The motion by Cohen was supported by Alderman Harry Crosby, who pointed out that Newton should not ban the trashmasher, possibly setting a precedent for other cities and thereby sabotaging a major investment by the Whirlpool corporation, without giving the trashmasher a fair chance.

If tests show that problems in the burning of compacted trash are caused by defects unique to the Newton incinerator, the Whirlpool experts may be asked to testify in the city's suit against contractors who build the incinerator.

Earns Degree In Law Enforcement

Gerald A. Marchand, a detective on the Newton Police force, received an associate's degree in law enforcement from Northeastern University at commencement exercises held September 16.

Mr. Marchand, a five-year veteran of the Newton Police Department, is a 1961 graduate of Newton High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marchand, also of Newton. The detective is married to the former Nancy Rowland.

They reside in Newton with their three children, Timothy, 4, Mindy, 3, and Christy, 3 months.

The Creative Art Program at the Newton Community Center on Cherry St., West Newton, is accepting registration for elementary school children (kindergarten through grade 6). This unique program emphasizes originality for expression and individual experimentation with new forms of art media for children from 4½ to 12 years old. For information call 969-5906.

"The range and complexity of the media vary according to age level," explained Linda Janower, Creative Art Director, "but all children are exposed to a variety of visual experiences and materials." The classes are designed to stimulate originality of thought as well as originality of artistic expression, by providing children with thought provoking projects and problems in the visual field.

As examples, Mrs. Janower told the Graphic about some of last year's "projects" which prodded the kids' imaginations: "children designed playgrounds for living animals out of junk materials, put on spontaneous puppet shows with their own hand made puppets, finger-painted to music, built imaginary 'vehicles' from wood scraps, created paper mache prehistoric monsters, and many more."

Although there was a great variety of media used (including finger, straw, sponge and texture PAINTING; tissue, fabric, pop art and paper magic COLLAGE; gadget, vegetable, cork and string PRINTING; WOODWORKING, PAPER MACHE, MURALS, WEAVING, LIQUID PLASTIC, PLASTER, STITCHERY, PUPPETRY, CASTING, MODELING, etc.), this was, and is not a Crafts Program.

The aim of the director and her staff is not geared to the finished product, but rather to the excitement of the intellect, the emotions and the senses, children receive while participating in the "creative project."

"This year projects will vary," Mrs. Janower pointed out, "and a wide assortment of new and old, two and three dimensional materials will be offered."

Classes begin the week of Oct. 12, and the Center urges interested parents to register early to avoid disappointment. The following schedule represents Creative Art offerings at various grade levels:

Kindergarten Discoveries - July Kelleher and Paula Gilbert, Instructors will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. beginning Tuesday, October 12. There will be an optional Meet The Teacher sessions on Tuesday, October 5.

Kindergarten Art - Sandy Olansky, Instructor, will meet from 12:50 to 1:50 p.m. and 2:15 to 3:15 p.m. on Tuesdays, beginning October 12, with Meet The Teacher on Tuesday, October 5.

Grades 1-3 - Sandy Olansky, Instructor, will meet from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on the same schedule as Kindergarten Art above.

All Elementary Grades (K through 6) are welcome in the All Elementary Workshop - Joanne Holland, Instructor, which will meet from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Thursdays beginning October 14, with Meet The Teacher Session on Thursday (Oct. 7).

Parents interested in additional information should call THE NEWTON COMMUNITY SERVICE CENTERS 969-5906 and 969-5907. Spaces fill quickly, an early registration is recommended.

Mrs. Barbara H. Freedman of 32 Whites Ave., Watertown was awarded a Master of Education degree from Suffolk University at commencement exercises held in the Auditorium September 19.

A graduate of Newton High School, Mrs. Freedman received her undergraduate degree from Northeastern. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Harmon of West Newton, and is married to James Freedman of New Bedford. Mrs. Freedman is a reading specialist for the Medway Public Schools.

Giant Festival to Bring Jazz Greats to Garden

George Wein, Newport Jazz Festival impresario and son of Coalition, is sponsoring a series of midnight concerts in Old West Church on Cambridge Street in Boston.

First concert was a summertime night-long festival. The second concert, which ran from 11 p.m. to 3 a.m. on Saturday, September 11, featured a group playing at Paul's Mall, Os Cinco, Os Cinco captured the audience with a fine series of mood swings, from a hustling thrumming buildup, to low soothing nostalgic melodies.

The six-hour concert will include performances by Aretha Franklin, Roberta Flack, Dizzy Gillespie, Thelma Houston, Ornette Coleman, Jimmy Smith, Art Blakey, Sonny Stitt, and others to be announced.

The concert will help to defray the $150,000 losses incurred with the cancellation of the Newport Jazz Festival, due to fear of disruptions from gate-crashers.

Tickets will be on sale at ticket agencies, Ticketron outlets, and the Boston office of the Jazz Festival, 121 Newbury St. The prices will be $5.50, $8.00 and $10.50. Phone information is available at 262-1665.

As jazz makes a home for itself in Boston, other smaller concerts will be started.

cert will be October 9, from midnight to 3 a.m. at the Old West Church. The cost is $2.00. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The coalition has three purposes: first, to make low-cost jazz concerts available in Boston; second, to provide an outlet for many of the excellent but not-yet-famous jazz ensembles in Boston; and third, to extend the entertainment scene so that there's something to do in Boston after the 10:30 movie on Saturday night.

Members of the audience brought their own instruments to join in a jam with poetry-reading Jerry Adams.

The most original group of the evening was Father's Face. The lead singer's voice was used as a musical instrument, wailing like a sax, and clucking like castanets. In the occasional moments when the singer lost the fine edge of control, the device fell flat, but at its best, it had the audience on the edge of their seats.

Newton Symphony Sets Date For Rehearsal On Sept. 26

The next full rehearsal of the Newton Symphony will be held September 26. No rehearsal was planned for September 19.

More than eighty-five members of the orchestra are returning this season. A few openings presently exist in the viola, cello, and double bass sections. Qualified players of these instruments should contact Mr. Sasson, the symphony's music director who resides in Newton, for audition.

Vacant chairs were left by David Dornbusch of Newton and Peter Maurici of Arlington. Both of these young men have received full scholarships to colleges because of their excellence in the playing of the cello. Mr. Dornbusch is now attending Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. and Mr. Maurici will study at Juilliard.

The Newton Symphony has attracted the finest musicians in the area since its founding in 1957. The musical direction and interesting programming of its conductor, Michel Sasson, the special string rehearsals held by its concertmaster Max Hobart, the enthusiastic responses of large audiences, and the appreciative support of the Newton community have all contributed to a high morale and the consequent production of high quality musical performances.

Rehearsals are held weekly on Sunday evenings. A series of three Sunday evening concerts as well as four youth concerts on Saturdays are planned for the coming season. Ambitious programs consisting of the music of Tchaikowsky, Ravel, Schoenberg, Mozart, Vivaldi, Goehr, Berlioz, and Rimsky-Korsakoff will be played. The orchestra's first concert will be on November 14 when Leguia will solo with the orchestra. Burton Fine, Max Hobart, and Joseph Silverstein, distinguished members also of the Boston Symphony will be soloists with the Newton Symphony at later dates.

A father explains the facts of life

This is the time of the year when fathers sit down and have heart-to-heart talks with their sons.

"Son, now that you have graduated your mother feels I would not be fulfilling my duties as a father if I did not explain certain facts about life to you."

"Yes, dad."

"First I would like to show you a few things that you will have to deal with in the outside world. For example, this item is called a necktie."

"What do you do with it?"

"You tie it around your neck like this and wear it with a shirt."

"What for?"

"Nobody is quite sure. But when you go out into the cold world people will expect you to wear one. It's the establishment's answer to the peace symbol."

"It sure looks funny. What else, dad?"

"This, my boy, is a suit - what are you laughing at?"

"The jacket matches the pants. Hey, that's really crazy."

"Yes, the jacket does match the pants, and you will be expected to wear them together during the daytime."

"But the pants have a crease in the front. What's that for?"

"I'm not certain of its purpose, but now that you are an adult, you will be expected to keep a crease in your pants. Perhaps I should have explained these things to you before, but I didn't want to ruin your school days. Yet what I am telling you now will have a great effect on everything you do."

"Sorry dad, but you have to admit wearing a tie and a jacket that matches the pants - what do you call it - a suit - is a pretty funny idea."

"Can we proceed? These queer looking leather things are called shoes. Do you have any idea what they're used for?"

"Beats me."

"You put them on your feet to protect them from sharp objects."

"I don't want to wear anything like that, dad. I'll take my chances."

"I don't know how to break it to you, son, but most places require grownups to wear shoes."

"Look dad, if you want me to, I will wear a necktie, and I'll even go along with the jacket and matching pants with a crease in them, but I'm not going to put those stupid leather things on my feet."

"Shoes, son, shoes. Believe me, you'll get used to them. After awhile you might even get to like them and keep them polished."

"You mean you have to polish them, too?"

"You don't have to, but they look better that way and last longer. Here, put on these socks and then..."

"What are socks?"

"You wear them under the shoes so the leather won't rub your feet."

"I thought the shoes were supposed to protect your feet."

"Provided you wear socks. Son, please don't make this too difficult for me. I'm not very good at explaining the facts of life but believe me, I've been telling you the truth."

"I'm sorry dad, it's just that you've thrown all this stuff at me at one time, and it comes as a shock."

"Perhaps we've talked enough for one day. Tomorrow I'd like to tell you about a thing called a razor."

"Razor? That's a funny word."

Jews Celebrate, Then Fast In High Holy Day Services

All over the world, Jews flocked to synagogues at sundown Sunday to usher in the year of 5732, and to start the observance of the ten-day period known as the High Holy Days. This sacred period begins with the festival of Rosh Hashanah, meaning "the head of the year," or the Jewish New Year. According to tradition, Rosh Hashanah will be the 5,732nd birthday of the creation of the world.

The high point of the Rosh Hashanah celebration here at Temple Beth David as well as around the world was the sounding of the shofar, or the ram's horn. This ancient Jewish symbol, which was blown to announce the festival in Biblical days, was sounded in the synagogue to usher in the new year, and to awaken the congregants to their responsibilities to God and to the Jewish people. The story of Abraham and Isaac on Mt. Moriah was read from the Torah (the sacred scrolls containing the first five books of the Bible) and the congregants greeted each other with the joyous phrase, "LeShanah tovah tikateyvu" — "May you be inscribed in the book of life for a good year."

Rosh Hashanah is the beginning of ten days of repentance, leading up to the most solemn day of the Jewish year,

Yom Kippur, the day of Atonement. During these ten days, every Jew is expected to search out his conscience and review his shortcomings in his relationship to God and his fellowman during the past year. Then, finally on the 10th day, the Day of Atonement, he is obligated to go to synagogue and confess his sins to God, ask for divine forgiveness and vow to do better in the year ahead.

One of the highlights of Yom Kippur eve is the chanting of the "Kol Nidre" prayer by the cantor, a prayer dating back to Medieval Spain, whose haunting melody has inspired Jews for many centuries. During this day, it is also customary for Jews to fast, so as to symbolically afflict their souls and strengthen them in the sincerity of their confession and their resolve to improve their moral behavior. Yom Kippur, beginning this year at sundown, Tuesday, September 28, will conclude at sundown, Wednesday September 29 after a long day of praying in the synagogue with the final sounding of the shofar bringing God's promise of forgiveness and new hopes for a year of health happiness and righteous action.

Four members of the Board of Aldermen are retiring from office at the end of this year. They are Adelaide B. Ball, Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1; William H. Wolf, Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2; William H. Sullivan, Ward Alderman from Ward 4; and William Carmon, Ward Alderman from Ward 7 who is running for Mayor.

Forty-one candidates will fight it out in the next few weeks for 24 positions on the Board of Aldermen, and 16 contenders will seek the eight places on the School Committee. Only one School Board post will be uncontested. This is from Ward 3.

Speculation is rife in political circles as to what impact, if any, the young voters between 18 and 21 will make on Newton's coming election.

Four candidates are seeking two places as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1. In addition to Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell, they are Cecil Cadwell of 24 Hunnewell Avenue, Frank Fitzpatrick of 86 Washington Street, and Robert Gaylor of 109 Cabot Street.

Five contenders also will vie for two posts as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2. Alderman Peter F. Harrington is standing for reelection. The others in the field are Ann Steinberg, 1075 Commonwealth Avenue, Edward Richmond of 833 Commonwealth Avenue, Douglas Howard of 230 Walnut Street, and Frederick Uehlein of 125 Lowell Street, son of Alderman Edward C. Uehlein.

Alderman-at-Large Louis I. Egelson, Jr., and David W. Jackson Ward 4 are being opposed by Nick Nardone of 39 Sharon Avenue.

An interesting fight is shaping up for the two posts as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5. Alderman Michael J. Antonelli and Harry L. Waten are being challenged by Burton M. Pike and Lois G. Pines.

Domenic Taglienti of 350 Langley Road is standing against Alderman-at-Large Harry H. Crosby and Jason Sacks from Ward 7.

Robert Stiller is opposing Alderman-at-Large Wendell R.

Steering Committee. At the September 15 meeting of the Board, Mr. Eastman reported that less than half of the Board had already signed pledges totalling more than $50,000.

Mr. Eastman observed: "This early response by Board members and Trustees is very encouraging. The community deserves to know that those of us closest to the 'Y' are supporting the project to the limit of our individual abilities. It is our duty to set a challenging example for all who will be asked to follow our lead."

At the same Board meeting, Chester L. Mosher, Executive Director of the "Y" reported: "Every member of the 'Y' staff has pledged at least 1 per cent of his salary for the next five years. Several have exceeded that level. I hope that this performance by the 'Y' Staff serves as a testimonial to the merit of the project. Those of us who know the 'Y' best have tried to say with our gifts that this endeavor is important—even vital to the communities we serve."

While the Board was meeting at the "Y", the Business Men's Athletic Club was having its kick-off at the Brae Burn Country Club under the Co-Chairmanship of Frederick A. Perkins, Chief of Newton, both long-time members of the B.M.A.C.

Chief Perkins and Mr. Koffman have assembled an organization of eight Team Captains: Charles Anastasia, Henry H. Atkins, John J. Goode, Irving B. Ives, John M. Marshall, Harold E. Martin, Dante F. Montouri, Edward E. Waxman and forty volunteer solicitors, all members of the organization. Together they will pursue a goal of $100,000 within the B.M.A.C. membership.

Mr. Koffman in his opening remarks pointed out: "You know how important this is! Presently, 15,000 persons each year are crowded into ancient facilities designed to accommodate 1500. This means that individuals and families that need and deserve the services of the 'Y' are being left out. It means too that new, innovative programs are being left out. Our communities deserve better than that!"

Bauckman and Elliot K. Cohen of Ward 8. Bauckman is president of the Aldermanic Board.

Three candidates will contest for Carmen's seat as Ward Alderman from Ward 7. They are Ronald S. Wilson of 41 Brackett St., Leonard P. Worth of 101 Stuart Road and David B. Sohen of 17 Glendale Road.

Ward 8 Alderman Richard J. Bullwinkle is opposed by Esther H. Thompson of 45 Adella Road, and Ward 6 Alderman Ernest F. Dietz is being challenged by Harold Kohrin of 822 Commonwealth Avenue.

Unopposed are Alderman-at-Large Robert Tennant and Matthew Jefferson, both of Ward 3; and Michael Lipof and Sidney T. Small, both of Ward 6.

Ward Aldermen who are unopposed and assured of reelection are Andrew J. Magni of Ward 1, Edward C. Uehlein of Ward 5 and Alan S. Barkin of Ward 8.

During the course of the meeting the volunteers were reminded that there is no limit to the need for a larger "Y" designed for a modern comprehensive program.

"Some people ask why we don't just remodel. Our architects and engineers tell us that the renovation required would cost as much if not more than building an entirely new facility," a spokesman said.

Again, Campaign Chairman, Monte G. Basbas was the final speaker. He concluded the meeting with the observation, "The 'Y' is essentially people and program, the physical facility must accommodate both. That means we must have space, equipment and staff to satisfy every age group and a tremendous diversity of program. We must have physical accommodations especially designed for the increasing number of women and girls using the 'Y'. We must have very special provisions for the less fortunate members of the community who need special programs and opportunities."

This requires a lot of money, about $3,000,000. But we can afford it. We must afford it. Every man, woman and child in Newton, Wellesley and the other towns served by the "Y" deserves the opportunity to be the best possible person and citizen he can be. For a great number the "Y" helps provide that opportunity."

Now, more than ever before, our individual citizens and our family groups need the "Y". They need every opportunity to strengthen their bodies, improve their minds and lift their spirits."

Final speaker of the evening was Monte G. Basbas, Mayor of Newton and General Chairman of the Building Fund.

Campaign Chairman Basbas reminded the group: "Your efforts will provide something our communities beyond that which any governmental entity can furnish. This is good citizenship in action. I hope that you take great pleasure and satisfaction from your labor to make our 'Y' a more effective institution and Newton and the adjoining towns better place to live and work and raise families."

The following evening, September 16th, fifty members of the "Y" Auxiliary and their guests inaugurated active solicitation within this group. Retired "Y" Director Alex Miller and Mrs. Miller are Co-Chairman of this segment of the Campaign. They are assisted by Team Captains Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Auryans, Mrs. Edward Axelrod, Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman, Miss Myrtle Decker, Mrs. William B. Hadley, Mr. Lincoln Alvord, Mrs. George Strandberg, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laffin.

When asked whether this meant that some families would be forced to move out of the area, relocation officer Milgroom stated "I can't give you details on that."

neighborhood. She walks one block to the local library nearly every afternoon, and likes having a corner grocery and her own church just around the corner.

Mrs. Bessie Crowder, a young black woman with three small children, is anxious for an opportunity to move out of her unheated apartment over a block of stores on Washington St., but she is skeptical whether any good will come to her out of the renewal project.

She despairs of finding a decent apartment, and says she has received virtually no help in finding an apartment or house from the Redevelopment Authority. When an Allston landlord refused to rent to her because she is on welfare, she called the Authority and asked them to intervene, but this did not result in her getting the apartment.

The Authority, which is responsible for relocating all displaced tenants, has never offered to show her an apartment, she declares.

When a window was broken in Mrs. Bessie Crowder's apartment, the Authority refused to repair it. "As hot as it is, they wanted to board up the window instead of repairing it," says Mrs. Crowder. "I finally had to pay to get the glass put in and they wouldn't even let me take it out of my rent."

Both Mrs. Crowder and her sister-in-law, who lives next door, are worried that they are not adequately informed about their options under urban renewal. The only way they found out for the replacement housing, they say, is from their neighbor, Mrs. Arthur Maffiola.

Mrs. Maffiola declares herself 100 per cent in favor of renewal. She is anxious not to disturb her good relationship to the Redevelopment Authority. She says that "Mario" (Mario DiCarlo, Chairman of the Redevelopment Authority) is doing a good job, and is angry with the aldermen who oppose him.

Like all tenants in this area, she is anxious for better housing, but unlike some of the other tenants, she is aware that there may be competition for available units in the new project.

As a member of the Project Area Committee, she feels that she is first in line to get important information on the project. Some of the other tenants don't know, she says, that if they move out of the project area and accept rent supplements, they will no longer be eligible for the new units coming up. She intends to stick it out until the new units are available.

Relocation Officer Fred Milgroom says Mrs. Maffiola is mistaken, that people who leave the area will still be eligible for low-income housing in the Redevelopment Area. However, seven families — 25 persons — from the buildings to be razed are eligible for the low-income housing, while only four units, under present plans, of the 70 units slated for the site will be low-income units.

When asked whether this meant that some families would be forced to move out of the area, relocation officer Milgroom stated "I can't give you details on that."

When asked what apartments had been shown to the Crowders, Milgroom mentioned the apartment in Allston. He had been unable to locate housing for people of their income level in Newton, he said.

Fund-

Senior Vice President of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. and member of the Board of Directors of the Medical Alert Foundation International.

This fund was established by the Foundation. The fund will be used as an endowment to provide memberships in the Medical Alert for those who could not afford to pay for their own.

The announcement was made at a reception and luncheon during the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Foundation held in Boston at the Sheraton Plaza.

Attending the luncheon were members of the Boston Life Underwriters Association, which publicizes the Foundation and its work as one of its public service activities. Mr. Barker, formerly of Chestnut Hill, was actively involved in the Medical Alert Foundation for many years.

The Medical Alert Foundation is a charitable, non-profit foundation providing medical protection service for people with hidden medical problems which should be known in an emergency. It was founded to prevent tragic, even fatal, mistakes in the course of administering aid to these people.

The Medical Alert emblem (which is made of stainless steel, sterling silver, or gold) is worn on a neck chain or bracelet, whichever is preferred. Both conform to the standards as recommended by the American Medical Association.

On the front of the emblem engraved in red, appear the staff of Aesculapian and the words "MEDIC ALERT," with the AMA official warning symbol on either side.

On the reverse side is engraved the specific medical problem of the wearer, such as "Diabetic," or "Taking anticoagulants," or "Allergic, aspirin."

In addition each emblem contains a code number assigned to the member and the telephone number of the Medical Alert Foundation Central File maintained in a Turlock, California, headquarters with more detailed medical information, addresses of physicians and nearest relative of every member.

The information is available to physicians and other authorized personnel 24 hours a day via collect telephone call from anywhere in the world.

A one-time only membership fee of $1 finances the Foundation, aided by voluntary contributions from friends, corporations, and foundations. There is a small service charge for occasional up-to-date changes on one's medical history.

More and more people are using the Medical Alert emblem to indicate they are "ORGAN DONORS," since police and medical personnel would recognize this emblem and be able to have within minutes all pertinent information by phone and institute proper legal and medical steps immediately.

Others who use the Medical Alert emblem are many of the 11 million arthritics and rheumatics in this country. After shock or injury, without one of these drugs complications would be serious, painful, or even fatal.

10 (ten) per cent of all persons inoculated with tetanus antitoxin develop some sort of allergy to the serum. In a good many cases the reaction to another injection would be almost instant death. Many of the 10 million cardiovascular patients take daily medications that must be continued in emergencies.

In an emergency a doctor's instant knowledge of medical conditions and access to more detailed medical data will be helpful, possibly lifesaving. This would certainly be true of people with hemophilia, multiple sclerosis, myasthenia gravis, or glaucoma.

A doctor in an emergency situation needs to know what drugs we are taking, such as Dilantin, Dilantin Sodium, or Mercupurin. He also needs to know to what drugs we are allergic, such as mercury, iodine, antibiotics, morphine derivatives, novocain (and other compounds used as local anesthetics) barbitol, aspirin, eggs, wool, etc.

Parents of mentally retarded or deaf children often wish them to have Medical Alert protection to spare them unnecessary or painful encounters, should they wander from home or become separated from their parents.

Readers wishing more information for themselves or others may write directly to MEDIC ALERT, Turlock, California, or locally to Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson III, 12117, Boston, Mass. Meanwhile they may rest assured that in Newton in the police department, the school department and in our hospital steps are taken to be sure that Medical Alert emblems are both publicized and respected.

All three families have received notices saying that they would have to be out of the building by August 31; one tenant has vacated, but no action has been taken against the remaining tenants.

League of Women Voters Hears Mass. Chief Justice

2-24 league of women voters

"The strengths and weaknesses of the District Courts" was the topic of discussion at the Massachusetts League of Women Voters annual Fall Conference on Friday, September 17, at Framingham State College. Over 600 members representing 106 local Leagues heard Chief Justice Franklin Elascner discuss the problems of handling the volume of criminal matters in the District Courts in an even-handed manner.

Justice Flaschner described as well the human element of these "people's Courts."

As Chief Justice of the District Courts of Massachusetts, Chief Justice Flaschner serves as presiding Justice of the District Court of Newton and Associate Justice, Appellate Division, Northern District. He is a member of the Massachusetts Criminal Law Revision Commission and is an instructor at Boston College Law School.

In the past, he served as Special Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Bridgewater Release project and as Director of the Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency. His civic activities include a seven-year association with the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, serving as Newton's representative, Council President and member of the Executive Committee.

Following his presentation, Chief Justice Flaschner responded to questions posed by three panelists from the news media. The panelists included Richard N. Braude, Director of Editorials and Public Affairs for WEEI; Steven Teichner, reporter with Channel 2's program "The Reporters," and Charles L. Whipple, Editor of the editorial page of the Boston Globe.

The League of Women Voters of Massachusetts has undertaken an objective study of the Massachusetts Judicial System. Inquiry into the problems facing the District Courts will help League members evaluate the current criticisms of these courts and various proposals for change. The afternoon session of the Conference was divided into workshops whose common theme was the development of techniques of effective political action. Each workshop discussed this theme in the context of a different League position such as Education, Public Welfare, Housing, Fiscal Policy and others.

State legislators visited the workshops to aid members in the exploration of practical effective techniques. Members of the League of Women Voters of Newton who attended the conference and participated in the workshops included Mrs. Leon Barron, Mrs. Richard Goldman, Mrs. John Leitch, Mrs. Charles Lipson, Mrs. Douglas Moran, Mrs. Brian Murphy, and Mrs. Jay Orlin.

Study of Lake Pollution By Local Student

Lawrence A. Adelman of Newton is one of twelve members of a student research team from Dartmouth College who have just completed a summer-long study of the pollution problems of nearby Lake Mascoma in Enfield, N.H. Their final recommendations will be presented to the town of Enfield at the October town Meeting. Mr. Adelman has been working as liaison with local, state and federal officials on the project.

During the past few years, recreational use of the lake has been threatened and property values have been jeopardized due to "algae blooms" which, at times, have turned Lake Mascoma into a pea-soup consistency. Armed with a $17,000 grant from the National Science Foundation, a $1,000 grant from the Mellon Foundation, and a laboratory of highly sophisticated equipment at Dartmouth College, the researchers have undertaken an extensive study of the lake.

Their research has taken many forms, ranging from an analysis of the lake water for algae, oxygen and bacterial content to a survey of the 1,200 residents living on or near the lake to determine their attitudes about the recreational retreat. The students are also using the high-speed, time-shared Kiewit computer at Dartmouth to analyze the results of their findings.

Mr. Adelman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Adelman of 83 Nehodion Road, Newton, is a 1969 graduate of Newton South High School. At Dartmouth, he has been active as a member of the Dartmouth Outing Club and with WDCR, the college's student-operated radio station. He is also on the staff of The Dartmouth, a daily publication put out by the students of Dartmouth College.

NCE's Candidates' Night Will Be Held October 6

A Candidates' Night for contested seats on the Newton School Committee in November's election will be held on Wednesday, October 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church at Homer and Center Streets, Newton Centre.

Newton Citizens for Education will sponsor the open meeting, planned to give all members of the community a chance to question the candidates about the issues. The candidates will be asked to meet with small sections of the audience so that discussions can be held on an informal basis.

Prior to the meeting, the NCE Forum will be distributed, containing statements by the candidates on what they consider to be the most serious problems facing the schools and their suggestions to solve them. The Forum is an informational newspaper compiled by NCE on educational issues.

The public is invited to become better informed by attending the meeting and joining in the interchange of the discussion groups.

All members of the community are eligible to join NCE, including students. More information can be obtained from membership chairman Mrs. Rhoda Mann, 137 Temple St., West Newton, or at the meeting.

Two State Reps Support Drug Legislation Reform

Representative Paul F. Malloy (D) Newton, one of the authors of the New Recommended Uniform Controlled Substance Act, predicted quick approval of the legislation which calls for major revisions in the drug laws.

Representative Michael F. Flaherty, Chairman of the Special Commission Studying Drug Abuse, notified Representative Malloy that the new bill incorporates legislation filed earlier this year by Representative Malloy.

Malloy's bill provides for reclassification of the drug laws, and reduction in penalties for possession of drugs. It also eliminates the crime of being in the presence of marijuana and legalization of legitimate drug research and experimentation in the Commission's new proposed act.

Representative Malloy said the new legislation goes even further and will allow doctors to treat drug dependent persons without reporting their names, addresses and histories. The reason for this is to eliminate the fear of prosecution if a person seeks treatment. It also increases the controls of distribution of amphetamines and barbiturates.

"The proposed act is the result of eight months of combined efforts of the legislature, Attorney General's office, District Attorney Burke and representatives from the Governor's office," Malloy declared. "This legislation is a realistic attempt to deal with what is now one of our largest social problem in this state and country," he added.

"The aim is to treat, rather than to prosecute; to rehabilitate, rather than to sentence. Drug users will get probation, rather than prison," Malloy stated.

Representative Paul Guzzi (D-Newton) has announced his endorsement of the proposals. "Under the new set of laws penalties for the use of marijuana would be eased, but tougher controls would be imposed over the flow of illegal as well as legal drugs in the state," Guzzi stated.

The most controversial recommendation of the commission would give the police new powers to make arrests without warrants in cases where they are now powerless. Guzzi discussed additional recommendations which he felt were important.

Classifying drugs according to their use and chemical composition and setting separate penalties for each category.

Imposing tighter controls on all those who presently handle drugs legally, including manufacturers, physicians, and druggists.

Allowing some drug arrest records to be "expunged" following the successful completion of probation.

Representative Guzzi emphasized the need for revising our current laws. He noted that merely being present where marijuana is found makes one liable for a penalty of five years in jail, while illegal manufacture of harmful drugs is punishable with a maximum jail sentence of only six months. The new schedule of penalties would impose far stiffer sentences on drug pushers and repeat offenders than on first offenders.

The Newton legislator stated that "These new proposals cannot be classified as either 'soft' or 'tough' on drug abuse. Rather, the commission has taken a realistic approach to a very complex problem involving many sectors of our society. Those involved in the problem - users, pushers, manufacturers, law enforcement officials, and medical personnel will all be subject to the revised standards."

The proposed legislation represents the most comprehensive and coordinated attempt that this or any state has attempted in an effort to deal with the problem of drug abuse, Guzzi declared.

In response to a question on whether the provision for arrest without warrant might not be used as a weapon for jailing radical groups, Malloy answered, "I feel confident that the provision will be construed so that the individual's rights will be protected."

Malloy noted that the legislation would in fact help to protect individual rights by eliminating the crime of "being in the presence of" drugs.

Harrington Critical Of Closed-Door Discussions

Closed-door sessions are being held on topics that should be open for public debate, Alderman Peter Harrington charged at the last full meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

The Board met in executive session last week to discuss pay raises for city employees. "I question the wisdom of giving raises to department heads when raises have just been denied to city workers. I further question the idea of giving a second raise within one year to certain city employees. I think these are important philosophical differences that should be open to public debate," Harrington declared.

Another aldermanic meeting which should have been open to the public, Harrington feels, was the meeting of the Land Use Committee in executive session on the reappointment of Monsignor John M. Quirk of St. Bernard's parish to the Redevelopment Authority.

"Matters of the long-range policy of the Redevelopment Authority were discussed at that meeting," explained Harrington. When asked whether his statement on raises to department heads meant that he had opposed raises for city workers, Harrington stated, "I think City Hall Associates are entitled to their raises. There was a prior contract, an agreement made before the President's proclamation."

Art Classes For Mothers And Tots

The Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton, has the answer for mothers of pre-school children who feel they should be doing "something" in art with their children but can't stand the mess.

Linda Janower, Director of Creative Art announced today a new program for Mothers and Tots to be offered at the Center beginning Monday (Oct. 4).

This class will be especially for parents and their pre-school children and will meet at 9:30 a.m. and at 1 p.m. for 12 consecutive Mondays for one hour. It will allow both mother and child to experiment with many forms of art media in an atmosphere free of restraint and worry about mess. Mothers will gain ideas for home use with children as well as new perspective for themselves on the potentialities for an adult's use of the so called "children's media."

Classes will also meet for mothers and Tots on Thursdays beginning October 7 at 9:20 a.m. and 10:40 a.m. for 12 one hour sessions. NORTH CAROLINA BRACED FOR MASSIVE HURRICANE MASSIVE Hurricane Ginger stirred gale-force winds and high seas along North Carolina's outer banks Wednesday as the main body of the storm headed for an expected Thursday morning landfall with 80-mile-an-hour winds. A hurricane warning was extended farther south on the Tar Heel Coast late Wednesday when the storm veered slightly to the left and picked up speed. The warning area extended from just north of Wilmington to Virginia Beach, Va. The National Hurricane Center at Miami said if the trend continues, the center of the storm should reach the coast 50 to 100 miles southwest of Cape Hatteras shortly after dawn today. The earlier predictions had been for a landfall somewhat to the north at about mid-morning today. A hurricane watch was in effect for the rest of the North Carolina coast north to Rehoboth Beach, Del. The hurricane center advised that unprotected beach areas be evacuated before escape routes were cut off by rising waters.

CRIME IN NORTHEAST GAINS 10% IN FIRST SIX MONTHS

CRIME in the Northeast increased 10 per cent in the first six months of the year, or three per cent more than the national average, the FBI reported Wednesday. The federal agency said the increase for the region was second only to the Western states which reported an 11 per cent rise over the first half of the year, compared to the same period in 1970. The largest increase in a crime category for the Northeast was in robberies which swelled by 32 per cent. Violent crimes were up by 24 per cent, murders increased by 19 per cent and aggravated assaults were up by 12 per cent.

CONTROLLERS SAVE WOBBLY SUNWATCHER IN ORBIT

THE NATION'S best equipped and most expensive sunwatching satellite soared into the wrong orbit Wednesday but ground controllers saved the $36 million mission for months of valuable solar surveillance. The Orbiting Solar Observatory, named OSO 7, carried six instruments to investigate the puzzling processes that create the sun's awesome energy. After correcting a potentially serious wobble, project officials at Cape Kennedy said the satellite should operate normally despite its erratic path around the earth. The satellite's radiation sensors will be turned on in three to six days as planned.

STARTING OF '74 CARS WILL HINGE ON LOCKED SEAT BELTS

THE GOVERNMENT ordered auto manufacturers Wednesday to install seat belts on all 1974 cars that must be locked before the vehicle will start. It issued the order in delaying for two years, to 1976, a requirement that a driver or passenger must be able to survive a front end crash at 30 miles an hour. This standard most likely would be met through use of air bags that would automatically inflate and envelope passengers in case of collision. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the so-called passive restraint systems must be installed in front and back seat positions on cars produced after Aug. 15, 1975, which is the starting date for the 1976 model runs. The air bag is not the only method capable of meeting the passive restraint system, but observers agree it is the most likely to be installed. Automakers could use heavy interior padding to meet the standard.

SENATE REJECTS SCUTTLING OF ABM SYSTEM

THE SENATE, in a vote of confidence for President Nixon's efforts to achieve an arms control agreement with the Soviet Union, overwhelmingly rejected legislation that would have scuttled the Safeguard Antibalistic Missile (ABM) system Wednesday. Encouraged by prospects of an agreement for a mutual limitation on the ABM, long-time critics of the weapon joined in beating down an amendment by Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, to bar further deployment of the computerized missile interceptor. The action came as the Senate plowed through a $2 billion Military Procurement Bill, shrugging off all major efforts to trim it.

ALLIED TROOPS STREAM TOWARD CAMBODIAN BORDER

A TWO-HIGHWAY drive by 3,000 South Vietnamese and 1,000 American troops struck north from Tay Ninh City toward the Cambodian border Wednesday. It was a new operation aimed at breaking up a four-day-old Communist election-time offensive. The two troop columns were backed by massive air strikes from U.S. B-52 bombers that dropped 1,000 tons of explosion during 11 missions in 24 hours. South Vietnamese Gen. Nguyen Xuan Tinh, commander of the 25th infantry division, said about 50,000 South Vietnamese troops were concentrated in embattled Tay Ninh Province, plus a squadron of U.S. armored cavalry and elements of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division. The two-pronged highway drive began Wednesday afternoon.

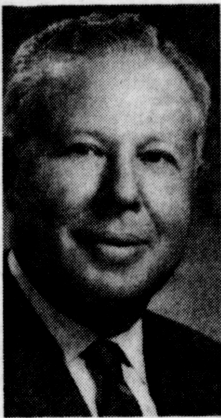

BRITAIN WARNS FIGHTING MAY ERUPT IN MIDDLE EAST

BRITAIN said in the United Nations Wednesday that fighting may erupt soon in the Middle East unless Israel and the Arabs agree to negotiate. The warning, delivered to the General Assembly by Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, was followed by a Lebanese demand for sanctions against Israel as the only means of restoring Middle East peace and regaining U.N. prestige in the area. Both Home and Canadian External Affairs Secretary Mitchell Sharp hailed the expected seating of Communist China in the United Nations. Neither mentioned the United States' effort to save a seat for Nationalist China while admitting the Peking government.

WALPOLE CONVICTS AIR GRIEVANCES WITH OFFICIALS

MOST of the 587 convicts at Walpole State Prison met Wednesday with various officials and newsmen to air their grievances over the state's penal system. The sometimes noisy session in the prison auditorium occurred as convicts at Walpole and Norfolk Prison Colony were in the third day of a work stoppage protest for prison reform. Only essential services were performed by the inmates. During the Walpole meeting began, it was disclosed Gov. Francis W. Sargent would be asked to file special legislation repealing the so-called "two-thirds" law under which persons convicted of violent crimes must serve at least two-thirds of their sentences in order to be eligible for parole. Sheriff John Buckley of Middlesex County told the convicts the changes they are seeking are "human and decent" and "I'm sure they will be granted." However, he cautioned, the "Legislature will not respond under the gun. You will have to go back to your routine and we will work for you on the outside."

Aldermen Set Merit Raises For Officials

In a set of closed-door discussions that lasted until nearly 2 a.m., the Board of Aldermen Monday night approved a basic salary increase of four per cent for department heads, with increases greater and lesser than that amount depending on the board's judgement of merit.

"It was a haggle over each appropriation," said one alderman. "There are not a lot of dollars involved ($9,358.31), but this is the only way in which the board can record its judgment of how the jobs are being done in the different departments. The rest of the year, department heads are the mayor's employees, and he had the responsibility for hiring and firing."

A policy decision was made to create a differential between the jobs of police chief and fire chief, on the grounds that the police chief's job is more demanding, involves being in the public eye and is a more sensitive position.

The chief of police received a 6 per cent increase while the

Special Ruling Sets Up Two-Part Increase

Vote $261,000 To Pay City Employee Raises

Unionized city employees received a retroactive six per cent cost-of-living increase totaling $261,000 for the months of May to August and November to December of this year, in appropriations voted at a special Board of Aldermen meeting held Monday night.

The two-part raise was the result of an unusual ruling handed down from the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) last week.

The ruling said that City Hall Associates were entitled to the increase, because negotiations were completed prior to the freeze period, but that for the months of the freeze period, city hall employees must receive their 1970-71 wage rate.

Employees were to get last year's wages for the freeze months because the contract had not been signed, and the money had not yet been appropriated by the aldermen, thus validating the contract.

A special meeting of the full Board was held to vote on the raises, because if not voted by Oct. 1 (three months before the end of an election year), the raises could not take effect this year.

The board ratified a Finance Committee report asking for approval of the raises. The report explained, "It has been the practice in this city, ever since the General Court provided for collective bargaining by municipal employees in 1966, to enact our annual budget in March of each year without including wage and salary increases for City Employees not already covered by collective bargaining agreements in effect at that time.

"A Supplementary Budget is then passed later in the year to cover both the collective

Fall Check-Up Of Eat, Drink Spots Starts

The Newton Health Department is in the midst of its annual fall check-up which includes inspection of all eating and drinking establishments, to find out if they have complied with the State Sanitary Code and local regulations.

This must be done in order to recommend renewal of licenses for the following year. The Newton License Commissioners cooperate by making it a practice not to issue any licenses without the Health Department approval.

Costs Mount On Repairs To Police Cars

Mounting repair bills on police cruisers prompted a request for a $5000 supplemental appropriation presented by Police Chief William Quinn to the Aldermanic Finance Committee Thursday night.

Repair bills for body damage are up $2200 from the total for this time last year, Quinn told the aldermen, with 31 accidents involving police cars so far this year.

The Department expects to recover some $2000 in suits, Quinn stated. He also told Board members that policemen were trained in defensive driving.

Maintenance bills are likely to increase this year, also, Quinn informed the aldermen, because half the vehicles in the department are being kept for another year.

Normally, the police cars, which may put on 80,000 miles per year, are replaced every year.

The Police Department uses its own brake jobs, tuneups, its own brake jobs, tuneups,

City Departments Ask Extra Funds

There is $18 left in the Public Works Dept. account for sewer house connections, and the City Solicitor is borrowing stamps. Tales of financial woe told at the Thursday night meeting of the Aldermanic Finance Committee indicate that despite the wage-price freeze, Newton's city services are feeling the pinch of inflation.

Appropriations approved by the Finance Committee include a $13,200 appropriation for day-to-day maintenance of city buildings other than schools, without which, Commissioner Charles Herbert told the aldermen, boilers would not be repaired if they break down this winter, and leaky roofs and broken windows would go unintended.

An incinerator ventilation project requested by the state Dept. of Public Safety is being postponed for a year, Herbert told the aldermen, because funds were allocated to cover an estimated cost of $4500, while the lowest bid received was nearly $10,000.

Newton PTA Council:

Invites 4 Mayoral Hopefuls To Panel

The Newton Council of PTA's opens its new academic year 1971-72 by immersing itself "in the problems, policies and rewards of supporting education in our community," as specially noted by its new President S. Wendell Kravitz.

During an election year, Council members underscore these concerns through participation in meeting candidates for public office who will directly be responsible for the support, growth and progress of "education in our community."

At its first meeting this year, Thursday, October 7th, at 8 p.m., at the Beethoven School in Waban, the four candidates for Mayor have been invited to come before this organization of 32 PTA Presidents in Newton to share their thoughts on Newton and its school system.

Plan Colombia Exchanges

Wignore A. Pierson of Newtonville returned last week after a ten day trip to Massachusetts' sister state of Antioquia in Colombia, South America.

Included in the group of persons visiting Colombia were the Mrs. Francis W.

Sargent, wife of the Governor of Massachusetts, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Weinert, Roy A. White, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Norris, Mrs. Lewis P. Cabot, Haim S. Eliacher, and Robert M. Menter.

Pierson, as Chairman of the Massachusetts delegation, coordinated the various activities of the group while they were in Colombia.

The highlight of the trip was a visit with the President of Colombia, Dr. Misael Pastrana Borrero in Bogota in the Casa de Bolivar which is similar to our White House in Washington.

While in Antioquia the group developed various programs of exchange with our counterparts in that South American country.

The main projects which evolved during the discussions in Colombia were the following: Under the broad heading of education a high school curriculum development for inclusion in Massachusetts and Antioquian schools with a student and teacher exchange component. Youth for Understanding has two Colombian girls living here in Massachusetts and this high school student exchange program will be greatly expanded during the coming year.

In the cultural area there will be exchanges of musical scores, a possible tour of South America by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, a February Boston recital by Dr. Harold Martina and art exhibit exchanges.

In the sports field there is a great need for new or even used athletic equipment in

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Governor Stiffly Partisan In His State Lottery Vote

Governor Sargent vetoed the State Lottery Bill on surprisingly hard partisan political grounds. If he had said the same thing a year ago, it would have cost him thousands of the Democratic votes which enabled him to win election to the Governorship.

The Governor did not turn down the Lottery Bill for moral reasons; or because it would encourage poor people to gamble money they could not afford to lose; or because it is not one of the better methods of raising money for a state or a city or town.

He turned back the measure because as drafted by the Democratic-dominated Legislature it would vest control of the Lottery in Democratic State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane rather than Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent. The legislators were on sound ground in overriding his veto.

Crane, in addition to the sin of being a Democrat from Mr. Sargent's standpoint, yielded to the requests of Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Boston Mayor Kevin H. White and other Democratic leaders and consented to serve as unpaid chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

NEWTON DESERVES CARMEN FOR MAYOR
Bill Carmen gets things done.

Regal Seeks Re-election As School Board Member

Herbert F. Regal of Newton Centre is a candidate for re-election to the Newton School Committee. He has served as school committee member from Ward 6 (voted on city wide) for the past two years.

Regal has long been active in the Newton community. He served as president of the Newton PTA Council in 1968-69. He was chairman of the Newton Democratic City Committee for 1964 to 1968. He was treasurer of the Newton Citizens for Dental Health and a district director of the

HERBERT F. REGAL

Newton United Fund for five years.

He was Newton coordinator for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in 1962 and 1964. He served Mayor Basbas' Committee to Study Newton Junior College in 1967 and the Mayor's Committee to Analyze the City's Fiscal Trends in 1968. During May of 1968 he traveled working on the presidential campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Regal earned his A.B. degree at Harvard in 1948 and served 2 1/2 years in the U.S. Navy during the World War II. He is president of John S. Regal & Son, Inc., a hardware distributing company and is a director of the Mount Vernon Cooperative Bank. He and his wife Bernice reside at 155 Homer Street, Newton Centre. The Regals are members of Temple Shalom of Newton. They have three children; Sally, a sophomore at Georgetown University; Ellen and David, students at Newton High School.

Committeeman Regal has fashioned an excellent attendance record at School Board sessions, having missed only two meetings during his two years on the school committee. He has consistently urged and voted for broader community use of school facilities. He has worked hard for a clear administrative statement regarding proper social and political activity within the public schools, and defining students' rights and responsibilities.

Regal's most significant contribution during his first two years on the school committee was his service as chairman of the sub-committee for negotiations. After 37 long negotiating sessions, the city was able to conclude its first comprehensive contract with the Newton teachers. The contract recognizes and protects the dignity of the staff while at the same time it retains for the school committee its essential prerogatives.

Looking ahead, Regal feels that there is a most serious problem facing future Newton School Committees. "It is the division developing in the city among groups all deeply in-

Country Players Script Reading Set For Oct. 5

A new three-act comedy, "Puzzle Girl," billed as a "wonderful, nutty spoof" about the publishing business will be given a script-in-hand reading by a cast of ten Tuesday evening, Oct. 5 at 8 at the Pomroy Community Center, Newton.

Admission will be free, according to Mrs. Martin Annis, president of the Newton Country Players. Details may be obtained by phoning 244-3507. The show was written by Mark Finley, Boston playwright, and Joe Saia, young Boston composer has written the show's 17 tunes, most of which will be heard by playback from the "Puzzle Girl" recorded album's four track stereo. Soni Tick of Chestnut Hill plays Berta Galoupolopolis, an awkward girl who becomes kooky actress when she finds out about Women's Lib. Bucky Rosenberg of Brookline plays a pill-popping publisher and Thomas Pate of Newton plays Solters, a frustrated editor.

Mark Driver, the nutty promotion man who dreams up the preposterous stunts played by Gene Tick. Mort Landy of Woburn keeps the comedy bubbling with his antics as an opposition reporter blackmailed by old-time editor Charly Casella of Waltham who is determined to destroy Driver's schemes.

Check-Up

This inspection is started early so that any defects may be remedied and any major improvements can be completed before January 1, 1972.

All establishments are rigidly inspected and written score sheet given to the owner. Reinspections are made until all items needing corrections are completed.

To do this work there are three sanitarians. The city is divided into three districts with one man responsible for each section.

The sanitarians are Charles M. Hopkinson, Charles W. Pierce, Jr., and Roger J. Wade, Jr. The overall program is under the direction of Harlan W. Kingsbury, Chief Sanitary Officer.

In addition, to ascertain continuing compliance with the regulations, monthly bacteria tests are made on eating and drinking utensils to see that they are hygienically safe.

It is with pleasure the Health Department finds a high standard of compliance and good cooperation on the part of the restaurant operators.

Interested in our educational system," he declares.

"Students, teachers, administrators, parents, taxpayers, and the community at large all have real interests (and in some cases divergent interests) in the conduct of our schools. It is the responsibility of the School Committee to evaluate the demands of these groups and reconcile differences whenever possible. To do this is far from easy since each group, of course, feels that its interest is a special one."

In order to work toward the best solution of this problem, Regal feels Newton must elect to the school committee people with an understanding of the entire community, people who will respond to the reasonable concerns of all groups; "in

Conservator Picnic In Auburndale Next Sunday

Newton Conservators are off and walking again this fall, and a picnic has been added to the usual open space introduction.

On Sunday October 3, the Conservators have scheduled a get-together from noon to 3 o'clock for members and nonmembers interested to learn about Auburndale Park and its environs.

This is a bring-your-own-picnic picnic — the Conservators have simply reserved the picnic facilities and the fireplaces.

Between noon and 1:30 there will be plenty of opportunity while lunching to learn more about Newton Conservators' goals and programs. Committee chairmen will be available to explain their various committees and hopefully expand their membership.

At 1:30 there will be a walk through the Park to Newton's sanitary landfill, otherwise

Next Mayor To Lead City In Centennial Observance

Newton's next Mayor will lead the community in its celebration of the Centennial of Newton's Incorporation as a city. Representative Theodore D. Mann noted today.

"It is not too early to start planning for our celebration of this milestone in Newton's history and development," he said, "and, indeed, I understand preliminary efforts in this direction are already under way so that proper recognition will be accorded the city's long and respected heritage."

"There is good reason for our pride in our city, now the eighth largest in the state, and the coming anniversary offers a unique opportunity for its public expression. Here is an excellent opportunity to unite all of Newton's citizens for the attainment of new goals of excellence in our community as Newton enters its second century as a city. A resurgence of public spirit and local pride will result if we plan and carry out effective programs to mark this centennial," Representative Mann continued.

"I am fully aware that we have pressing problems of high priority and that the focus of our present effort is of necessity directed to halt the spiraling tax rate. Mindful at the same time that we must maintain and improve standards of public services and facilities, my feeling is that the Centennial can and should be used to mobilize the human resources of our community to the end that we achieve the necessary teamwork and reach our goals."

"We should," Representative Mann said, "use this opportunity to organize ourselves for a concerted effort by public and private sectors to update and refurbish all properties throughout the city, working ward by ward, block by block, to repair, repaint, and generally give our community a giant face-lifting in honor of the Centennial." Representative Mann declared.

"Such an effort, in con-short, school committee members who will make considered judgements with the whole community in mind." Regal expressed the belief that his educational background, his business and fiscal experience, his broad involvement in the whole Newton community, and his record of accomplishment as a member of the committee, qualify him for re-election "to this most important arm of our municipal government, the Newton School Committee."

fire chief received the basic 4 per cent increase.

Six per cent salary increases for outstanding service were voted for Comptroller Arthur Marr; Treasurer Theodore Scaffidi; Planning Director Michael Ferris; Health Commissioner John C. Athans, M.D.; Librarian Virginia Tashjian; Engineer Ulderico Schiavone; Acting Water Commissioner Carmelo Tempesta; and Assistant City Solicitor Howard Levine.

Assistant City Solicitor Ernest Seyfarth was commended, but held to a minimal increase, because of a substantial 20 per cent increase he had received through upgrading last January.

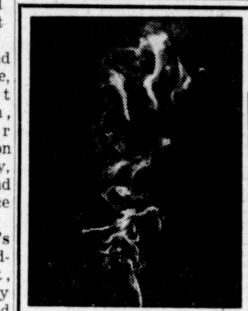

The aldermen criticized, and held to a two per cent increase, Administrative Assistant Winslow C. Auryanssen, Building Commissioner Charles Herbert, Recreation Commissioner John Penney, Street Commissioner Edmund Bolduc, Veteran's Service Agent Carlton P. Merrill.

The jobs of Veteran's Service Agent and Administrative Assistant, aldermen felt, were basically extraneous positions that did not involve enough work or responsibility to warrant the basic four per cent increase. In some other departments productivity or efficiency of administration was questioned.

Compromise raises of four per cent were voted for City Solicitor Melvin Dangel, City Clerk Joseph Karlin, and Commissioner of Public Works Willard Pratt.

"The aldermen are caught between unsatisfied constituents and officials who don't respond," commented one board member. "For the first time, the aldermen entered into the evaluation process and expressed judgments about the competence or efficiency of city departments."

Jackson Home's History Classes Starting Oct. 5

The 1971 Autumn History Classes at the Jackson Homestead, Newton's City-owned museum at 527 Washington street, are now being formed. The classes are scheduled to start Tuesday, October 5, and Thursday, October 7 and will continue for six consecutive weeks.

Nearly one hundred school children from thirteen of the city's Public and Parochial schools attended similar classes last year. This year's classes are for pupils attending fourth and fifth grades.

Instruction will be given by Miss Christine Laning of West Newton in various Colonial activities, including the making of candles, butter churning, weaving, as well as studies in early Newton community history. Special classes for boys in Indian folk lore are also being organized.

The program is being offered by the Jackson Homestead as part of its educational activities. There is no charge for enrollment or instruction. Parents interested in enrolling their children should call Mrs. William H. Cannard, Director - Curator of the Homestead at 332-3920.

Re-election Bid To School Board By Mrs. Rosenblum

Mrs. Eleanor S. Rosenblum, 15 Bemis Street, Newtonville, has announced her candidacy for reelection to the School Committee from Ward 2. Mrs. Rosenblum, who is completing her first term as School Committee member from Ward 2, has served concurrently as chairman of the School Buildings Facilities Commission.

She is also a member of the Title I Advisory Committee at the Lincoln Eliot School, and serves on the Board of Trustees of the Newton Junior College and of Freeport, Inc. She was recently appointed to the Site Selection Committee of the Newton Junior College.

"Since her election to the School Committee, Mrs. Rosenblum has devoted 20-30 hours each week to the fulfillment of her many responsibilities and to first-hand observations within the schools. She is deeply concerned about the problems of maintaining and promoting excellence in Newton's schools."

"The combination of economic recession with continued inflation places great strain on a school budget derived chiefly from the local property tax," she says.

"Urgent demand for help for students whose needs are still unmet — those with learning disabilities, the alienated, apathetic or anti-social, the very young — add to the economic pressure. In the present financial climate we must make careful choices about how money is spent and ensure maximum return for each dollar."

"Yet, the investment necessary to give all Newton's children the basic skills and preparation to become self-reliant, contributing members of adult society, is less costly in both human and monetary terms than the expense of failure — welfare rolls, prisons, or mental institutions."

"Thoughtful research into the effectiveness of various school programs is important to establish priorities and institute savings with reason rather than panic. Resources and equipment available to schools should be shared equitably throughout the city. I have worked towards transfer of financial responsibility for the Newton Junior College to the State system, which will save more than $500,000 per year in subsidy costs."

"Wider utilization of community resources and community volunteers can also be of financial benefit to the schools. Ultimately, relief for the hard pressed property owner must come from a reordering of federal and state priorities to provide aid to local services. Rather than scapegoating schools for the inequities of the property tax, all of us should work together to seek tax reform."

As chairman of the School Buildings Facilities Commission, Mrs. Rosenblum has worked arduously on its comprehensive study of school building conditions. She has made thorough on-site inspections in 22 of Newton's 33 school buildings, and is well acquainted with the backlog of school building deficiencies accumulated through many years of postponed repairs. "This backlog has become a serious problem threatening the City's $70,000,000 investment in school plant and curtailing the effectiveness of the educational program in some districts," she says.

"I strongly support the School Buildings Facilities Commission recommendations of an improved process for upkeep and replacement of school facilities. Utilization of citizen contributions to the planning and design review process is an important part of this reform. I also urge transfer of ordinary maintenance and repair of school buildings to School Committee jurisdiction, as recommended by the Commission and by the proposed new City Charter."

"This would allow priority setting by the users, provide quick response to emergencies, and prevent the deplorable extra costs of secondary

7-Week Art Festival At Church Here

"Man's Search for Meaning," a seven-week festival celebrating life through the arts, will open Sunday, October 3, at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre, with a showing of the film "The Parable" at 6:30.

The series will feature paintings, music, poetry, literature, film and live theater, with each exhibit, event, and performance focusing on man's quest for ultimate meaning through creative expression.

Several exhibits of paintings depicting the artists' interpretations of this search for meaning will be shown.

The first, by neighboring artists, will be on exhibit October 3 through October 20. The second, by young artists, may be viewed October 24 through November 3. The third, by selected professional artists, will be on display from November 4 through 21.

The art galleries will be open each evening there is a scheduled event, and will also be open for leisurely viewing between 2:00 and 4:30 every afternoon during each exhibit period.

Programs scheduled for the first three weeks of the festival are: "The Parable," on October 3 at 6:30 and on October 6 at 7:45. "The Parable" is an allegory set in a circus where a clown takes upon himself the burdens of others and brings about redemption and change.

On October 10 at 6:30, Arnold Kerseth, minister poet from Amherst, will read and discuss selected poetry.

On Sunday, October 17, at 6:30, Mrs. Virginia A. Tashjian, director of the Newton Free Library, will present a program on "Man's Search for Meaning through Modern Literature."

"Jewelled Windows," an illustrated lecture on stained glass by Orin E. Skinner, will be presented on Wednesday, October 20 at 7:45.

damage (e.g., floor and wall damage from unrepaid leaking roofs). It would enable citizens to know who is accountable for the physical condition of the school plant."

"At the same time, the Charter's recommended formula for determining how much money could be spent on repairs in any one year ensures that unusual expenses would need the additional approval of the Board of Aldermen and thus would remain under City government control."

In regard to the educational quality of the Newton schools, Mrs. Rosenblum considers the over-all level of both instruction and learning to be relatively high. "This has been clearly demonstrated in recent tests," she points out. Mrs. Rosenblum assigns top priority to the tasks of establishing an optimal climate for learning and of increasing the interaction between the schools and the community.

"I am very concerned about the climate for learning which is created in our schools. There is a well established body of knowledge concerning the ways in which children learn which we ought to take full advantage of. Probably no technique or organizational structure is as important in the learning process as the nature of the relationships among children and between children and adults."

"It is important that our schools encourage and set an example for cooperation and teach respect for differences. We must see to it that each child realizes and develops what is worthwhile about himself and learns to value others in the same way. Imparting academic knowledge and skills is the hallmark of good schooling which we all take for granted."

"The development of responsible human beings with concern for each other is

Mrs. Sydelle Gomberg, well known dancer and teacher of ballet, was recently appointed Northeast Regional Secretary for the Royal Academy of Dancing.

The Academy, founded in Great Britain in 1920 and granted a Royal Charter in 1936, was established as a means to raise the standard of teaching and now provides a single standard for instruction and examination in classical ballet for over 65,000 young dancers all over the world. Its president is Dame Margot Fonteyn of the Royal Ballet.

As Regional Secretary, Mrs. Gomberg will arrange for RAD examinations in the area and handle any inquiries concerning the Academy. Mrs. Gomberg is a teacher of both the RAD and Cecchetti methods, and is on the faculty of the All Newton Music School.

"Increased involvement of the community with the schools is vital. I support the continued expansion of work-study and other community study and service opportunities for students, use of community facilities in the school program and school facilities by the community; volunteer teacher aides; and citizen consultants on planning and review committees."

"It is my hope that increased interaction will not only benefit school programs but add to the understanding between the citizens of Newton and the schools."

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, Mrs. Rosenblum holds a master's degree in social work from Smith College. Her professional experience includes several years as a staff member of the Judge Baker Guidance Center, a children's mental health clinic in Boston.

She also worked for the Newton-Baker project, a joint research effort of the Judge Baker Clinic and the Newton schools, and was social work coordinator for the Meteo Program in Newton until June, 1969.

Mrs. Rosenblum has held many offices in her local PTA organizations and in the PTA Council, including the presidency of Carr School PTA and membership on the PTA Council School Buildings Committee.

Her many other volunteer activities have been in behalf of Temple Shalom of Newton, Newton Fair Housing, Cub Scouts, Newton-Wellesley

Harvey Alford A Candidate For Ward Two Alderman

Harvey Alford of 16 Commonwealth Park, Newton Centre, has announced his candidacy for the post of Ward Alderman in Ward 2.

Mr. Alford attended Newton High School and Suffolk University. Having lived in Newton for over 15 years, Mr. Alford has developed a definite philosophy towards the aims and methods of our city government.

On a point of particular interest to him he has said, "The homeowners of Newton are now threatened by a kind of economic confiscation of the equity that they have in their properties by a combination of ever-increasing taxes and threatened zoning variances and changes that would have a definite effect on the character of the city."

Mr. Alford feels that his business experience, which is as a Real Estate consultant and Appraiser, could be of particular benefit to the city of Newton at this time.

Mr. Alford is a member of the Newton Taxpayers association, a member of the executive board of the Newton Civic and Land Use Association, and a member of the board of the Mason-Rice PTA.

His service on the Newton Civic and Land Use Association in fighting the proposals of the NCDF has been a source of special satisfaction to him.

Anyone interested in discussing or helping in any way in Mr. Alford's campaign is eagerly invited to call him

Weston Mental Health Area Board, and the state and national alumnae associations of Smith College School for social work.

A resident of Newton for 18 years, Mrs. Rosenblum is the wife of Dr. Gershen Rosenblum, a Regional Administrator for the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health.

She has three children, Bruce, a 1971 graduate of Newton High, Murray Road Annex, who is a freshman at Yale University; Steven, a sophomore at Newton High; and Kathryn, a student at Day Junior High.

Funds-

More than $200,000 was allocated to the Public Works Department for street repair and sewer connections, but most of this will come back to the city through revolving funds. A $20,000 allocation from the general fund for sewer connections is funded by charges to individual homeowners, and by reimbursement from contractors building new schools.

Appropriations totaling $190,600 for the resurfacing of Ward and River Sts. will be paid back out of state and county funds after the work is completed. If the city does not make these repairs, money allocated for Newton streets by state and county governments will go back into the state treasury, Public Works Commissioner Willard Pratt told the aldermen.

The Purchasing Dept. requested a $300 appropriation and a $150 transfer of funds to cover the cost of mailing out invitations to bid. The City Solicitor's Department requested a $200 transfer of funds for mailing and office supplies. Part of the increases may be traced to an increase in postal rates.

The City Solicitor's office also was given some $2100 to pay small damage claims against the city. Learning that a $270 sideswipe accident involving a city vehicle may have been caused by lack of visibility of a turn signal, the aldermen instructed the Public Works Commissioner to ensure that all slow-moving city vehicles and trailers are equipped with clip-on flashers.

Bothered By School Committee Attendances

To the Editor:

I have never been able to understand the sparse attendance by taxpayers of School Committee meetings. They groan and grumble, but that is all. With the possible exception of the graduate schools in the area there must be more Ph.D.'s and other degrees per square foot than any other town in the state, but the way they stand by not even superficially watching their School Committee eat up tax money (without even beginning to produce the educational wonders the public relations boasts) they must be rated a prize bunch of educated dopes.

They can travel all over the state and nation to attend seminars and read papers, but to travel the mile or two to attend a School Committee meeting and see what is happening with their children's education and the tax money is beyond their capacities.

This neglect has already been very costly, for a good part of the waste could have been stopped if the community in general had shown itself aware and watching. Much as I have criticized the Committee in these past months I never had occasion to say they were unresponsive to expressed public interest.

But the public has to tell them what that interest is; it is an obligation, and a severe penalty has been incurred by failure to measure up to it. 55 percent to 60 percent of the entire cost of running the city is used up by this one committee; surely that rates a bit of overseeing (as does the Board of Alderman for the rest).

A new school year is beginning now; nothing can be done to retrieve the waste and loss that is past, but much can be accomplished in the way of improved and more efficient such especially popular sports as basketball, baseball, soccer, and swimming. They are even in the market for several coaches who they will pay very attractive salaries to and room and board.

If they don't, they will deserve what they get, and unless I miss my guess badly they will get it at an accelerated rate.

Enc'nter Group Workshop Slated

In response to the continuing interest in "learning about the human potential movement" the Academy of Physical and Social Department in Newton Center is sponsoring a repeat of this popular workshop.

Participants will have the opportunity of examining the process by studying, discussing and participating in small group interaction. They will be introduced to a variety of the techniques used in personal growth or human relations training groups.

Mila Hoffman, the facilitator, is a psychologist and child therapist and is currently engaged in human relations training and in facilitating personal growth groups. In addition she is associated with a research project which is now evaluating the impact of the new group techniques.

In what he suggested was a "novel approach", Matthews offered to provide the six units in existing two-family homes scattered around the city, as an alternative to a wing of low-income units at Victory Field.

The construction would be a "nice, classy building" that would "upgrade the neighborhood," Matthews pledged. Two-bedroom apartments would rent for $250 to $275 per month. Nonantum resident Albert Bibbo spoke in favor of the proposal.

Pointing out that only a few weeks ago Nonantum residents testified to the need for recreational space on Victory Field, Housing Committee Chairman McDonnell, who sat in on the Finance meeting, asked Bibbo why he was now supporting a proposal for apartments on the site.

Bibbo told the aldermen he would rather see a private developer build 25 units than to see the Housing Authority build four units and reserve the rest for a playground.

"If it's not for profit, they won't maintain the property. They'll be here today and gone tomorrow," alleged Bibbo.

Housing Authority Vice-chairman James Miller contradicted the allegation. "The Housing Authority is a good neighbor and a permanent neighbor," he replied. He called prior statements on the need for recreation space "self-serving", noting that they "disappeared" when the apartments in question were to be built by a private developer.

As for the quality of buildings proposed by developers Thursday night, Miller said, "You know what you get for $12,000 per unit." The Housing Authority under federal statutes is authorized to spend up to $15,750 for two-bedroom garden apartments of the type being planned by developers. In addition, the NHA would be able to build three, four, and five-bedroom apartments where necessary, with allocations ranging up to $20,500 per unit for garden apartments and $24,550 per family for one and two-family houses.

Alderman William Wolf declared, "For years we beat the Housing Authority over the head because they didn't do anything. Now they keep coming up with ideas, and we keep blocking them."

Developer Zegarelli presented plans for a 24 to 30 unit apartment, with three to six units being set aside for the Housing Authority. The height would be two-and-a-half stories, with the terrace apartments dropped three and a half feet below street level. Two-bedroom apartments, as in Matthews' proposal, would rent for $250-$275. The developer would spend $12,000 per unit on construction.

Nardone planned moderate-income ($215 for two bedrooms) apartments, of which six out of 27 would be donated to the Housing Authority. Planning to use government financing, Nardone offered $27,800 for the land. He would spend $14,000 per unit on construction.

Robert Tennant Is A Candidate For Alderman From Ward Three

Alderman Robert L. Tennant has announced his candidacy for re-election as Alderman - at-Large from Ward Three. Tennant cites his previous six years as alderman as the needed balance at City Hall in these controversial times. He is a local businessman, a fact which keeps him close to the problems of the city and available to his constituents.

Tennant has many years of experience in the real estate and insurance business, pointing out that his background is particularly valuable in considering urban renewal and real estate tax matters.

As a father of seven school-age children, Tennant is extremely interested in the advancement of the Newton school system's exercising controls to get the most educational benefits for Newton's children, while at the same time controlling the tax dollar.

A life-long citizen of Newton, Tennant attended the Newton schools and earned a B.A. degree at Staley College after attending the institution evenings for five years. He also completed advanced realty and insurance courses and is the sole owner of the R. L. Tennant Insurance Agency, Inc., of which he is President and Treasurer. His brokerage firm has been situated at 1149 Washington St. in West Newton for over 10 years.

A veteran of the United States Air Force, he spent two and one half years in the southwest Pacific combat Theater of Operations between 1942-1945.

Active in civic work, Tennant is a past Commander of Newton's American Legion Post No. 48. As a member of the Mayor's Advisory Board he has served in this capacity under Mayors Theodore Lockwood, Donald L. Gibbs, and presently under Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

He has also served as Treasurer of Clafin PTA in Newtonville, President of the PTA at the Peirce School in West Newton, Advanced Gifts Chairman of the United Fund, and as a Director and Vice-Chairman of the American Red Cross.

Tennant has been President of the Newton Kiwanis Club, and a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks serving on Newton Scholarship and United Nations Day Committees. For many years he was Treasurer of the Newton Central Little League.

Alderman Tennant presently is a member of the Civil Defense Board of the city, and the Executive Director of the Newton - Needham Chamber of Commerce. Also, he is on the Board of Directors of the Newton Boys Club and the Kiwanis Club of Newton.

Tennant serves as trustee of the First United Church of Newton. He is past master of Norumbega Lodge A.F. & A.M. of Newton and holds the 32nd degree. He is also a Shriner.

In his capacity at City Hall, Tennant, representing the citizens of Newton, served on Franchise and Licenses and on the Street Department and Traffic Commission. He is presently a member of City Planning and Finance Committees, and also a membership in the newly created Efficiency Committee.

The alderman is married to the former Margaret A. McAfee of Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Tennant reside with their seven children at 189 Mt. Vernon Street in West Newton.

Tennant stated that retaining his seat in City Hall for the next two years constitutes a great challenge with the problems at hand and those that are coming. His concerns do not only apply to the tax increases, drugs, elderly, housing, and youth of the city.

He feels that Newton is at the crossroads. The administration and efforts of the Board of Aldermen are not sufficient, according to Tennant; the many long hours of dedication by the Board and the great problems that we are faced with need the concentrated efforts of every citizen.

Tennant is concerned with the apathy of the voter and the need for the most qualified elected officials that can be placed in the aldermanic chambers.

School Board Candidates To Have "Night"

Newton Citizens for Education will hold a public School Committee candidates' night, Wednesday, October 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, Homer and Centre St., Newton Centre.

The meeting has been planned to be informal. Candidates will circulate among several small groups formed by the audience. Some questions have been prepared by the meeting committee, but the format allows the voter the best opportunity to raise his own issues as well.

Terrence C. Morris, Newtonville, meeting chairman, observed that there is only one uncontested seat in this election. There is also a greater range in age and outlook than usual.

The Forum, an NCE publication, will provide information to help acquaint the voters with the candidates also.

A candidate receiving two thirds vote of NCE membership will receive endorsement, according to NCE rules.

The public and all NCE members are invited to attend.

Named Notary Public

Robert S. Grodberg of 45 Alban road, Waban, has been reappointed as a Notary Public by Governor Sargent. Term of the appointment is for seven years.

states Mr. Tennant, "and his qualifications." "Above all vote on Election Day; the City is yours. It is your tax dollar that is being spent. Help your local government by your active concern. Keep Newton what it has been and hopefully will continue to be."

Mrs. William Michael Appel

Now making their home in Malden are Mr. and Mrs. William Michael Appel (Maureen Jane Parsons), whose marriage was solemnized recently at Chateau de Ville, Saugus.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Parsons of Revere and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Appel of 5 Dew road, Chestnut Hill, are the couple's parents.

Rabbi Benjamin Rudausky of Temple Sinai, Boston, officiated at the 5:30 o'clock nuptials service at which two rings were exchanged. A reception followed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off-white gown of silk organza and Alencon lace entraine. The empire bodice, laced with pearls, had a wedding band neckline, a sheer decolette and long sleeves.

Miss Ruth Monahan of Chelmsford was maid of honor, while Miss Frances Nardone of Charlestown and Mrs. Mary Lou Bonnie of Quincy were bridesmaids.

The best man was David Woodworth of Boston, Usher were Arnold Vinisch, William Alberg and Harvey Albert, all of Swampscott, and William Bonvie of Quincy.

The couple left on a trip to Nassau. The bride, a graduate of Suffolk University is now associated with the Massachusetts General Hospital in orthopedic research, as well as working for her master's in counseling at her alma mater.

South High Soccer Team Loses 3 League Contests

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Operating under new coach Mark Coven, and with a new goalie in the nets, Newton South High's soccer team has started its season with confusion.

Despite coming off the best mark in its history, South has dropped three consecutive Dual County League contests.

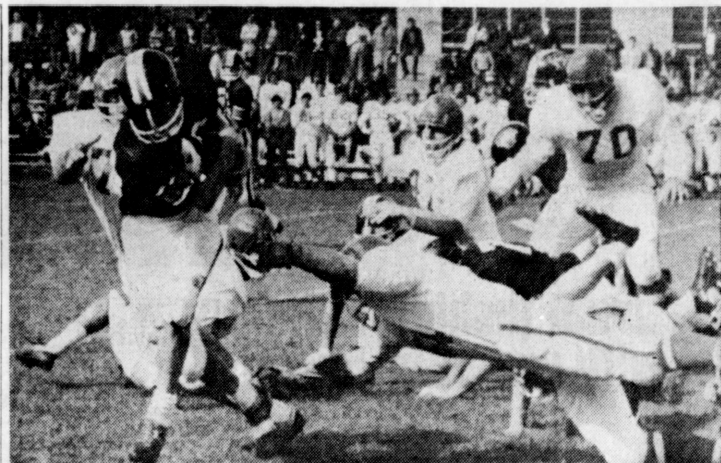

The Lions opened their season with a spirited, tense battle versus arch-rival Newton High. The Tigers, undefeated in 1970, have never been toppled by the Lions. Last week was the closest thing to an upset in the series. Newton High triumphed, 2-1, in double overtime, overcoming the superb goalkeeping of Gary Ross.

Lynnfield surprised the booters with an opening period barrage to build up a 3-0 lead. The cushion stood, though South sophomore Aris Bidianos put a scare into the Lynnfield defense, booming in a penalty kick and then coming back for a second goal on a scramble in front of the net.

The hosts tallied an insurance score in the fourth quarter to put the game away.

Powerpacked Lincoln-Sudbury unleashed its awesome offense, and trampled the Lions, 5-0, for its 24th straight league triumph. The defending champs steamrolled through the Lion defenses and recorded their second shut-out in two tries this fall. Ross was under constant bombardment and fielded ten shots cleanly, while his mates could only muster four offensive efforts.

The booters have Bedford, Weston and Wayland on the schedule this week.

CONNOLLY SCAMPERS FOR 5 YARDS—Robert Nolartomaso, No. 84, of Everett, hurtles along the ground in quest of Newton's Mark Connolly, No. 42, who reeled off about 5 yards in this ball-carrying bit. Everett's No. 70 is Joseph DiGeorge. Newton won by a 6-0 verdict.—Bob Grossman Photo

CHAMPS OF SUMMER BASKETBALL LEAGUE—The Alumnae beat Franchi Construction, 21 to 7 and 36 to 6, in the best of three game series to capture the first championship title of the new league. The Alumnae players posted a perfect season record—ten wins. The team was awarded its trophies by Recreation Commissioner, John R. Penney. Team members in photo, back row: John B. Penney, Newton Recreation Commissioner, Vera Annesse, Dale Ryan, Cris Gable. Front row: Cindy Gerity, Pat Fitzsimmons, Jo Pepper, Brenda Ryan. Gorfinkle and Carleo Lead Strong Cross-Country Team

By DAVID SOLOMON

There is a yearly rumor around Newton High School that Abner Bailey will retire. Bailey has taught for 48 years and during the past 13 has doubled as an able cross-country coach.

During these thirteen years of existence the NHS cross-country team has been consistently excellent. This can be emphasized when one realizes that last year's 7-2 record was the team's worst in eight years.

The harriers this year will be without the services of superstar Jay Sidman, who holds the course record at Newton and many other schools. With Sidman and six other seniors gone, this year's team will concentrate more on depth rather than depending on one runner's performance.

The crux of the team will be formed by senior co-captains Ken Gorfinkle and Bob Carleo and junior standout Peter Wrenn. These three runners should finish near the front in any other meet, and this is what the team is counting on.

"Carleo is the most improved runner from last year," stated Bailey. "He couldn't even break seventeen minutes when he first came out for the team two years ago and now he can run the course in under fourteen minutes."

Gorfinkle and Wrenn can both break fourteen minutes also, and almost all the pressure for success lies largely on these three boys. All of them are experienced and should be able to handle the emotional strain. Carleo and Gorfinkle are both in their third year of high school competition, and Wrenn, as a sophomore, is a newcomer from last year, is certainly accustomed to cross-country racing. Wrenn could well be the best runner on the team as he is a fine natural runner.

On September 23 the Tigers opened their season by capturing a 30-28 squeaker over Weymouth High North. The top five runners for each team count in the scoring, the total of where men placed on each team is kept, with the team with the lower score winning. Although Weymouth runners captured both first and second place, Newton, showing its great depth, finished runners in the 3rd, 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, and 9th places. Peter Wrenn finished third about 14 seconds behind the winner and Bob Carleo was next about four seconds back of Wrenn. Ralph Gott, Peter Grenoff, Don Ferguson and Jerry Gookkasson provided the middle strength which forced Weymouth to accept such high scores as ten and twelve. Ken Gorfinkle was unable to run because of a knee injury.

Co-captain Carleo felt the meet was "most encouraging. The team came through as a whole, and we should have a really strong team." Carleo emphasized that the key people in the race were Gott, Grenoff, Ferguson and Gookkasson. He termed the latter two as "pleasant surprises," since neither has ever run in high school competition before.

Gott, a sophomore, was last year's junior high champ, and junior Gookkasson is running for the first time. Ferguson is also a sophomore. The J.V.'s smashed Weymouth's J.V. with Paul Solotis finishing first, Bobby Gott second, and David Kingsley third.

The harriers have eight meets this season, with

Fishman In Switch Vote Aids Lottery

State Senator Irving Fishman of Newton cast a decisive vote to over-ride Governor Sargent's veto of the State Lottery bill.

Fishman, one of three Democratic senators who switched votes to provide the necessary two-thirds margin to overrule the Governor, said that he felt compelled to vote with fellow Democrats because the Governor "injected partisan politics" into the lottery issue.

Arlington and Brockton being the two powerhouse on the schedule. "Barring any serious injuries," commented co-captain Ken Gorfinkle, "we should have a good shot at Arlington and with a super effort we can get to Brockton."

In the Tigers' favor is that both these meets will take place on Newton's home course.

Coach Bailey commented on the necessity of overall depth. "We have to have boys to plug varsity holes. Should we get hit with injuries the way we were last year we don't want to be left without any replacements. Five boys must finish just to score in any meet and because of that a varsity squad of seven can be greatly handicapped by the loss of one or two men."

1965 Lions Were Newton South's Greatest Team

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

Newton South High had had a distinguished, if short, football history. Since the school opened in 1960 only two squads (1969, 1970) have suffered through losing seasons.

While most of the squads have been good or even very good, there is one that stands out as exceptional. The 1965 team is the best of them all.

The '65 group, coached by George Winkler, still football coach but now also Athletic Director, was solid from the beginning of practice in late August. Eight starters returned; there was a wealth of backup talent and a strong though small group of sophomores.

The Lions were big across the line, 190-pound average for the front seven or defense—fleet and powerful in the backfield. The Lions were ready.

South opened against Fitchburg and stomped the enemy into the ground, 27-6. Fullback captain John Passarini bulled for 110 yards and the defense, anchored by Art Levanthal, John Tagliente, Dave Sellinger, Ken Giles, All Chesaronne, Mike Clemens and Denis Slawsky, held Fitchburg to minus 25 yards rushing.

Passarini churned out 131 yards and the monster defense held its ground as South took its second in a row in the first week of October, 13-6 over Cambridge Latin.

The third contest was even closer. Despite halfback Joe Manfredi's 53-yard gallop on the first play from scrimmage and 105 more yards from Passarini, the score stood Newton South 12, Stoughton High 12, late in the fourth quarter.

But with the defense clawing people to death again, cool-headed quarterback Steve Parnell took over and guided the offense on a sustained march, culminating in a seven-yard sweep around end by Mike Nathanson for the winning touchdown. Final score: South 18, Stoughton 12.

The squad's fourth straight victory was a laugher, a 30-6 all-around team pulverization of Amesbury.

South almost had its streak snapped when it ran up against bruising Middlesex League opponent, Lexington. It took a last-minute two-point conversion effort by Parnell to keep the Lions unbeaten by one point, after Jose Compos had booted a 24-yard field goal to keep the game hopes alive.

The Leominster game was another tense battle. With the score tied 14-14 the Lions marched to the enemy one-yard line. And with the clock showing only 31 seconds left Parnell crashed over for the winning margin.

South never looked better in winning its seventh consecutive start against Rindge Tech, 28-0. Passarini sped across for two touchdowns and the defense was super-human.

Unbeaten in seven tries and leading Class B the Lions then crashed into a huge Class A Revere team with a man-eating defense. The Revere front four, averaging nearly 220 pounds, forced six South fumbles and held on for a 14-6 victory.

Angry rather than simply disheartened for the loss of a perfect season the Lions rebounded to smash Hingham, 35-0 on Thanksgiving Day. Passarini banged out 76 yards. He finished the season with a school-record 811 yards gained rushing and was all-state.

South ended its season 8-1 groups and also participated and fourth-ranked in Class B, the highest finish ever by a Newton South club.

Many of the members of the 1965 team went on to college football careers. Passarini ended up as a starting fullback for the University of Connecticut. Parnell was an outstanding defensive back for the University of Massachusetts. As a senior he led New England in kick-off returns and was named Unsung Player of the Year for the six-state region. He was also drafted by the pro Atlanta Falcons. Frank Rezzutti was a back-up quarterback at Boston University. Dave Sellinger continued playing tackle for Harvard. Steve Cooper went on to bigger stardom in basketball.

tire repairs, etc., but major repairs and body work must be contracted out at public bid, according to Quinn.

In arguing for the appropriation, Chief Quinn pointed out that repair bills were bound to go up in the second half of the year, because the cars were older, and warned, "We haven't even come into the bad-weather season yet."

One part of the Police Department request was to cover the maintenance of office equipment, including a photocopy machine, typewriters, postage machine, time recorder, and videotape machine.

In answer to a question by the aldermen, Quinn explained

This past week I received the following letter from the White House.

Dear Mr. Eldridge:

The President has requested me to thank you for the information concerning the tremendous growth of youth soccer activity in the Boston area. We share your enthusiasm over this development, and we also look forward to the time when the United States achieves parity in world soccer circles.

Please extend our congratulations to those persons who have contributed to the Boston Area Youth Soccer League and to other similar organizations in the area.

I believe that this a great boost to youth Soccer, not only in the Boston area, but all over the country. The people to be congratulated are many, among them the leagues besides the BAYS are C.Y.O. and Pioneer Valley. There are also town leagues like the ones in Foxboro, Wellesley and Needham.

I would like to add my congratulations along with the President's and Astronaut Lovell's to all the men and women who make these leagues possible for the boys to play this great sport. Keep up the great work.

Newton Centre Hut Bowling League Starts New Season

The Newton Centre "Hut" Bowling League rolled off to a successful start in their inaugural campaign last Saturday at Riverside Lanes.

The League is run under the co-operation of the Newton Recreation Department, Jim Murphy, Supervisor, and the Riverside Lanes of Newton.

The Hut League features a seven-team weekly playoff, including regular individual matches. This week's individual play saw several surprising results.

Heading a list of upsets is Brian Cutrone edging Steve Pozzi. Neal Levitan blasted Alan Freedman, Doug Pepper upset Peter Hite, Rookie Steve Pesky nipped the Veteran Nick Siciliano, and in the big upset of the afternoon Andy Linn conquered Mike McClory.

In other matches Dave Fishman pulled out a last box victory over J.C. Ethier, Henry Tallac squeezed by Harold Sternberg, and Chief Worden came back to beat Frank Gable. Brian McDonald drubbed Pete Medoff, Saul Rubin overcame Ray Ethier and Malcolm MacMillan tallied a victory over Brian McNulty.

This week's team play saw the Giants jump out to a powerful start of 1,418 featuring Gables' high 115. The Vikings captured second, knocking down 1,357 and Siciliano's Chargers finished opening week activities with a solid third place score of 1,350.

The League will run for 15 weeks and as Howard Cosell said, "Who in the ultimate will be dominant remains to be determined."

The League is under the capable direction of Nickles Siciliano and he is assisted by Bob Worden and Steve Pozzi.

Dr. Beck Is A Candidate For School Committeeman

Dr. Joseph F. Beck of 33 Huntington Road has announced his candidacy for School Committeeman from Ward 7. Dr. Beck, a well-known educator and practicing dentist, offers a remarkable background of professional qualifications for service in that office.

Dr. Beck was a college student in Poland at the time of the Nazi invasion. He then saw the dangers of dogmatism and indoctrination at work. After World War II he completed his studies at the University of Breslau. In the United States, Dr. Beck studied Psychology in the Graduate Schools of Boston University and the University of Omaha, receiving his M.A. in Psychology and Education.

After studying medicine at the University of Nebraska, he transferred to Harvard School of Dental Medicine. In 1958 Harvard University awarded him the D.M.D. degree. Dr. Beck is now on the Faculty of Tufts University Graduate School of Dental Medicine while he maintains a practice in Newton.

For 8 years he taught or served as principal in Hebrew elementary and high school education in the Detroit area.

During that period he completed and published a study on the Interrelation of Secular and religious education. Dr. Beck's wife, Rosamond, is on the secretarial staff of Boston College. They have 3 children in the Newton schools: Jerry, Grade 4, at the Ward school; Judy, grade 7, at Bigelow Junior High; and Bruce, a Senior at Newton High School.

Dr. Beck says that Newton requires a school committee which questions and criticizes. Only thus can Newton preserve the highest educational standards and secure the most effective use of school tax dollars.

Newton's educational quality must be maintained for the welfare of our children and to preserve our investment in the community. No special qualifications are needed to see the physical differences between school buildings in various sections of Newton. Every child in Newton is not receiving an adequate or equal education. Parents throughout Newton demand more consideration for the average child. The highest educational opportunity is due every Newton child; equally to the brightest, the average, and least endowed child.

Programs should improve the condition of the emotionally handicapped, including those distressed through the use of narcotics. Good educational programming includes training in discipline. School children should not be pushed to decision-making beyond their level of maturity in judgement.

Discipline is essential in educational advancement and in preparation for adult life. The School Committee must be the guardian of the public interest in overseeing the school system and its administration.

A halt must be called to unwarranted increases in the crushing Newton tax burden. Every item in the school budget should be examined and re-examined to verify its educational value. A new emphasis must be placed on the importance of the costs involved in each educational program.

Dr. Beck, as your School Committeeman, pledges himself to be available to all concerned taxpayers, parents, teachers, and students. He shares with teachers in the Newton system concern over educational experimentation without proper evaluation of student performance.

He believes in a healthy, vigorous, progressive system, which is kept sound by critical, independent evaluations. He believes in a clear leadership by the School Committee so that teachers and administrators can do their best by our children.

Panel-

President Kravitz emphasized that, "Since the Mayor sits ex-officio on the School Board, this meeting will offer to the citizens of our city the chance to explore the views of the candidates depth and to gauge their commitment for quality education for our youth."

The community at large is encouraged to attend and participate in the question and answer period which will follow introductory statements by each candidate. Mr. John Webber, President of the Day Junior High School PTPA is coordinating arrangements for this meeting and President Kravitz will moderate.

Also continuing its tradition of service to the community, the Executive Board voted to again bring the views of the candidates for School Committee to the community and present a series of School Committee Candidates' Nights in the five Junior High Schools and a presentation on the various provisions of the proposed Charter revisions.

The League of Women Voters will be co-sponsoring this event with the Council. Therefore, the League will not be presenting School Committee candidates at their Annual candidates night which will be held this year on October 26th at Newton South High School.

Mr. Kravitz, in his opening remarks to the Council membership stated that, "Newton is fortunate to have a deeply ingrained commitment to education. Add to this highly dedicated and motivated staff of professionals, mix well with students, and the end result sprawls in your home — of tentacles a little yeasty, but still your son or daughter."

Further he noted, "Education will cost Newton citizens almost 22 million dollars this year, approximately 1200 dollars per student. Some of its buildings are now antiquated and in disrepair, for it is far more expedient to repair the pressing needs, and hope the unseen remain hidden. . . . It behooves the PTAs and their Council to see that the funds for education are effectively spent. Long range goals must be determined — politically debated — and then implemented. Our city contains a vast expertise of professionals and businessmen whose efforts — if given impetus and direction — can go far in enhancing the 'quality of life' in our community. We can be an effective voice supporting the educational needs of Newton in the forums of government and among its sorely pressed taxpayers."

The Council feels that the candidates for Mayor and School Committee in particular should be scrutinized not only by school parents, but by all taxpayers, to make more responsible decisions in their role as members of a participatory democracy. Formats for both Council candidates' nights will be as simple as possible to offer the citizens of Newton this opportunity.

The School Committee Candidates Nights being co-sponsored with the League are scheduled as follows: 7:45, October 18th — Day Jr. High; October 20 — Weeks Jr. High; October 21 — Meadowbrook Jr. High; October 27 — Warren Jr. High, and October 28 — Bigelow Jr. High.

Harrington Seeks Return To Alderman-at-Large Spot

Peter F. Harrington, Alderman-at-Large, Ward 2, has announced his intention to seek re-election. Commenting on his first term in elective office Harrington said, "I have enjoyed serving and I hope the voters will re-elect me!"

The committee was designed to study Board practices and procedures in an attempt to shorten Aldermanic Meetings, which had been running between 1 and 2 a.m. As a result of the Committee's suggested changes, Aldermanic Meetings are now ending about two hours earlier.

Harrington also serves as a Member of the Land Use, Public Works, and Street Traffic Committees. He has been appointed to such special committees as Housing, Voting Machine and Environmental Study.

In addition to his active committee work, Alderman Harrington has filed more resolutions and ordinance proposals than any other alderman.

His proposals include an Anti-Noise ordinance (passed), Anti-Water Pollution ordinance (passed), recommended ice skating safety standards (referred to Recreation Commission), ordinance to License Auto Mechanics (denied), ban on installation of Christmas Light over City Streets before Thanksgiving (passed — vetoed by Mayor), and several others.

In announcing his candidacy, Alderman Harrington spoke to the following issues:

"First and foremost is the questions of rising taxes; their increase parallels and recent increases in inefficiency at Newton City Hall; a haphazard approach to efficiency oriented employee motivation programs and suggestions, and an unbalanced approach to Municipal spending economics."

"Second is the question of taxes and their relationship to visible Municipal services used by taxpayers. I believe that we should get greater recreation use for our tax dollar — for instance, lights for evening use of tennis courts, lighted parking lots for evening use by young people, improvement of our parks and playgrounds to provide courts for bocce, badminton, horse shoes, and lights and benches for evening use."

"Third is the question of housing for low-income families. I believe that we who can afford to live in Newton have a moral obligation to build some of these units. The question is: where; when; and how many units. N.C.D.F. was a failure and in failing rent this City in two. Hopefully, recent Aldermanic Board action following the recommendation of the Housing Committee to build small numbers (4) of units on different sites throughout the City will be a reasonable beginning."

"Fourth is the proposed new Newton City Charter. I served as a member of the Charter Commission and I find the proposed charter to be a blend of conservative, liberal, traditional, and modern ideas concerning Municipal government. I do not agree with every provision of the charter, but in balance I think it will serve our city well for many years in the future. It modernizes the power of the Board of Aldermen; it gives control of schools to the School Committee and puts an end to political buckpassing on the question of school repairs. It gives the Mayor the power of Departmental Re-Organization; it creates the office of a Citizen Assistance Officer to provide the public with a voice at City Hall; and it provides preliminary elections in October."

PETER F. HARRINGTON

Alderman Harrington, a West Newton Attorney, and his wife, Joan, are the parents of four children and reside at 127 Lowell Avenue, Newtonville. Harrington has been active at Our Lady Help of

Sarge Victim of Bad Advice In Port Authority Conflict

The surprising clash between Governor Sargent and his own appointees on the Massachusetts Port Authority apparently stems from a misunderstanding resulting from the refusal of some of the Governor's advisers to listen to Authority members who actually are friendly to Mr. Sargent, not hostile to him.

Members of the Port Authority, when questioned by the writer, declared they are prepared to do anything the Governor asks them to do which makes sense and is legal. They added that they don't feel they can do things which are illegal and don't make sense.

As far as this observer can ascertain, the weight of the logic is on the side of the Port Authority, not the Governor.

Governor Sargent has requested the Port Authority members to do three things at which the agency's members are balking.

1. He has asked the Port Authority not to use the tolls from the Mystic River Bridge. Authority members reply that they are required by law to use the tolls. They say they must spend about $20 million in the next three or four years to rebuild the entire upper deck of the bridge.

2. The Governor wants the Port Authority to put aside $1 million a year for various community projects to atone for the noise nuisance created by planes landing at and taking off from Logan Airport. Port Authority members say they can't legally do that, and again they appear to be right.

The trouble here seems to be that Governor Sargent made a speech last July asking for a community assistance program from the Mystic River Bridge Tolls and did not check in advance to ascertain whether what he was asking was legally possible.

3. Governor Sargent has requested the Port Authority to support a bill which would shift a major part of the operational control of the Logan Airport from the Authority to the Secretary of Transportation in the Governor's Cabinet.

Port Authority members say the issue involved in this proposal is whether more of the operation of the airport should be moved back into the field of politics. Exactly why the Governor wants this done is not clear except that certain of his advisers apparently have convinced him his office should have a greater voice in the operation of the airport. That could prove an unwise move.

If Boston is to maintain its place as a major city, it must have a major airport which must be located in close proximity to the downtown area, not in Cape Cod or in the Berkshires.

During the past 10 years the Port Authority has spent $200 million on the reconstruction and improvement of the Airport. Some of those improvements were made over the objections of politicians and East Boston residents.

This department would offer the opinion that Port Authority Chairman John L. Thompson, who at this time a year ago was working vigorously for Governor Sargent's election, has done a good job and that the conflict between the Governor and the Authority stems principally from some poor advice Mr. Sargent has received.

Cadwell Is Candidate In Campaign For Alderman

Cecil W. Cadwell, 25 Hunnewell Avenue, Newton, has announced that he is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large, Ward 1.

Mr. Cadwell points out that he helped establish the Hunnewell Hill Civic Association three years ago and has since been active in working in its behalf. He has been a director of the organization and currently serves as vice-president.

He is also a member of the Newton Corner Advisory Group, an organization formed to discuss area problems with city officials. As chairman of the group's traffic committee, Cadwell has been working with representatives of the city's traffic commission to help solve the serious pedestrian and vehicular traffic problems in Newton Corner.

Cadwell noted in his statement, "I have been concerned for some time with land use in Newton. Because of our desirable location and substantial public transportation, the city can expect considerably more pressure for increased development of many types in the next decade. The problem that the board of Aldermen is facing and must solve will be to locate zoned land that is suitable, economically feasible and lacking in environmental deficiencies."

BU Grad Joins Bowdoin Faculty

Wendy (Phillips) Wolfson, daughter of the late Benjamin G. Phillips of Newton, and Mrs. Samuel Elkins of Brookline, has been appointed to the faculty of Bowdoin College's Department of Sociology for the 1971-72 academic year.

A 1963 graduate of Newton North High School, she graduated cum laude from Boston University in 1967, received an M.A. in criminology with distinction from the University of Pennsylvania in 1968, has completed course work toward a Ph.D. there, and is presently working on her doctoral dissertation.

She has taught at the University of Pennsylvania and has been guest lecturer at the University of California at Berkeley.

She has served as Research Associate and consultant to the National Council of Crime and Delinquency Research Center in Davis, Calif., where she directed the International Comparative Study of Prison Communities and the State of Illinois' survey of prison populations.

Recently she helped develop the "Social Headstart" project - a proposal investigating the relationship between school environments and deviant behavior, which will be based in some New England communities.

Mrs. Wolfson has acted as a consultant to Analytics Inc., and Computer Systems Resources to develop information-storage-retrieval systems; and as a research analyst at the Human Resource Center, where she redesigned an urban police system under a Model Cities Grant. She has published an article on "The Village System of Policing."

This past spring, Mrs. Wolfson served as consultant to the Diocesan Bureau of Human Relations Services in Portland, where she designed and directed the evaluation of a Model Cities Education Project.

Mrs. Wolfson is a member of the American Sociological Association, Eastern Sociological Society, Maine Sociological Society, and Pennsylvania Prison Society. She is married to Stanley L. Wolfson of Falmouth Foreside, Maine.

CECIL W. CADWELL

"Proper legislation (Food Plain Zone) and carefully planned zoning techniques such as cluster and planned unit development can help accomplish these goals while still retaining the residential character of our city. Attractive financing vehicles such as the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) will assure that much of the new housing will be subsidized and become available to people of all income levels," he said.

While offering no quick and easy solutions to the city's constantly increasing tax rate, Cadwell noted his concern, particularly for tax relief for the elderly and those on fixed incomes. "It is on these people," he stated, "that the heaviest burden of taxation falls."

Part of the solution to continually rising real estate taxes is expansion of the tax base. "This is far easier said than accomplished; however, since Newton lacks adequate open areas for commercial and industrial development, zoning changes made to attract new taxable industry must only be made without changing the residential nature of the city. "The major relief to the city from burdensome taxes eventually must come from the state," said Cadwell.

Mr. Cadwell feels that his business experience as a financial consultant will be a contribution to the Board of Aldermen and he will attempt to increase the efficiency with which city services are provided. He believes that each new program undertaken by the city should have all of its financial aspects fully understood before it is endorsed, while constantly being alert to more efficient of economical means of implementing programs.

Cadwell also stressed the fact that all voters in the city, regardless of ward designation, can vote for all Alderman-at-Large candidates. He invites any voter the opportunity to discuss any issue personally with him by calling him at his home, 244-9578.

Mr. Cadwell was graduated Cum Laude from Michigan State University with a B.A. degree and holds an M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania. He is President of the Eastern Insurance Agency in Boston and a partner in Eastern Associates, a financial consulting firm. In addition to his activities in the Hunnewell Hill Civic Association and Newton Corner Study Group, Cadwell is Chairman of the Safety Committee for the Underwood School PTA.

He is married to the former Janice Behrman and their three children, Andrea 11, Leslie 9 and Billy 6 attend the Newton public schools.

Man Shot In Locked Car

Newton Police are checking out fingerprints found on the exterior of the car in which John S. Flaherty, 31, of 132 Arlington road, Watertown, was found dead at 1:05 a.m. last Sunday. Flaherty had been shot four times in the head, behind the left ear, in a manner reminiscent of a gangland killing, police said. Flaherty's car was parked near the delivery entrance of the Waban Wine Shop, where Flaherty had been employed part-time since 1966 and full-time since 1968. The car was locked from the inside, and the window on the driver's side was lowered eight to ten inches, with Flaherty slumped over the steering wheel, when police discovered the crime.

Ballistics experts believe that Flaherty was killed with a .38 Colt revolver. Although Flaherty was a physical culturist who had applied to be a police officer, there was no sign of a struggle. "Someone must have put a gun on him right away," stated one officer involved in the investigation.

If our hopes and affections are spiritual, they come from above, not from beneath, and they bear as of old the fruits of the Spirit."

NFH Blasts Mayor's OK Of Fill Plan

Newton Fair Housing, a citizens' committee which seeks low and middle-income housing, has expressed "outrage" over Mayor Basbas' "unequivocal support" of the Riverside Associates' plan to fill two acres of the Charles River for a garage and office building.

Citing the City's "painfully slow" progress in finding room for low-income housing, the Fair Housing Committee's Chairman, Stephen Shugrue, noted that "alleged lack of recreational areas has consistently been an excuse for forgetting about the housing needs for low-income families."

"And now," Mr. Shugrue added, "the Mayor and Mr. Gilligan (of Riverside Associates) tell us it's o.k. to turn the MDC's Riverside Park into a parking lot and office building. The Riverside Park contains paths, a beautiful tree-lined overlook of the Charles, and a potential canoe launching area."

"It's the same story all over again. No room for low and middle-income housing, but room for the Marriott Motel; no room for the poor to live, but room for a new Nonantum Legion Post; no room for the Housing Authority, but room for the Riverside Associates' garage."

"Needless to say, people in Fair Housing are getting somewhat cynical about those who have opposed housing allegedly for ecological reasons and who now seem to be silent. We'll be interested in seeing if they oppose the

Charter Commission Plans Public Education Sessions

Candidates for office in Newton will receive a briefing on the proposed City Charter Thursday, Sept. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria in City Hall.

In addition, Newton residents who want information about the proposed Charter may call or come to City Hall any Friday afternoon in October from 1-3 p.m. Mrs. Florence Rubin, Chairman of the Newton Charter Commission, will be in the Charter Commission office in Room 202 during those hours. Appointments may be arranged for other times by calling 969-2647 any evening until 9 p.m.

The proposed Charter is the culmination of ten months of study and deliberation by a nine-member commission elected by the voters for this purpose in November, 1969.

The Final Report of the Charter Commission retains the basic form of government under which the City has functioned for many years, but increases the Mayor's term from 2 to 4 years and limits School Committee members to four consecutive two-year terms.

New provisions include preliminary elections to Riverside plan as vehemently as they have opposed the plans for low and middle-income housing. The housing plans have certainly been less harmful to the ecology of the City than filling in two acres of the Charles River."

The sex teacher

Everybody ought to know about sex, especially adults. It is connected with the dearest events and associations of our lives, and especially with happiness or unhappiness. Whether knowledge of the subject should be imparted in schools is a matter under continuing debate.

Assuming that the course is to be given, some questions may arise in the minds of those not familiar with current pedagogical procedures.

Consider the qualifications of the teacher.

Should he or she be somebody who has been around, or some young person who starts even with the class and the textbook?

Experience counts in the academic world and is reflected in the size of the paychecks. Should the teacher win extra credits by going, say, to Summer school?

The history professor often cites specific events to illustrate his theses. Should the sex teacher ever enliven his lectures with anecdotes beginning, "I remember one time..."?

Should the school committee pay any attention to the teaching applicant who writes, "I have just returned from a stay in Denmark and I have some new insights..."?

A parent, one might think, would hate to have his child taught the facts of life by some amateur who's going by hearsay.

And how is the teacher going to evaluate the students? "Shows promise"? "Eager learner"? "Sleeps in class"? "Can't miss"?

Admittedly, this is serious business. But frivolous thoughts, like gleams in the eye, occur unbidden.

employees, with adjustments retroactive to early May for the Department Heads and for those collective bargaining units whose agreements call for early May as the effective date of the pay increases.

"The President's wage and price freeze has complicated this procedure somewhat. Although we are informed by his Honor the Mayor that all collective bargaining agreements for this fiscal year were completed prior to the "freeze" date of August 15th, the request for appropriation are temporarily unemployed - do not enjoy the opportunity of having their incomes increased automatically in step with the cost - of - living index.

"A ruling was sought by the City Solicitor from the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness regarding the pay increases included in this Supplementary Budget. The letter dated September 20, 1971 from the Regional Director of OEP, states that if negotiations were in process but appropriations were not completed then the wage increases may be paid retroactively up to but not including the freeze period.

"The Finance Committee, and I am sure the other members of this Board as well, feels that it is most important to support the philosophy of the President's wage - price freeze, so that the inflationary psychology that has been prevalent and has caused a spiraling increase of both wages and prices in our economy over the past half - dozen years can be abated.

"We intend to exert every reasonable effort to avoid the escalatory actions and reactions in wages and salaries of our employees in the future, because we fully realize that most of our taxpayers - those on salary in private companies, the small businessman, and particularly the many who are temporarily unemployed - do not enjoy the opportunity of having their incomes increased automatically in step with the cost - of - living index.

"However, the Mayor and this Board of Aldermen have a responsibility to maintain a fair schedule of wages and department and from job to salaries from department to job within the ranks of all our City employees, except for the School Department. Although many of us might prefer to hold fast to the present wage and salary line, in keeping with the President's wage freeze, we realize that to do so would create inequities in our wage and salary structure, simply because some of our employees received their increases and others did not before the freeze was applied. It should be noted that the OEP and the Cost of Living Council recognize the validity of this problem by issuing the special policy guideline (Reference 4.1605, September 13, 1971) that permits us to make some retroactive payment to resolve in part the inequity," the report concluded.

Board Cuts Longevity Pay In New City Hall Contract

Controversy erupted following a five-hour executive session of the Board of Aldermen Monday night, over whether the aldermen had the right to alter the contract negotiated between the Mayor and city hall employees.

The controversy concerned the deletion of $2200 worth of increases to be paid to people at the top of the salary scale, in each civil service grade.

Alderman Michael Antonellis criticized the aldermen for "Departing from precedent in interfering with a negotiated contract," in deleting the raises.

Alderman Edward Uehlein predicted that the change "will cause more trouble than the small $2200 ($100 each for 22 employees) is worth," and added that the city hall clerks are sincere, steady, and hardworking, and deserve the increment. The city hall clerks have gotten the lowest compounded wage increase through the years, Uehlein said — 35 per cent since 1968, as against 40 per cent for engineers, laborers, police and firemen, and approximately 55 per cent for police captains and fire deputies.

Acting Finance Committee Chairman Louis I. Egelson predicted that the increase would "have an impact on other salary negotiations and would result in onerous and costly requirements for the taxpayer."

Stating that he did not object to the philosophy of longevity payments, Egelson criticized the increment as not being a genuine longevity increment. "Someone could move to the maximum in one year and receive this increase," he stated.

The city hall employees are divided into 20 civil service grades, Egelson explained. Salaries in each grade are increased one "step" each year to a maximum salary in the fifth year.

Egelson stated that the mayor may appoint people to start at any point on the five-step scale for their civil service grade.

The idea of the present contract is to create an incentive to remain in the job by increasing the differential between the fourth and fifth step.

The new contract calls for an increase of $4 per week ($208 per year) in the lower grades, $5 per week in the middle grades of civil service, and $6 per week in the highest grades. This means, according to Egelson, a salary jump of $700 to $800 instead of $200 to

Egelson wants to have this part of the contract renegotiated so that the longevity increase comes after five years' service at the maximum salary in a grade.

Egelson states that under the present contract, someone who is initially appointed to the third or fourth step on the scale would have to wait only one or two years to get his longevity increase.

Under Egelson's proposal, people appointed to begin at the first step on the scale would have to work ten years at the same civil service grade to be eligible for the increase.

Because he felt the contract would set a "dangerous precedent," Egelson declared himself willing to "take the risk" that City Hall Associates, the union of city hall clerks, would demand renegotiation of the entire contract.

Aldermen Peter Harrington termed the deletion of increase an "eleventh-hour move." City employees, he declared have been "mistreated" in bargaining contracts over the years, and even had to threaten a lawsuit against the city to get a signed contract (instead of an oral agreement).

The increase, he said, would be "significant to those who would receive it," because they are the less well-paid members of the city staff.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle countered that the increments under discussion were not going to secretaries and other low-paid officials.

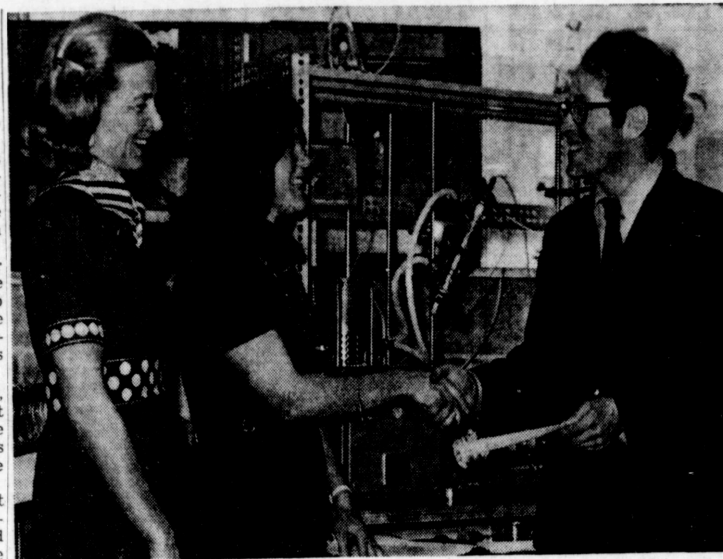

Alderman Harry Walen contended that no breach of faith was involved. "A contract is valid only when approved, and money appropriated by the Board of Aldermen," he asserted.

Voting to restore the longevity payment were Aldermen Michael Antonellis, Elliot Cohen, Peter Harrington, Andrew Magni, Robert Tennant, and Edward Uehlein.

Voting to delete it were Aldermen Adelaide Ball, Richard Bullwinkle, William Carmen, Harry Crosby, Ernest Dietz, Louis Egelson, Matthew Jefferson, Michael Lipof, Joseph McDonnell, Jason Sacks, Sidney Small, Harry Walen, and President Wendell Bauckman.

Guzzi Urges Voluntary School Planning Boards

Representative Paul GuzziHouse. Guzzi believes that planning, communication, and research are imperative "in order to move intelligently into this most complicated and sensitive area." He feels that the central concern of most parents, both white and non-white, is to improve the quality of education in all schools throughout the state.

"Busing is, and can be, only a means to an end; that end is quality education for all our children," he said. Guzzi noted the potential impact of the recent California Supreme Court decision regarding the financing of education. "I tend to agree that the use of local property taxes as the major source of funding for public education is discriminatory if such funding results in a 'poor' community spending less per pupil than a 'rich' community, thereby leading to inferior education. Equality of educational opportunity and spending directly related to a child's learning would hopefully be the result of a more uniform and equitable system of financing our schools."

Guzzi expressed hope that the tax burden on local property owners would be eased if a different source were used to finance education. He would, however, like to see each community have the option to raise additional revenues for education if they so desired.

Representative Guzzi also urged the State Commissioner to establish more objective criteria by which to "measure" the educational achievements of schools throughout the state. Based on these criteria a more flexible approach would be possible in defining and possibly exempting certain schools from the Racial Imbalance Law. Also, funds could be more effectively used in those schools and systems which most needed additional resources.

Sacred Heart Will Expand Physical Science Program

Expansion of services to principals, coordinators of schools involved in new physical science programs is one of the newest aspects of the plans of a group of well-known physical scientists dedicated to revising and revitalizing the science curriculum for secondary schools and colleges.

The group, formerly part of Education Development Center, moved this summer into the Barry Science Pavilion at Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Newton.

A close association with the college is also part of the group's plans though operational funds for the development of educational materials come primarily from the National Science Foundation.

"We recognize the fact that implementation must be part of any innovative program in education. Materials are ineffective if teachers don't know how to deal with them," said Dr. Uri Haber-Schaim, director of the Physical Science Group at Newton College.

"Innovation has been the primary focus of our concentration for the past 15 years. Testing, evaluation and teacher training have always been recognized and dealt with. But the training of large numbers of teachers and the continuous intersection with teachers in the field who are involved in new programs has not been given sufficient emphasis," he added.

"There is also the question of working with other school personnel who are concerned with decision making. This would include such people as

8-Item Docket Provides Busy Evening For Board

At a meeting of the Newton School Committee Monday night, a variety of actions were taken. The members, at a three-hour session in the Administration Building on Watertown st., dispensed with a total of eight items on their docket.

The most important action voted on by the Committee was the authorization to implement a program for educating five mentally retarded Newton children at the Peabody School. The program will probably begin next week, or "as soon as a teacher is found," according to James Hinkle, Secretary to the School Committee.

The city had previously been supporting four retarded children at the Peter Philip Day Care Center in Framingham and one in a similar institution in Westwood. The high cost of tuition payments had led to a study of the matter by Dr. John M. Cullinane, Director of Pupil Personnel Services and Special Education.

At the same time, the School Committee was informed by City Solicitor Melvin Dangel that the payment of tuition to a private school was illegal.

Dr. Cullinane had drawn up a detailed list of the costs of supporting the five Newton youngsters at both the Framingham Center and the Peabody School since 50 per cent of both the transportation and instructional payments will be reimbursed by the State, the net cost to Newton for the Peabody plan will be $9,072, only $1864 more than the continuation of the program at the out-of-town day care center.

It was further noted that additional children in the program will make it less costly than it is now, even though the instructional staff will not be increased.

Dr. Cullinane's report showed that the parents of the children preferred to have them educated in Newton. It was also pointed out that the town is legally obligated to provide the needed teaching. Said Alvin Mandell, Committee member from Ward 8: "We have to provide training under Massachusetts laws."

Earlier in the evening, the minutes and allocated expenditures of the Sept. 13 meeting were approved in quick succession.

Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink read a list of communications to the members. John B. Penney, Newton Recreation Commissioner, requested the transfer of an unused lot at the corner of Beacon and Beethoven sts., from the School Department to the Park Commissioners, for the use as a playground. This matter was tabled until the next meeting.

The only real controversy of the evening arose over the construction of an annex at the Underwood School. Mr. Fink had a letter from Alderman Ernest F. Dietz which proposed that the School Committee meet Oct. 7 with Charles R. Herbert, Commissioner of the Building Department, to approve the design of the addition.

Calling the affair a "mockery," Mrs. Eleanor S. Rosenblum, Ward 2 Committee member, charged that the School Committee had been left out of the decision-making entirely.

In agreement was another member, Richard M. Douglas of Ward 3, who stated: "We've been excluded from knowing about the Underwood Annex. The School Committee will be the last to know (of the final design)."

A design review committee had been set up to follow the architect's plans. School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith termed this group "expedient," but member Edwin Hawkrig of Ward 5 was fearful of "rubber-stamping" the plans at the Oct. 7 meeting without first having a chance to peruse them. "We should study the report first," he said.

Mrs. Rosenblum called the whole situation "insulting; I feel strongly about it." Mr. Mandell stated that "procedural recommendations should be implemented."

To mollify the ruffled members, Chairman Beckwith proposed a motion to accept Alderman Dietz's request for meeting next week, but to ask that the architect, also be present to display a detailed plan for the Underwood School Annex. The School Committee would then have a chance to study the entire project, and funding would be postponed pending full approval. Mr. Beckwith's motion was seconded and approved unanimously.

Appointments of new teachers and administrative help, and the resignations and transfers of current employees were all approved by the Committee members, with the exception of the coaching appointments to Newton High School for the fall season.

Theodore M. Gilmore, Assistant Director of Schools for Business Services, issued a progress report on maintenance being done on all the city's schools. There were no major renovations needed, and the only large maintenance delay listed was the installation of carpeting in four of the schools.

Mr. Douglas and Mrs. Rosenblum questioned what they felt to be an inordinate length of time to complete the carpeting. Mr. Gilmore referred to "paper delays in processing," and the desire to do the installation simultaneously in all four schools. Chairman Beckwith instructed Secretary Hinkle to report on the delays.

The last item on the docket was a report on the school summer programs by Henry H. Atkins, Director of Instructional Programs, and Harold W. Beattie, District Program Co-ordinator (North Side).

Mr. Beattie showed a series of colored slides taken over the summer at the Mason-Rice School with views of teachers and students engaged in the 1971 Creative Arts Program, a five-week course accenting creativity in dance, drama, music and art.

Just prior to adjournment, Chairman Beckwith motioned to send a letter of condolence to Phyllis Cerf, wife of the late Bennett Cerf, noted publisher. Mrs. Cerf had often been an admirer of the Newton Primary Education classes, designed to improve the classroom environment. Mr. Beckwith's motion was passed unanimously.

Women Launch Campaign Against Heart Disease

Women have banded together to fight for many causes in the past — equal rights, prohibition, better schools, consumer protection. In this tradition, a group of Greater Boston women have formed an organization to help in the fight against one of our nation's most vital problems — heart disease.

The Women's Division of the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association was formed last January to provide an opportunity for women to take a special role in the Heart Cause.

According to Mrs. Robert H. Quinn, wife of the Attorney General and Honorary President of the Women's Division, "This month, the Women's Division is launching a community-wide membership drive to obtain the active support and interest of women throughout the Greater Boston area."

"The immensity of the heart disease problem demands the taken up with the application of make-up for stage, television, films and also basic street and corrective make-up. The second semester of 11 weeks will be basic acting, improvisational and pantomime techniques with special emphasis on self expression. No previous experience is necessary in order to join the class.

Mrs. Michaels is a ten year resident of Newton. She has been Director for seven years of "Actors Workshop," 1068 Boylston St., which is Boston's first Professional Theatre Training School.

A graduate in Theatre Arts from Carnegie Tech, Mrs. Michaels has considerable experience in teaching acting and has had numerous past performances as an actress in summer theatre and off Broadway, ranging from contemporary to Shakespearean Roles.

She is active in local television and has been hostess and narrator for five years of the award-winning program "Builders Showcase" on Channel 5 which is produced by her husband, Jerry Michaels.

Mrs. Michaels directed two showcase performances last year at Newton Junior College using her adult students in order that they might put into practice the things learned in class. This is the second year that she will teach the Adult Drama Class at Newton Junior College.

For further information about the Women's Division or the activities of the Heart Association contact the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, 677 Beacon Street, Boston, 267-4400.

Jaycees File Ordinance To Combat Residential Blight

Terrence P. Morris, chairman of the Urban Affairs Committee for the Newton Jaycees, has filed a proposed city ordinance designed to combat blight in mixed residential and commercial neighborhoods. The ordinance would also provide a direct tax return for homeowners abutting commercial and industrial properties.

Specifically, the ordinance would allow any residential property owner abutting land which is either zoned, or in fact, used for commercial or industrial purposes including parking, municipal garages, dumps or incinerators, multi-lane divided highways, railroad or rapid transit tracks, a tax rebate for improvements.

The legislation establishes the Planning Department as the controlling agency responsible for review of all projects. Prospective owners must submit plans detailing landscape designs, itemized materials and total project cost estimate of the Planning Department for initial approval.

Upon completion of the project and receipt of final approval by the Planning Department, the owner shall receive a tax rebate from the City Treasurer equal to one half of the cost of the project, but in any case, not to exceed fifty per cent of his assessment for that year. Eligibility is restricted to once every five years.

"This ordinance is particularly beneficial to the older neighborhoods such as Nonantum, Newton Corner and Upper Falls, where the incidence of mixed land use and the commercialization of the area is greatest," Morris states.

"In addition, there are pockets of blight in sections of villages like Newtonville most notably the Triangle (bounded by Crafts, Washington and Walnut Streets) and the area surrounding Security Mills, which have often been the objects of residents' concern."

Anticipating objections to limiting the tax base, Morris comments that, "in the short run, relatively few tax dollars are involved since owners in mixed areas usually have the lowest assessments. However, to the individual involved, it should be extremely important since the rebate represents a direct and tangible return on his tax dollar."

"Furthermore in the long run, the improvements will net greater tax returns because the property value will be increased. There is hopefully a wider significance in that upgrading a single house at the end of a street, upgrades the entire street, which in turn, stabilizes the neighborhood."

Should the ordinance require state enabling legislation, which is most likely there is a clause which provides for a home rule petition by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to the Legislature.

At a meeting of the Newton School Committee Monday night, a variety of actions were taken. The members, at a three-hour session in the Administration Building on Watertown st., dispensed with a total of eight items on their docket.

Church To Hold School Board Candidates Night

A Candidates' Night for contested seats on the Newton School Committee in November election will be held on Wednesday, October 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church at Homer and Center Streets, Newton Centre.

Newton Citizens for Education will sponsor the open meeting planned to give all members of the community a chance to question the candidates about the issues. The candidates will be asked to meet with small sections of the audience so that discussions can be held on an informal basis.

Following the meeting, NCE members in good standing will be given the opportunity to decide by written ballot which candidates will receive NCE endorsement. Endorsement requirements are voted by two-thirds of the voting membership.

Prior to the meeting, the NCE Forum will be distributed containing statements by the candidates on what they consider to be the most serious problems facing the schools and their suggestions to solve them. The Forum is an informational newspaper compiled by NCE on educational issues.

Chairman of the meeting is Terrence P. Morris, Newtonville. The public is invited to become better informed by attending the meeting and joining in the interchange of the discussion groups.

All members of the community are eligible to join NCE, including students. More information can be obtained from membership chairman Mrs. Rhoda Mann, 137 Temple St., West Newton, or at the meeting.
